A. H. MACKAY

The Particular Person

It is often the case when people need things, but still cannot make up their minds what to buy, and where to buy them. Sitting at home probably knitting, one's mind traverses endless vistas of stores, sees goods in a vague, confused mass, and cannot get a bit of help from such dim suggestions.

TO-DAY at Farrah's the sight of a beautiful Serge Dress in a dainty shade of navy blue in straight line, embroidery trimmings suggested a young lady who loves to be well dressed, still do not wish to spend too much money and asked the price and found that it was $19.50.

THEN the obliging saleslady took me to a case and showed me a whole row of bewitching new styles in Suits and Dresses, some in Silks, Georgettes, Serges, Tricotines, and other fashionable fabrics, in fascinating shades of taupe, navy blue, black, rust and others all very reasonably priced from $24.50 to $45.00 and the sizes fit from 16 years to 42.

Let me tell you about the new Over-Blouses which "the saleslady said they had just arrived". They are very charming in many new shades, Beige, Taupe, Jade, Navy Blue, Black, Steel, Flesh, Maize, all colors, all made with latest sleeves, glass beads and gold trimmings and embroidered with harmonious colors and some with velvet crepe-de-Chene, many Jap Silks and the price is wonderfully low from $3.25 to $19.50. They are marvellous. Seeing is believing.

And the lovely, warm rose shades in the New Sweaters, the 100 p. c. pure wool feel makes a person think of the out of door sport during the nice days of winter, and the Scarfs, just think of them, many shades, many styles, all are priced so reasonable and begin from $2.50 to $13.50.

Then alongside the Sweater department one has a chance to pick up an inexpensive skirt for house wear or a much better one in pleated style or button trimmed, Tweed, Silk or Serge Poplin as well and the price suits every one's pocketbook, from $2.65 to $24.50. Afterwards I asked the saleslady what about the Men's Department?, and she introduced me to another lady who showed me an amazingly great assortment of Suits for Sunday as well as for work, all under priced, from $19.50 to $45.00, qualities and styles talk for themselves. Pants suitable for Lumbermen, others for Sunday wear, then visited the Shirt and Neckwear departments, the Hats and Caps, the Neckties, the Sweaters, Boots and must not forget the Larrigans, the Moose Head brand with Scotch Chase label, a double guarantee, all reasonably priced.

Besides the excellent service you get at Farrah's you are properly waited upon. The Salesladies are ready to help you choose what you want.

I was also informed that 15 p. c. of all sales are given to the Miramichi Hospital Nurses' Home and that two more days and this sale will be over and prices will go back to their former level so while a person is saving money for him or herself is helping a worthy cause. Shop at

The Milking of Cows

Shall cows be milked twice or three times a day? To the average reader this may seem of small concern. To the farmer and dairyman it is a question of considerable interest. Tests have recently been made in Nova Scotia, Quebec, and Ontario. Professor Barton of Macdonald College says that it has been found from the standpoint of economy and safety that a cow giving 60 lb. of milk a day should be milked three times. Both Professor Trueman of the Nova Scotia Agricultural College and Professor Barton are agreed, however, that unless the udder is over distended there is little or no advantage to be gained by milking three times a day. These authorities are quoted in the September number of the Agricultural Gazette of Canada. Professor Wade Toole also contributed to a resolution of the same problem by giving results of tests made at the Ontario Agricultural College. The tests are to be continued and Professor Toole hopes to be able to give a more definite opinion another year than he does at present. In the meantime he shows that three high-class pure-bred cows gave more by three than by twice milking a day. His present conclusions however are the same as those of Professors Barton and Trueman.

FERTILIZE THE ORCHARD

In the November issue of the American Fruit Grower, we find the following question from a subscriber in Virginia:

"My trees are about thirty years old and have not been bearing very well lately. The foliage doesn't seem to be very strong and the fruit is rather small. I have done some pruning, but they are still rather too thick in the centre of the trees. I think, what treatment would you use? The orchard is in sod and is too steep to cultivate."

The answer will probably be interesting to our readers. We quote part of it as follows:

"Judging from the description of your orchard, I would say that your trees are starving for want of plant-food. There are hundreds of orchards over the country where the trees are in this condition, but if proper methods of fertilizing and care of leaves are used, these orchards can be made to produce very profitable crops. Of course your trees should be properly pruned. Thin out the surplus limb growth, particularly in the centre of the tree. Let in some sunshine and air. Your fruit will color better and have less trouble from fungous diseases if the head of the trees is open.

"As your orchard is too steep to cultivate, I would advise leaving it in sod and depending on fertilizing. Of course your trees should be thoroughly sprayed. You will be surprised what a big difference this treatment will make in the first year. It will pay you many times over for the fertilizer and trouble. As it is now, your orchard is not a paying proposition. By giving it the right care and following this method of treatment, your land that has been planted to corn so much that it has become poor, will not raise a good corn crop, particularly if the farmer does not cultivate it. The same thing applies to an orchard. You have got to give the trees some attention, and if you do you will be paid handsomely for everything you do for the orchard."

A rather green-looking chap went into one of our departments one day and sauntering up to the counter where dozens of men's caps were on display he looked carefully through the stock, but seemed unable to find what he wanted.

"Just what kind of a chap are you

ST. JAMES' CHURCH MEMORIAL SERVICE

A Memorial Service and the Unrolling of a Tablet to the Memory of St. James' Church Heroic Dead and Valiant Living, who fought in the Great War 1914-1919, was held during the morning service on Sunday Nov. 7th, 1920. The Rev. Clarence MacKinnon, M. A. D. D. Principal Presbyterian College, Halifax, N. S. was the Special Preacher. The Rev. Dr. MacKinnon took for his scripture the 12th and 13th chapters of Exodus and the following words from the 12th Verse: "Stones of Memorial." In a most eloquent, fervent and scholarly address Mr. MacKinnon read his congregation, and so thoroughly massed his text, that the congregation was moved to tears. The dignity and solemnity of the occasion was much commented on by many who attended the service. A large number of the members of the U. W. V. A. were in attendance to do honor to their Heroic Dead. The congregation was one of the largest that has ever assembled in St. James' Church, and were in deep reverence throughout the service.

The music rendered by the choir was of a high order, and the congregation joined in the singing with enthusiasm. Mrs. L. H. MacLean rendered a solo "O Rest in the Lord," in her usual most acceptable manner, and Mrs. W. A. Park, kindly assisted the choir as Violinist. The Last Post was well rendered by Mr. H. B. Cassidy, which added greatly to the solemnity of the service. The Memorial Tablet is of solid bronze and was erected by Henry B. Ricks & Sons, of the Junior Women's Club of St. James' Presbyterian Church who donated it to the Church, at a cost of $225.00. During the service the Pastor, Rev. L. H. MacLean read a letter from Rev. S. J. MacArthur a former pastor of the Church and who was stationed at Newcastle in charge of St. James' Church, at the time when many of the boys had enlisted. The Rev. Mr. MacArthur intimated in his letter that owing to his pastoral duties, it was impossible for him to attend, but thanked the Pastor the Rev. Mr. MacLean and the congregation for their kind invitation to him to be present, and sent a word of cheer to his old congregation expressing a wish that the service would be one of spiritual uplift to all.

The evening service which was also conducted by Dr. MacKinnon, a large number were present, who thoroughly enjoyed the masterful discourse delivered by him. Principal MacKinnon is one of the cleverest, most brilliant and forcible preachers in the Presbyterian Church of Canada and St. James' congregation was fortunate in securing him for this memorable occasion. The congregation of St. James' will long remember Principal MacKinnon as well as the enlightened vision which he imparted to them through his addresses. The Order of the Memorial Service in the morning was as follows:

"THE CHEATER" AT THE HAPPY HOUR ON WEDNESDAY

May Allison, the captivating Metro star, in "The Cheater," is announced as the feature attraction at the Happy Hour Theatre for Wednesday. The new photoplay is described as one of the sensations of the year, presenting Miss Allison in an intensely dramatic role. "The Cheater" is a screen version of "Judah," the notable stage play by Henry Arthur Jones, also author of "The Silver King," "The Lairs" and "Mrs. Dane's Defence." "Judah" was first played in London with E. S. Willard in the title role. The story of "The Cheater" deals with faith healing and when it was produced in England it created a storm of discussion. The controversy resembled that now raging here over spiritualism and kindred topics. Miss Allison's role is that of Lily Meany, who, under the name of Vashli Dethic, has won a reputation for effecting cures by faith. She knows she is a cheater and when she faces the prospect of trying to cure the crippled sister of Judah, Lord Asgarby, she experiences a change of heart due to Judah's nobility and the simple faith of his little sister.

The drama of her redemption is said to have been developed with tremendous dramatic skill. King Baggot, widely known for his work as a screen star, is cast as Judah. Others in the cast are Frank Currier, Harry Van Meter, Percy Challenger, May Gracel and Lucille Ward. The drama was adapted for the screen by Lotz Zellner and Henry Otto directed the production. W. M. Edmond photographed the picture and E. H. Webster designed and executed the handsome interior settings. The production, one of Metro's "fewer and better" kind, was mounted lavishly.

PRESENTATION ON TUESDAY EVENING

On Tuesday evening, Nov. 2nd, the members of the Women's Institute (16 of them) met at the home of Mrs. J. D. Lyon and presented Mrs. Miller with a small gift and this address. The address was read by Miss Joseph M. Lyon and the presentation was made by Mrs. E. J. Parker. The ladies present enjoyed a social time together and some music, and readings, and luncheon was served by the hostess. Mrs. Miller was taken completely by surprise and she thanked the members of the W. I. for their kind thoughts for her. She said she would never forget her kind friends and the good times she had had in the Millerton W. I.

Mrs. Miller leaves for Texas very shortly where she will visit her son, Allan.

Millerton, N. B.
November 2, 1920
To Mrs. T. C. Miller,
Dear Mrs. Miller:—
We, the members of the Millerton Women's Institute, gathered here, wish to express on this occasion some of our feelings towards you. We sympathize deeply with you in your recent bereavement which has necessitated a change in your home arrangements, and we have learned of your contemplated departure from our midst with feelings of the deepest regret. We recall the fact that you were our first President and that since the organization of this Branch in 1912 you have been a regular attendant and a consistent source of help and inspiration in all our undertakings. We shall greatly miss your counsel in our plans and your talent in our program.

Your character and personality too have been such as to win our admiration and gratitude and we wish you to take with you our respect and love and our very warm wishes for the future.

We also pray you to accept the accompanying small token of our regard. We offer this not for its own intrinsic value but for what it represents, viz: our highest regard and best wishes.

In the days of the future may you sometimes think with fondness of your old friends of the Millerton Women's Institute and be assured that we shall always cherish you in our memory.

"Friendship, mysterious cement of the soul, sweetener of life, and solder of society. I owe thee much: thou hast deserved from me far, far beyond what I can ever pay."
