Poetical effusions under this head will be inserted at the rate of five cents per line—the money in all cases to accompany the manuscript.

ON HENRY DUNLOP McKEOWN.
My golden haired darling, my first born is
It lies from all pain in its casket so small,
But its soul with the angels, new tunes will swallow.
Tho' the chords of my heart wear a funeral pall.

My bonnie sweet baby with his angel blue
eyes,
Will ne'er clasp his hands, in sweet innocent
glance:
But the Lord will it so. He had need of
the price.
His will must be done—may He ever strengthen me.

MRS. ALICE BARTLEY—DIED AUG. 24TH, 1881.
AGED 24 YEARS.

"Asleep in Jesus," as I gazed
Upon her peaceful smiling face,
I felt 'twas sinful thus to weep,
Since she had found a resting place.

When wildly tossing with her pain,
Her fevered longings were for rest,
We sought to soothe her, all in vain;
She sleeps at last, on Jesus' breast.

Her childhood's home she wandered through,
Telling how sweet the daisies grew,
How sweet the merry bird had sang
In that bright home beyond the sea;
And then anon her voice would rise
In clear, sweet notes I'll happy be
In that bright home beyond the skies.

And then her brother's name we heard,
I may not speak my last "Good By,"
She said, "I wished to see his face
And kiss him as my death drew nigh."

Poor Alice dost thou see us now
As o'er thy grave we sadly bend,
While memory with its magic powers,
Reminds us of thy North, dear friend.

Canst thou in that bright world of light,
Watch over those on earth so dear,
Those pledges of thy heart's pure love,
For one who mourns thee sadly here.

Oh may thy gentle spirit lure
To brighter realms thy treasures here,
And in that world where love is pure,
May all at last in joy appear.

WM. DURNIN, WEST WAWANOSH, AGED 17
YEARS, 1 MONTH, 8 DAYS.
Death is working all around us.
He is working at our door.
He has taken off our brother,
To that other happy shore.

He was lately bright and happy,
Gliding down the stream of life;
Now he lies a withered flower,
Faded by a blast of death.

Yes, our comrade's taken early,
Coming into prime of life,
All reminding those around him,
That their time is very brief.

We have worked and played together,
In the days now since gone by;
And when I think on those past days,
A tear falls from my eye.

We had met and I we had parted,
Just one week before his death;
Little did we dream we parted
For the last time on this earth.

Yes, we've very early parted,
By the great God in his love,
But we hope to be united,
In the heavenly home above.
