Husband's Will Destroyed to Save Son From Gallows

Romantic Story of a Mother's Love Was Brought to Light by Suit in Illinois Probate Court.
AURORA, Ill., Aug. 22.—A mother's love for her erring son, her alleged yielding to his importunities to destroy her husband's will, which left all of his property to his grandchildren, in order that the son might have money to save him from the penitentiary or the hangman's rope, is the romantic story told in a petition filed in the Probate Court of Kane County by Kate Terry Prindle and Laura Terry Hunt, to recover the estate of their grandfather, Richard Terry, a wealthy Aurora land owner, who died in 1888.

The mother's alleged confession on her death bed that she destroyed the will so that her son might have money to fight a charge of murdering his wife led to the filing of the petition.
By the terms of the will, which, it is asserted, was destroyed by his widow and son, Arthur Terry, all of Richard Terry's estate was left to his grand-daughters, who are bringing the suit to recover property valued at thousands of dollars in the heart of Aurora's business district.

Uncle Sam's Money Will Be Washed.

Owing to the popular agitation in regard to the filthy condition of much of the paper money in circulation, the United States Treasury Department is now making the experiment of laundering all the grimy bills that are returned by the banks for redemption, says the August Bopkeeper. For some time past the department has been redeeming and destroying about $2,000,000 in bills daily, most of them being of one and two dollar denominations, and the idea of washing them and returning them to circulation was one of the economies suggested by Charles D. Norton—now secretary to the President—formerly assistant secretary of the Treasury. The machine now in use is the invention of Frank B. Churchill. Its method of operation is to take the bills, spread them on a screen, and pass them rapidly through a solution of soap and water, which takes off the grime. Another disc then carries them through a strong antiseptic solution which acts as a germ destroyer, after which a third bath removes all traces of the other two washes and prepares the bills for the "plater," which is similar in character to the roller used in pressing new money. It is claimed for the machine that, after the thoroughly cleansed bills have been run through the "plater," they are in almost every respect as good as new, and renovating process not only restoring the original colors of the ink but also the crispness of new money.

Before people became afraid of the germs that lurk in dirty currency, bills remained in circulation for from four to five years. Since the present agitation began, however, the average life of the bill has been less than fourteen months. According to J. D. Ralph, Director of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, the life of a banknote will now be extended about 60 per cent which will mean an annual saving to the Government of nearly a million dollars.

PLEASE RETURN IT—Would the party who picked up a four-jointed trout rod on the Logy Bay Road yesterday return it to this office? It is the property of a poor man who had it on loan from another and who cannot afford to pay the cost of it.
