

A CRITIC OF TROUSERS.

The Masculine Garment is Pittery Assailed.

An unparagoned enemy of trousers has arisen who will have none of the specious arguments urged in favor of those garments by a tailors' paper, quoted by us the other day, says the London News. He says (and we are glad to see that he treats the subject with a proper earnestness): "The epoch of the trouser is certainly the most miserable epoch in English history, when we consider the disastrous wars it has seen, the great strikes and armies of unemployed, and the alarming increase in insanity. The costume of the ancient Romans had nothing to do with the downfall of their Empire. That costume was in vogue long before the birth of Romulus and Remus, and was worn by the whole of the civilized world during the rise and progress of Rome and for centuries after its downfall."

Again, as to the argument that our soldiers at Waterloo wore trousers, he points out that "the victories of Wellington were chiefly due to the prowess of the killed Highlanders, 'those pitted devils' that Napoleon dreaded, and there is not any doubt that the victory of Trafalgar was due chiefly to the genius of Nelson, who wore knickerbockers."

As to the allegation of increased ability in the arts and sciences in this trousered age, "What art productions of this epoch can compare," he demands, "with the incomparable productions of the 'Tenebrosities'?" The science that we are just beginning to understand was well known to the Knights Templars, the Rosicrucians and the monks of the middle ages, who wisely conserved it to themselves to use for the benefit of the people rather than allow it to be widespread and used for criminal purposes by hypnotists and other charlatans as at the present time. As for literature, it is simply absurd to compare any writers of this period (except perhaps Tennyson) with Shakespeare."

Dear Mother

Your little ones are a constant care in Fall and Winter weather. They will catch cold. Do you know about Shiloh's Consumption Cure, the Lung Tonic, and what it has done for so many? It is said to be the only reliable remedy for all diseases of the air passages in children. It is absolutely harmless and pleasant to take. Its guaranteed to cure or your money is returned. The price is 25c per bottle, and all dealers in medicine sell.

SHILOH

This remedy should be in every household.

Rain Caused by Artillery Fire.

The late war in the far east is providing further data for those who believe that rain can be brought on at will by the use of artillery fire, in which direction many experiments have been made, especially in the arid deserts in the western States. According to an official report by General Kouropatkin during one of the fierce artillery duels carried on to the south of Mukden the incessant firing brought on a torrential downpour of rain, although the sky had been previously free from clouds. The French General Chappelle, who was following the Russians' operations in Manchuria, confirms this phenomenon, instancing other occasions when the same thing happened to his own personal knowledge.

BETTER THAN SPANKING.

Spanking does not cure children of bad habits. There is a constitutionally sound cause for this trouble. Mrs. M. SUMMERS, Box 8, Windsor, Ont., will send free to any mother her successful home treatment, with full instructions. Send no money, but write her to-day if your children trouble you in this way. Don't blame the child; the chances are it can't help it. This treatment also cures adults and aged people troubled with urine difficulties by day or night.

The Principal Motor Power.

Rounder—So you want me to go in business with you. As I understand it, I am to furnish the capital and you the experience. Rounder—No, sir. You are to furnish the capital and I am to furnish the nerve.

EYES AND NOSE RAN WATER.—H. G. Archer, of Brewer, Maine, says: "I have had Catarrh for several years. Water would run from my eyes and nose for days at a time. About four months ago I was induced to try Dr. Agnew's Catarrhal Powder, and since using the wonderful remedy I have not had an attack. It relieves in ten minutes." 50 cents—37.

What Kansas Owes the Hen. (Everybody's Magazine.)

Nightingales, larks, swans and such poetic fowl have been hailed and hymned until the world is very weary of them. Where is the robust American boy who will write high with joyful pen the earnestness, necessary here? Why do our children read about those fabulous geese of the Roman capital? The hens of Kansas are worthy subjects. Here is one year's work of them: $7,226,111 worth of eggs, which, as a Kansas economist does well to remind the world, is interest at 6 per cent, on $14,522,220. To say nothing of "broilers" and other by-products. Kansas then does more money for Kansas than do her sheep, wool, barley, flax, wheat, sorghum, oats, potatoes. The hen should be the bird of Kansas as the eagle is the bird of freedom.

London Strap Hangers in Revolt.

Certain American institutions the Englishman takes kindly. There is, however, one abuse introduced into London by the "American invasion," to which the people not only object, but against which they are preparing vigorously to fight. This is the overcrowding of cars on the New York system. The "strap hangers" are in full revolt. They will have seats or know the reason why. After the English fashion this movement has been of slow growth. It began, of course, with innumerable "kicks" by individual Londoners and a flood of letters to the Times. Then came organization, and now is promised an appeal to the courts by three associations formed expressly to stop overcrowding in the cars.

SOME GOOD ADVICE.

Keep good company or none. Never be idle; if your hands cannot be usefully employed, see to the cultivation of your mind. Always speak the truth. Make few promises; live up to your engagements. Keep your own secrets, if you have any. When you speak to persons, look them in the face. Good company and good conversation are the very sinews of virtue. Earn money before you spend it. Good character is above all things else. Your character cannot be much injured except by your own acts. If you speak evil of you, let your life prove it false. Drink no kind of intoxicating liquors. Ever live within your income. When you retire to bed think over what you have done during the day. Make no haste to be rich, if you would prosper. Be kind and steady gains give competency with a quiet mind. Never play at games of chance. Earn money before you spend it. Never run into debt unless you see plainly a way to get out again. Never borrow money you can avoid it. Never speak ill of any one. Be just before you are generous. Read over the above maxims at least once a week.

TALE OF A CAT.

Once there was a little cat. He enjoyed hot milk for breakfast. He liked to play all the time. He thought it great fun to make beds. He would scamper under every piece from under-sheet to counterpane. He would hurl himself at the pillows as if to smother the thought that came into his mind. He would tear under the bed and out again for no reason at all. He would rush up and downstairs like a whirlwind. He would climb the rubber tree much to the sorrow of the "rubber." He could run up the portieres as nimble as a little mouse. He loved to jump at the lace curtains and swing till he was dizzy. Once in a while he caught a mouse, and then, alas! he showed his cruelty. To handle a string was to challenge him for a "wrestle" that was likely to end in scratches. But he's getting a big cat now and gives promise of achieving the most imposing feline dignity.

Like a Flower.

WALL STREET MEN.

Their Ethics Are Delicate, if Peculiar—Their Power.

And who are these mighty men of Wall Street? What are their natures, purposes, ideals, methods? What is their work after all? In private life it may be, and probably is, the fact that most of these Wall Streeters are honest after their own standard, and scrupulously exact. That is to say, they observe the rules of the game. The stealing from the public, and from each other, is done with the most regard to the proprieties. The rascality of the sort called "eminently respectable."

How to get his pound of flesh without drawing blood was the puzzle of Shylock; how to rob a comparatively and dearly beloved brother without violating the laws against robbery is the conundrum upon which the Wall Streeters constantly wheels his brain.

And he goes to church with his family can business man in his highest state of development. His knowledge of the affairs every Sunday in a most decent and commendable way. In Wall Street will be found the American is not a rusty piece in all his mental machinery. He is awake from his nose-strings up. He can go to the narrow of business matters as unerringly as a foxhound tells fox from hare. He is a masterful man, and he knows it.

He controls those who control Presidents and Cabinets. He is not an editorialist, but he owns the man who does. He makes no stump speeches, but he can buy all the eloquence for seven cents. He is an ancient scene-shifter, at the back of the big screen; and grins sardonically at the audience in front of the puppet. He says the man who pulls the wires—Tom Watson, in his Magazine for December.

Safety Found in an Elevator.

(Rochester, N. Y., Post-Express.) Many persons have an objection to riding in elevators, or, more properly speaking, this objection should be classed as a feeling of dread or fear, but according to the superintendent of a big office building in Philadelphia, the safest place for a person to be in is in an elevator—that is, statistically speaking. In the set of elevators for which statistics have been kept by the superintendent there has been an average transportation of 2,400,000 persons each year for seven years. The aggregate of 16,800,000, and of this number but one person has been injured, and that injury did not result fatally.

Steady Growth in Popularity of Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Made by Cures Like That of Simon V. Landry—He Tells about It Himself.

River Bourgeois, Richmond Co., O. B.—Jan. (Special.)—Among the many men in this part of Canada whom Dodd's Kidney Pills have relieved of aches and pains and weakness and made strong and able to do a good day's work is Mr. Simon V. Landry. Mr. Landry has numerous friends here who can vouch for the story he tells of his cure.

"I was bothered for over a year," he says, "with back, weak legs, palpitation of the heart, general weakness and shortness of breath; in fact I could not work and was a total wreck. Dodd's Kidney Pills so popular. Their popularity has grown steadily for thirteen years. It must be well founded."

SUNLIGHT SOAP

Wash oilcloths and linoleums with warm water and Sunlight Soap, rinse clean and wipe dry. The colors will be preserved and the surface unharmed.

Common soaps fade the colors and injure the surface. Sunlight Soap cleans, freshens and preserves oilcloths and linoleums.

Sunlight Soap washes clothes white without injury to the most delicate fabrics, or to the hands, for it contains nothing that can injure either clothes or hands.

Sunlight Soap is better than other soaps, but is best when used in the Sunlight way (follow directions).

Equally good with hard or soft water.

Swearing and Strange Oaths

The Westminster Gazette, which has been indulging in a prize competition on Swearing Strange Oaths, says: "We have received many interesting and some learned essays on swearing, and one or two collections of more or less strange oaths, but no one writer has quite realized the essay we suggested."

The oaths in particular were unsatisfactory. Shakespeare's supreme effort in Macbeth, often quoted by our competitors, is, after all, a curse. One competitor alone makes a really practical suggestion: "Why should we not say, as Punch once suggested, 'Negro! and Zambri! How cold it has been?' This might easily be developed—e.g., at a picnic, 'Benoi! We've forgotten the corkscrew!' 'By Schweppel! where is the soda water?' and so on. An esteemed contemporary has lately sought to strike out an original line, and has made some excellent suggestions, which we cannot do better than quote: 'Bimetallism!' 'Biarbonate of polish!' and (doubtless for special emergency) 'Gottestemmer!'"

"To these we venture to add 'By-laws' for cyclists and others, 'By-elections' for political purposes, and 'By-and-by' for everybody."

Good essays were sent in by Neh. H., A. R. Orange, Captain Leonard Bell, S. Cunningham, and H. F. C.; and the prize of two guineas is awarded to Mr. Richard E. Crook, 16 Trinity College, Dublin, for the following:

The first remark to be made with regard to profane swearing is that popular ethics on the subject are in a thoroughly chaotic state. The ordinary Sunday school condemnation of the habit is as inconsistent as the palpit condemnation of gambling which leave the stock exchange untouched.

For surely the first thing to be recognized about the man who misses his train and says: "D—!" is that his language has no connection with reference to any theological dogma. If the man who, at the Professor's Breakfast Table, uttered three words, two of which ("Webster's Unabridged," and "the first an emphatic monosyllable, had really 'visualized' St. Paul's conception of a groaning and travelling Universe (including Webster's Unabridged), I for one would find a unique interest in his view-point. But let any reader ask the next man in the train who speaks of "the deuce" an inevitable overflow of nervous discharge. Now, human behavior under these conditions may take several forms.

Some people let their emotions explode down "ticket-of-leave" channels. The presence of the domestic encumbrance was an aggressive adherent of the Salvation Army. When diplomatic relations with the mistress break breaking point, the electrical condition of the kitchen atmosphere, always indicated by the overhead strains of "Tis life everlasting," 'tis heaven below.

An Indian Territory Song.

The Chickasha (Ill. T.) Express reports from one of its Territorial exchanges: "Sing a song of pestilence, a fellow full of rye, four and twenty serpens dancing in his eye; when his eyes were opened he shouted for his life. Wasn't he a pretty chump to go before his wife? His hat was in the parlor, underneath the chair; his boots were in the hallway, his coat was on a chair; his trousers in the kitchen, his collar on the shelf, but he hasn't any notion where he was himself; when the morn was breaking, some one heard him call—his head was on the ice box, which was the best of all."

ISSUE NO. 2, 1906

DON'TS THAT WILL AVOID AUTOMOBILE ACCIDENTS.

Don't allow your chauffeur to drink liquor while in charge of your car, running your own car avoid run your self.

Don't run on the wrong side of the road except at narrow, intersecting streets.

Don't try to see how close you can run to pedestrians. Give them even more room than they require. Many walkers have heart trouble.

Don't take any kind of a turn or curve at twenty miles an hour; better go for miles and be able to do it again.

Don't put oil on your registration number and throw dust on it. An honest man isn't afraid of identification.

Don't grab at the things that concern the chauffeur, and don't take a passenger again who has grabbed once—if you ever are able to go out again.

Don't run away after running down anybody; you'll stand a better chance if you are away.

Don't ever act like anything but an intelligent gentleman.—The Outing Magazine for January.

HEART RELIEF IN HALF AN HOUR.

A lady in New York State, writing of her cure by Dr. Agnew's Cure for the Heart, says: "I feel like one brought back from the dead, so great was my suffering from heart trouble and so almost miraculous my recovery through the agency of this wonderful treatment. I owe my life to it."

Testing a Building's Safety.

When you suspect that anything is going wrong with a public building, say St. Paul's Cathedral or the Abbey, and a crack appears you paste brown paper across the crack. The least bit of movement tears the paper and then you know whether the mischief is stopped or whether it is continuing. There is also an electrical apparatus for measuring vibration that can not be noted by natural observation.

Literally.

(London Globe.) "You know Smith, the millionaire, don't you?" inquired a friend of a doctor. "Yes," said the doctor. "He's a patient of mine." "Pretty wide awake sort of man, isn't he?" "That exactly describes him," said the doctor; "I am treating him for insomnia."
