Hospital Staff Shown To Be Living in Conditions Below Health Standard.

Interested citizens who have visited Victoria Hospital to investigate conditions before deciding on the merits of the nurses' home bylaw, unanimously and emphatically without further delay to provide additional accommodation asked for by Col. Gartshore, James Gray, and their fellow members on the hospital trust.

Col. Gartshore, who left recently on a round-the-world trip to make a first-hand study of foreign bus ness conditions, promised his friends before his departure to stand again for election to the hospital board, and if the bylaw is endorsed by the people, the work will be carried out under the direct charge of Col. Gartshore, Mr. Gray and their associates.

Re-Election Conceded. That the colonel will be re-elected generally conceded. His work on chalf of the hospital has been one of the outstanding features of civic service for many years, and there is a disposition among the different tions interested in the elec-

The hospital authorities, with their special knowledge and facilities, give the nurses all of hte protection that is possible under such circumstances, but conditions existing are always a menace to the efficiency and discipline of the nursing staff. ese rooms could have some usefulness for hospital purposes, but undesirable and unsatisfactory for either patients or nurses. The hospital is now in urgent need of the space for the X-ray department and for the laboratories, which make blood tests and examinations that are now regarded as essential to the intelligent care of the sick.

The rooms on the main floors of the wing, now used to accommodate about sixty of the nurses, are required to relieve congestion in var-

Use Army Shacks.

For instance, under existing conditions, the one-story fr me "army shacks," built by the department of militia to meet the temporary requirements of the war period, have been pressed into regular service by the hospital. In one building, children, suffering from scarlet fever and diptheria, are quartered. In another, accommodation is maintained for ten maternity patients.

These buildings are carried wooden posts, with a board skirt-ing, and have no permanent founda-tions. It was not intended that they should be kept for ordinary purposes, and as a result of their temporary construction, the cost of keeping them in repair is becoming excessive, and it will soon be more pnomical to abandon them than to attempt to keep them in service.

city registry office to be built on King street, west of Ridout.

At first it was thought that this office could be built at an approximate cost of $50,000, but it has been learnt that all the tenders submitted, of which there are four, are in the neighborhood of $65,000 to $70,000.

It is thought that the aldermen may throw out these tenders as being too high and call for new ones.

It is problematical when the construction of this building will be started, as it is necessary for the council to first secure the sanction of the provincial government to erect it on county property, as they intend to do.
