

NO COMPLAINTS—ONLY PRAISE
From Those Who Use
Rowat's Coffee.
70c Pound. Try a Pound Today.
T.A. Rowat & Co.
250 Dundas St. Phone 3051-3052

DIAMONDS
A Diamond for an engagement ring. Beautiful Blue White Diamonds set in Platinum, white, green and yellow gold.
Rings from $25 to $1,250.
C. H. Ward & Co.
Diamond Merchants, Jewelers and Opticians.
286 Richmond St. Phone 1084.

TENTS
We Make Everything Made of Canvas
351 Giesse St. Phone 6197.

WHEN YOU Buy a Wray's Diamond You know you have the best. 1-3 Off Present Prices. THE STORE WITH THE STOCK.

WOOD MOSTLY HARDWOOD.
12" and 16" BLOCKS.
DOMESTIC LUMP, MILLER CREEK also CANNEL LUMP
Chantler Bros.
263 BATHURST. PHONE 347.

LONDON OPTICAL
SAVE YOUR EYES EXAMINED.
M. DAMRA, OPTOMETRIST.
Dominion Savings Building, Richmond Street. Phone 6180.

Smithing COAL
Prompt delivery to all parts of the city.
Orchard's
45 York St. Phone 384.

SPECIAL SALE
—of—
FINE DIAMONDS, PEARLS, WATCHES, JEWELRY, SILVERWARE and Unusual Bric-a-Brac. Startling Reductions.

Barnards
Diamond Merchant, Jeweler and Silversmith.
399 Richmond Street.

Expert Eye Examination
CONSULT OUR SPECIALISTS.
26 Years' Experience Making GLASSES OF QUALITY.

Brown Optical COMPANY.
223 Dundas St. Phone 1577.
ALSO—Hamilton, Montreal, Windsor.
Largest Exclusive Optical House in Canada.

FOUR PERSONS DIE AS CAR PLUNGES INTO ICY CREEK

Fatal Accident Occurs On Dearborn Road Near Detroit.

ONE WOMAN SAVED
Efforts To Resuscitate Victims By Pulmotors Fail.

Special to The Advertiser.
Detroit, April 16.—Four persons met slow deaths when an automobile crashed through a bridge railing at Dearborn road and Pere Marquette railroad crossing, plunged 10 feet into an icy creek and overturned on the bottom, securely imprisoning its occupants at 9 o'clock last night.
Mrs. Dorothy Gordon, 23 years old, 60 Windsor street, alone survived of the five who plunged into the creek. She is in Detray Hospital in a critical condition, suffering from shock and exposure.
The victims were: Lester Cherry, 25 years old, 2046 Sixth avenue; Mr. and Mrs. Harry Shields, same address; an unidentified woman.
The Detroit fire department's rescue squad and Springfield police worked for an hour trying to resuscitate the victims on the bank of the creek, but life was extinct when they were dragged out.

Trapped Beneath Machine.
The occupants were trapped under the machine in six feet of water for five minutes before rescuers released them.

The best obtainable version of the accident was that the car was going east on Dearborn road and was forced to one side by a west-bound automobile. The machine was not upon the bridge, but it hurtled through the railing and dived into the middle of the stream after a drop of ten feet. Rescuers were brought running to the scene, a lonely spot, by screams of Mrs. Gordon, who was thrown out of the car in its death leap and saved herself by clinging to the machine. Mrs. Gordon's cries were heard by Dell Purdue and Policeman Gerald, who were in passing machines.

Purdue dived underneath the car and managed with great difficulty to release the occupants. In the meantime a call was put in for the rescue squad of the fire department and Springfield police.

Mr. and Mrs. Shields, Cherry, and the unidentified woman, were laid on the bank and the battle against death was started with pulmotors.

All Pronounced Dead.
The rescuers worked unceasingly over the bodies, and would not give up until a physician pronounced them dead.

Three persons are in Midland Park Hospital with fractured skulls as a result of a collision between an interurban car and an automobile at Woodward avenue and Washington street, Royal Oak, at 6:30 o'clock Sunday night. The injured are: Elmer Johnson, 46; Brandt Johnson, 12; Leroy Johnson, 9.

According to witnesses the automobile was going south on Woodward avenue when it was struck by an interurban.

The three persons injured were pitched out of the car striking their heads on the pavement.

Claims Germany Willing For Solution of Ruhr Fuss

President Ebert Says Country Ready For a Just Peace and Honest Understanding With Nations.

By CARL D. GROAT.
Special Cable to The London Advertiser and The Philadelphia Public Ledger. Copyright.

Berlin, April 16.—"At any moment we are ready for a solution which guarantees the unity in the land of our fathers and the freedom of German labor under a just peace reached by an honest, free understanding from nation to nation."

"The unfettered German worker is willing to bear all burdens compatible with his capacity, and honestly to assume a due share in the so-bitterly-needed reconstruction of the world's sick economy."
"But under threatening mouths of loaded murderous weapons, an unfettered German worker cannot now and never can develop."

Expresses German Willingness.
President Frederick Ebert, in an exclusive interview granted to the writer—one of the extremely few touching on actual political questions he has ever given—thus repeated Germany's expressed willingness for peace.

He coupled it, however, with a bitter denunciation of French procedure in the Ruhr, where he declared black Africans with loaded carbines and drawn sabres had driven several hundred workers and officials with their wives and children, from their dear-belowed homes, sometimes destroying their goods in the manner of vandals, simply because "these people showed fidelity to their fatherland."

Reviewing the French course, especially the Easter Saturday "blood bath at Krupp's," the president sarcastically declared: "All that occurred in the name of a peaceful, purely economic engineering mission, which had the purpose of speeding up Germany's deliveries."

"Every utterance regarding the Ruhr situation at the present time must naturally stand under the shadow of that fearful blood bath among the peaceful Krupp workers at Essen. "You, yourself, undoubtedly have seen from the mourning ceremony—attended by representatives of the whole German nation at the Reichstag—how all Germany has been blind, most deeply stirred up through this newest terrorist act of brutal militarism committed in the midst of so-called peace."

No Provocation.
"A report of the Krupp factory council, in which Christian Unions and Free Unions as well as Communists are represented, has proven incontrovertibly to every unprejudiced and open minded person before the whole world that there cannot be any talk of provocation by the workers against French troops."

"On the contrary, on the part of the Germans—workers and directors as well as laborers—everything humanely possible occurred to bring about a peaceful solution of the conflict at the Krupp works."

"Not a single hair of the French was harmed."

"Where, then, was any threat? Ebert, waxing warmer, declared, "The mass murder of laborers at Krupp's on Easter Saturday is symbolic of the whole Ruhr district."

Here again Ebert referred to "Black Africans."

"And this occurs in the midst of so-called peace. Force everywhere; expulsions, disorganization of thousands of peaceful German families who in the name of a peaceful mission, were pursuing their work and desire nothing more earnestly than with labor of their hands and heads to cooperate in healing their Fatherland bleeding from a thousand wounds, and therewith, also healing Europe and the world," he concluded.

Outlining the question Hon. Mr. Taschereau spoke of the two millions of French Canadians who are now in the United States, gave his reasons for their leaving, and offered certain remedies for stopping the exodus.

The premier said that agriculture credits had been tried before, and failed. It would be preferable to give money instead of lending. The banks, he thought, should lend money to the farmers at five per cent interest, as they do in Australia and New Zealand.

He emphatically urged the abolition of debtors' prisons, as it had proved ruinous to farmers.

and that he has not contributed to their support or to the support of his wife for a long period. The theft charge arose out of his borrowing a shotgun from Anthony Koppelo and failing to return it. He stated in court that while hunting and fishing he left the gun standing against a tree while he went up to catch fish, and that upon his return the gun had disappeared.

bers of the St. Denis Club here Saturday night.

"No matter what party he is in power politically, it must concentrate on the development of our rural centres; it is not merely a political question, it is eminently an economical question," declared Mr. Taschereau.

Outlining the question Hon. Mr. Taschereau spoke of the two millions of French Canadians who are now in the United States, gave his reasons for their leaving, and offered certain remedies for stopping the exodus.

The premier said that agriculture credits had been tried before, and failed. It would be preferable to give money instead of lending. The banks, he thought, should lend money to the farmers at five per cent interest, as they do in Australia and New Zealand.

He emphatically urged the abolition of debtors' prisons, as it had proved ruinous to farmers.

and that he has not contributed to their support or to the support of his wife for a long period. The theft charge arose out of his borrowing a shotgun from Anthony Koppelo and failing to return it. He stated in court that while hunting and fishing he left the gun standing against a tree while he went up to catch fish, and that upon his return the gun had disappeared.

bers of the St. Denis Club here Saturday night.

"No matter what party he is in power politically, it must concentrate on the development of our rural centres; it is not merely a political question, it is eminently an economical question," declared Mr. Taschereau.

Outlining the question Hon. Mr. Taschereau spoke of the two millions of French Canadians who are now in the United States, gave his reasons for their leaving, and offered certain remedies for stopping the exodus.

The premier said that agriculture credits had been tried before, and failed. It would be preferable to give money instead of lending. The banks, he thought, should lend money to the farmers at five per cent interest, as they do in Australia and New Zealand.

He emphatically urged the abolition of debtors' prisons, as it had proved ruinous to farmers.

and that he has not contributed to their support or to the support of his wife for a long period. The theft charge arose out of his borrowing a shotgun from Anthony Koppelo and failing to return it. He stated in court that while hunting and fishing he left the gun standing against a tree while he went up to catch fish, and that upon his return the gun had disappeared.

bers of the St. Denis Club here Saturday night.

"No matter what party he is in power politically, it must concentrate on the development of our rural centres; it is not merely a political question, it is eminently an economical question," declared Mr. Taschereau.

Outlining the question Hon. Mr. Taschereau spoke of the two millions of French Canadians who are now in the United States, gave his reasons for their leaving, and offered certain remedies for stopping the exodus.

The premier said that agriculture credits had been tried before, and failed. It would be preferable to give money instead of lending. The banks, he thought, should lend money to the farmers at five per cent interest, as they do in Australia and New Zealand.

He emphatically urged the abolition of debtors' prisons, as it had proved ruinous to farmers.

and that he has not contributed to their support or to the support of his wife for a long period. The theft charge arose out of his borrowing a shotgun from Anthony Koppelo and failing to return it. He stated in court that while hunting and fishing he left the gun standing against a tree while he went up to catch fish, and that upon his return the gun had disappeared.

bers of the St. Denis Club here Saturday night.

"No matter what party he is in power politically, it must concentrate on the development of our rural centres; it is not merely a political question, it is eminently an economical question," declared Mr. Taschereau.

Outlining the question Hon. Mr. Taschereau spoke of the two millions of French Canadians who are now in the United States, gave his reasons for their leaving, and offered certain remedies for stopping the exodus.

The premier said that agriculture credits had been tried before, and failed. It would be preferable to give money instead of lending. The banks, he thought, should lend money to the farmers at five per cent interest, as they do in Australia and New Zealand.

He emphatically urged the abolition of debtors' prisons, as it had proved ruinous to farmers.

and that he has not contributed to their support or to the support of his wife for a long period. The theft charge arose out of his borrowing a shotgun from Anthony Koppelo and failing to return it. He stated in court that while hunting and fishing he left the gun standing against a tree while he went up to catch fish, and that upon his return the gun had disappeared.

bers of the St. Denis Club here Saturday night.

"No matter what party he is in power politically, it must concentrate on the development of our rural centres; it is not merely a political question, it is eminently an economical question," declared Mr. Taschereau.

Outlining the question Hon. Mr. Taschereau spoke of the two millions of French Canadians who are now in the United States, gave his reasons for their leaving, and offered certain remedies for stopping the exodus.

The premier said that agriculture credits had been tried before, and failed. It would be preferable to give money instead of lending. The banks, he thought, should lend money to the farmers at five per cent interest, as they do in Australia and New Zealand.

He emphatically urged the abolition of debtors' prisons, as it had proved ruinous to farmers.

and that he has not contributed to their support or to the support of his wife for a long period. The theft charge arose out of his borrowing a shotgun from Anthony Koppelo and failing to return it. He stated in court that while hunting and fishing he left the gun standing against a tree while he went up to catch fish, and that upon his return the gun had disappeared.

bers of the St. Denis Club here Saturday night.

"No matter what party he is in power politically, it must concentrate on the development of our rural centres; it is not merely a political question, it is eminently an economical question," declared Mr. Taschereau.

Outlining the question Hon. Mr. Taschereau spoke of the two millions of French Canadians who are now in the United States, gave his reasons for their leaving, and offered certain remedies for stopping the exodus.

The premier said that agriculture credits had been tried before, and failed. It would be preferable to give money instead of lending. The banks, he thought, should lend money to the farmers at five per cent interest, as they do in Australia and New Zealand.

He emphatically urged the abolition of debtors' prisons, as it had proved ruinous to farmers.

and that he has not contributed to their support or to the support of his wife for a long period. The theft charge arose out of his borrowing a shotgun from Anthony Koppelo and failing to return it. He stated in court that while hunting and fishing he left the gun standing against a tree while he went up to catch fish, and that upon his return the gun had disappeared.

bers of the St. Denis Club here Saturday night.

"No matter what party he is in power politically, it must concentrate on the development of our rural centres; it is not merely a political question, it is eminently an economical question," declared Mr. Taschereau.

Outlining the question Hon. Mr. Taschereau spoke of the two millions of French Canadians who are now in the United States, gave his reasons for their leaving, and offered certain remedies for stopping the exodus.

The premier said that agriculture credits had been tried before, and failed. It would be preferable to give money instead of lending. The banks, he thought, should lend money to the farmers at five per cent interest, as they do in Australia and New Zealand.

He emphatically urged the abolition of debtors' prisons, as it had proved ruinous to farmers.

and that he has not contributed to their support or to the support of his wife for a long period. The theft charge arose out of his borrowing a shotgun from Anthony Koppelo and failing to return it. He stated in court that while hunting and fishing he left the gun standing against a tree while he went up to catch fish, and that upon his return the gun had disappeared.

bers of the St. Denis Club here Saturday night.

"No matter what party he is in power politically, it must concentrate on the development of our rural centres; it is not merely a political question, it is eminently an economical question," declared Mr. Taschereau.

Outlining the question Hon. Mr. Taschereau spoke of the two millions of French Canadians who are now in the United States, gave his reasons for their leaving, and offered certain remedies for stopping the exodus.

The premier said that agriculture credits had been tried before, and failed. It would be preferable to give money instead of lending. The banks, he thought, should lend money to the farmers at five per cent interest, as they do in Australia and New Zealand.

He emphatically urged the abolition of debtors' prisons, as it had proved ruinous to farmers.

and that he has not contributed to their support or to the support of his wife for a long period. The theft charge arose out of his borrowing a shotgun from Anthony Koppelo and failing to return it. He stated in court that while hunting and fishing he left the gun standing against a tree while he went up to catch fish, and that upon his return the gun had disappeared.

bers of the St. Denis Club here Saturday night.

"No matter what party he is in power politically, it must concentrate on the development of our rural centres; it is not merely a political question, it is eminently an economical question," declared Mr. Taschereau.

Outlining the question Hon. Mr. Taschereau spoke of the two millions of French Canadians who are now in the United States, gave his reasons for their leaving, and offered certain remedies for stopping the exodus.

The premier said that agriculture credits had been tried before, and failed. It would be preferable to give money instead of lending. The banks, he thought, should lend money to the farmers at five per cent interest, as they do in Australia and New Zealand.

He emphatically urged the abolition of debtors' prisons, as it had proved ruinous to farmers.

and that he has not contributed to their support or to the support of his wife for a long period. The theft charge arose out of his borrowing a shotgun from Anthony Koppelo and failing to return it. He stated in court that while hunting and fishing he left the gun standing against a tree while he went up to catch fish, and that upon his return the gun had disappeared.

bers of the St. Denis Club here Saturday night.

"No matter what party he is in power politically, it must concentrate on the development of our rural centres; it is not merely a political question, it is eminently an economical question," declared Mr. Taschereau.

Outlining the question Hon. Mr. Taschereau spoke of the two millions of French Canadians who are now in the United States, gave his reasons for their leaving, and offered certain remedies for stopping the exodus.

The premier said that agriculture credits had been tried before, and failed. It would be preferable to give money instead of lending. The banks, he thought, should lend money to the farmers at five per cent interest, as they do in Australia and New Zealand.

He emphatically urged the abolition of debtors' prisons, as it had proved ruinous to farmers.

and that he has not contributed to their support or to the support of his wife for a long period. The theft charge arose out of his borrowing a shotgun from Anthony Koppelo and failing to return it. He stated in court that while hunting and fishing he left the gun standing against a tree while he went up to catch fish, and that upon his return the gun had disappeared.

bers of the St. Denis Club here Saturday night.

"No matter what party he is in power politically, it must concentrate on the development of our rural centres; it is not merely a political question, it is eminently an economical question," declared Mr. Taschereau.

Outlining the question Hon. Mr. Taschereau spoke of the two millions of French Canadians who are now in the United States, gave his reasons for their leaving, and offered certain remedies for stopping the exodus.

The premier said that agriculture credits had been tried before, and failed. It would be preferable to give money instead of lending. The banks, he thought, should lend money to the farmers at five per cent interest, as they do in Australia and New Zealand.

He emphatically urged the abolition of debtors' prisons, as it had proved ruinous to farmers.

and that he has not contributed to their support or to the support of his wife for a long period. The theft charge arose out of his borrowing a shotgun from Anthony Koppelo and failing to return it. He stated in court that while hunting and fishing he left the gun standing against a tree while he went up to catch fish, and that upon his return the gun had disappeared.

bers of the St. Denis Club here Saturday night.

"No matter what party he is in power politically, it must concentrate on the development of our rural centres; it is not merely a political question, it is eminently an economical question," declared Mr. Taschereau.

Outlining the question Hon. Mr. Taschereau spoke of the two millions of French Canadians who are now in the United States, gave his reasons for their leaving, and offered certain remedies for stopping the exodus.

The premier said that agriculture credits had been tried before, and failed. It would be preferable to give money instead of lending. The banks, he thought, should lend money to the farmers at five per cent interest, as they do in Australia and New Zealand.

He emphatically urged the abolition of debtors' prisons, as it had proved ruinous to farmers.

and that he has not contributed to their support or to the support of his wife for a long period. The theft charge arose out of his borrowing a shotgun from Anthony Koppelo and failing to return it. He stated in court that while hunting and fishing he left the gun standing against a tree while he went up to catch fish, and that upon his return the gun had disappeared.

bers of the St. Denis Club here Saturday night.

"No matter what party he is in power politically, it must concentrate on the development of our rural centres; it is not merely a political question, it is eminently an economical question," declared Mr. Taschereau.

Outlining the question Hon. Mr. Taschereau spoke of the two millions of French Canadians who are now in the United States, gave his reasons for their leaving, and offered certain remedies for stopping the exodus.

The premier said that agriculture credits had been tried before, and failed. It would be preferable to give money instead of lending. The banks, he thought, should lend money to the farmers at five per cent interest, as they do in Australia and New Zealand.

He emphatically urged the abolition of debtors' prisons, as it had proved ruinous to farmers.

and that he has not contributed to their support or to the support of his wife for a long period. The theft charge arose out of his borrowing a shotgun from Anthony Koppelo and failing to return it. He stated in court that while hunting and fishing he left the gun standing against a tree while he went up to catch fish, and that upon his return the gun had disappeared.

bers of the St. Denis Club here Saturday night.

"No matter what party he is in power politically, it must concentrate on the development of our rural centres; it is not merely a political question, it is eminently an economical question," declared Mr. Taschereau.

Outlining the question Hon. Mr. Taschereau spoke of the two millions of French Canadians who are now in the United States, gave his reasons for their leaving, and offered certain remedies for stopping the exodus.

The premier said that agriculture credits had been tried before, and failed. It would be preferable to give money instead of lending. The banks, he thought, should lend money to the farmers at five per cent interest, as they do in Australia and New Zealand.

He emphatically urged the abolition of debtors' prisons, as it had proved ruinous to farmers.

and that he has not contributed to their support or to the support of his wife for a long period. The theft charge arose out of his borrowing a shotgun from Anthony Koppelo and failing to return it. He stated in court that while hunting and fishing he left the gun standing against a tree while he went up to catch fish, and that upon his return the gun had disappeared.

bers of the St. Denis Club here Saturday night.

"No matter what party he is in power politically, it must concentrate on the development of our rural centres; it is not merely a political question, it is eminently an economical question," declared Mr. Taschereau.

Outlining the question Hon. Mr. Taschereau spoke of the two millions of French Canadians who are now in the United States, gave his reasons for their leaving, and offered certain remedies for stopping the exodus.

The premier said that agriculture credits had been tried before, and failed. It would be preferable to give money instead of lending. The banks, he thought, should lend money to the farmers at five per cent interest, as they do in Australia and New Zealand.

He emphatically urged the abolition of debtors' prisons, as it had proved ruinous to farmers.

and that he has not contributed to their support or to the support of his wife for a long period. The theft charge arose out of his borrowing a shotgun from Anthony Koppelo and failing to return it. He stated in court that while hunting and fishing he left the gun standing against a tree while he went up to catch fish, and that upon his return the gun had disappeared.

bers of the St. Denis Club here Saturday night.

"No matter what party he is in power politically, it must concentrate on the development of our rural centres; it is not merely a political question, it is eminently an economical question," declared Mr. Taschereau.

Outlining the question Hon. Mr. Taschereau spoke of the two millions of French Canadians who are now in the United States, gave his reasons for their leaving, and offered certain remedies for stopping the exodus.

The premier said that agriculture credits had been tried before, and failed. It would be preferable to give money instead of lending. The banks, he thought, should lend money to the farmers at five per cent interest, as they do in Australia and New Zealand.

He emphatically urged the abolition of debtors' prisons, as it had proved ruinous to farmers.

and that he has not contributed to their support or to the support of his wife for a long period. The theft charge arose out of his borrowing a shotgun from Anthony Koppelo and failing to return it. He stated in court that while hunting and fishing he left the gun standing against a tree while he went up to catch fish, and that upon his return the gun had disappeared.

bers of the St. Denis Club here Saturday night.

"No matter what party he is in power politically, it must concentrate on the development of our rural centres; it is not merely a political question, it is eminently an economical question," declared Mr. Taschereau.

Outlining the question Hon. Mr. Taschereau spoke of the two millions of French Canadians who are now in the United States, gave his reasons for their leaving, and offered certain remedies for stopping the exodus.

The premier said that agriculture credits had been tried before, and failed. It would be preferable to give money instead of lending. The banks, he thought, should lend money to the farmers at five per cent interest, as they do in Australia and New Zealand.

He emphatically urged the abolition of debtors' prisons, as it had proved ruinous to farmers.

and that he has not contributed to their support or to the support of his wife for a long period. The theft charge arose out of his borrowing a shotgun from Anthony Koppelo and failing to return it. He stated in court that while hunting and fishing he left the gun standing against a tree while he went up to catch fish, and that upon his return the gun had disappeared.

bers of the St. Denis Club here Saturday night.

"No matter what party he is in power politically, it must concentrate on the development of our rural centres; it is not merely a political question, it is eminently an economical question," declared Mr. Taschereau.

Outlining the question Hon. Mr. Taschereau spoke of the two millions of French Canadians who are now in the United States, gave his reasons for their leaving, and offered certain remedies for stopping the exodus.

The premier said that agriculture credits had been tried before, and failed. It would be preferable to give money instead of lending. The banks, he thought, should lend money to the farmers at five per cent interest, as they do in Australia and New Zealand.

He emphatically urged the abolition of debtors' prisons, as it had proved ruinous to farmers.

and that he has not contributed to their support or to the support of his wife for a long period. The theft charge arose out of his borrowing a shotgun from Anthony Koppelo and failing to return it. He stated in court that while hunting and fishing he left the gun standing against a tree while he went up to catch fish, and that upon his return the gun had disappeared.