THE PEOPLE SPEAK

The people of Campbellton have voiced their sentiments anent the Doherty trial and that in no uncertain manner.

Many people were of the opinion that the agitation was merely a dodge to make political capital out of, but the vast gathering at the opera house on Monday evening found that there was a great deal more than politics in the affair. The hearts of the people were stirred to greater depths than was thought, and the expressions of the various speakers were accepted with acclamation by all. It was clearly shown that the Graphic was not voicing its own opinions but rather the opinions of all right thinking citizens both Liberal and Conservative, and we believe that when the petition for investigation is placed in the hands of the Lieutenant Governor he will not be able to refuse to act.

He does not require to accept the statements of the Graphic or the silence of the Tribune, let him have a heart-to-heart talk with Judge White, and go over the evidence carefully especially noting the fact that the learned counsel for the defence instructed the jury to bring in a verdict of not guilty as the Crown had the privilege of re-arresting the prisoner on a lesser charge. This we believe is not correct in law, but the Council for the Crown did not contradict that statement, and the jury accepted Mr. Powers' remarks as shown by the letter of two of the jurymen which appeared in the public press.

The people of Campbellton desire to be law abiding and peaceable citizens, and this great protest from Monday's meeting is far from being in the spirit of vindictiveness. No! The great strength and power of the meeting was shown in the curbing of everything that would tend to stir up party strife, the strongest expressions coming from supporters of the present local government. This was the best part of the meeting that prominent men forgot party and politics and spoke only as they felt as men. This makes the meeting of protest a triumph for righteousness and the "powers that be" should be well wadded to pay heed to such an expression of feeling as is shown in the resolution. Much thanks is due Mayor Murray for the business-like way he conducted the meeting and for the strong position he took up when the matter of having a meeting was brought to his notice by many influential citizens and by the session of St. Andrew's Church.

We will await with interest the answer of Lieutenant Governor believing that politics will not mar his vision nor blind his desire to see justice and honor upheld.

At the Grand Opera House last night Jerry's "Scenes" played a Prince and a Princess in a drama dealing with life in the South and upheld the reputation that had travelled ahead of them. HAZEL SPRINGFIELD as "Scenes" the Princess, won the hearts of the large audience from her first appearance coupled with talent, grace and beauty stamps her as one of the best little actresses ever seen here. DAN MALLOY, always a big favorite here, was at his best last night as "Wagtails the Tramp." There were very few comedians who can make the local theatregoers laugh—they did last night. The other members of the Company were artists in their line, and gave the principals excellent support. Manager Jern's judgment is to be congratulated on bringing a company of this calibre to Springhill, and to-night when they present the "Girl from Smokey Mountain" we predict a house packed to the doors. Owing to their inability to open here Thursday night, Manager Jern has arranged for the Company to remain here Monday evening to present their masterpiece "The Little Cuckoo," the College Play which scored a big success during their Halifax engagement.
