A Redistribution Bill for Ontario. The Mowat government having deter mined to go in for an extension of the franchise and a redistribution of seats, resolved to couple the two measures together, and introduce them as nearly as possible at the same time. The redistribution bill was brought down yesterday and the franchise bill will follow it to-day. The former was explained in con. siderable detail by Mr. Hardy on the motion for its first reading, and in a gen eral way it may be described as intended to accomplish the following objects:

1. A fairer adjustment of political in fluence as between eastern and western

2. A fairer adjustment of political in fluence as between individual constitu-

3. The recognition of the principle of proportional representation;
4. An incidental advantage to the party in power as the result of these changes. No fault can fairly be found with the contention that the centre of political in fluence in the province should coincide as nearly as possible with the centre of population. The latter has been progressing westward, and the former must follow it. Assuming a dividing line north and south between York and Ontario, the bill take from the part of the province east of this line two members, and gives to the part west of it three. The former change is effected by consolidating Cornwall with Stormont, and reducing the four constituencies in Leeds and Grenville to three; the latter is made by giving three members to Bruce, two to Algoma, and three to To ronto. This will make a net gain to the west of five members, and a net increase of one in the whole house, which will num-

For this rebellious resolution, which was voted down, the protec tionist democrat leader from Pennsylvania voted. It is well known that he is a sore head, but the wonder is that he should have so early and so openly shown-not his hand-but his clenched fist. The prediction may be ventured that Cleveland's term will witness a readjust ment of the political relations of many of the public men of the United States. Cleveland can only retain the affections of the independent republishes by alienating the Bourbon democrats, It would be no bad thing for the country should a new party arise upon the ruins of one or both of the old organizatious.

Unmerited Thanks.

The Canada Presbyterian tenders a vote of thanks to Mr. Charlton, M.P., for his speech in advocacy of the Mosaic Sabbath. If Mr. Charlton would mingle a little practice with his preaching the general public would have more faith in the sincerity of his utterances. A public man who accepts favors from a railway corporation, and uses that railway for what he professes to regard as Sabbath desecration, cannot accessfully pose as a political pugist and

Our contemporary either deceives itself, or attempts to deceive its constituents, when it says that "the friends of the Sabbath" will in future go to Mr. Charlton for "the ecessary legislation." The member for Norfolk was " hoist with his own petard' when the cry of provincial rights was raised against his bill by the Quebec members. His views will not be endorsed by either political party. The best evidence of this difficulty is that when Mr. Charlton's leaders were in power he was careful not to raise such issues. It is only because the tories are responsible for the control of the house that he has become so solicitous for the adoption in this country of the blue laws of Yankeedom. He will next want us to legislate against the witches of Salem.

Dr. Wild off in His Predictions. Editor World: There are false prophets in other places than the Soudan. A rev. gentleman whose church is not far from the corner of Bond street and Wilton avenue is in the habit of appearing in the role of prophet-in-chief and general expounder of the purposes of the Almighty towards the nations of the earth. He has lately been congratulating himself on his success in this line with respect to affairs in Egypt. I beg to call Dr. Wild's attention to a prophecy uttered by him in a sermon which he delivered on Oct. 2, 1881—a prophecy which has the advantage of being clear and explicit, and not capable of being twisted to suit events. Speaking of the assassination of the late President Carfield he snation of the late Freshent. Garneld he said: "It was necessary that Garfield should die in order to put the right party in power in 1884. There will be a novelty in presidential elections in that year. In 1884 there will be no president elected." Is the election of Cleveland then all a mistake, and what is the meaning of the goal lad invariant entered. ing of the so-called inauguration ceremonies which were held yesterday at the White house in Washington?

In the course of the same sermon the reverend oracle, referring to Gen. Grant, said: "Verily, the coming dictator has his hand upon the lever, and cranks down Conkling, and Conkling will crank down Arthur, and Arthur will crank down the country." Seeing that President Arthur has completed his term in peace, and that Gen. Grant's physicians give him only three months longer to live, it would seem that something has gone wrong with the fulfiment of the doctor's prognostications. Is there nobody who, to use the reverence gentleman's own phrase, will "crank down"
