TWELFTH YEAR. MONDAY MORNING, NOVEMBER 23, 1891 ONE CENT.

ELOPED WITH A MINISTER

AN ELGIN SCHOOL MARM RUNS AWAY WITH HER PASTOR.

The Clergyman Had First Sent His Wife to Her Former Home—The Elopers Caught in Michigan—A Withered Hand and Withered Heart—Publicly Baptised His Victim Before the Sacrifice.

LANSING, Mich., Nov. 22.—Rev. Walter Nelson and Miss Rosabel Teetzel were arrested at the Commercial Hotel here last evening on a telegram from St. Thomas, Ont., the male prisoner, who is a married man, being charged with abduction.

In June last a young man of 26 named Rev. Walter Nelson arrived in Elgin County, Ont., from Illinois and was appointed to the charge of the Baptist Church in Port Burwell and the Jubilee Church in Nova Scotia-street, Malahide. He was a young man of about 26 years of age, smooth-faced, large-mouthed, thick-lipped, possessed of more than ordinary magnetism. He brought his young wife with him to Port Burwell and started housekeeping, making comparatively large purchases of household goods from Aylmer, Port Burwell and Vienna merchants. He had not been long in the neighborhood before he made the acquaintance of Miss Rosabel Teetzel, for two years past teacher in the public school at Lakeview, on the Nova Scotia-road, Malahide, where the Jubilee Church is situated.

The Elopement.

The good people of Lakeview did not fail to notice the degree of attention which the young minister was paying to the young teacher, but no one dreamed for a moment of such a denouement as yesterday startled the neighborhood. The young lady resided with Mr. and Mrs. George McConnel, who live near the school. Yesterday morning, when Miss Teetzel did not make her appearance at the usual hour, Mrs. McConnell went to her room to awaken her, and was dismayed to find that she was not in the room, and that everything it contained was in disorder, bearing evidence of a hasty flight. The young lady had not taken any clothing but that which she wore, and even omitted to carry away her spectacles and some money she had in her possession. The room bore traces of a man's heavy, mud-stained boots having trodden on the carpet, and all the indications pointed to the fact that the young woman had left the house in company with this man, some time during the night, making her escape through the window. Beneath the window, on the outside, was found a pencil known to belong to "Rev." Walter Nelson, so the identity of the man who had planned the elopement was at once conjectured.

Tracing the Fugitives.

As soon as the fact dawned on Mr. and Mrs. McConnell that their boarder had fled they drove to St. Thomas and notified the relatives of the young lady, whose home was in St. Thomas, and whose brother, J. J. Teetzel, is a dentist there. It was learned that Nelson had driven from Port Burwell to St. Thomas and left the horse and buggy at T. Hortop's livery with instructions to send it back to Port Burwell. They had then boarded the G.T.R. for the west and proceeded to Port Huron and thence to Lansing.

Mr. J. V. Teetzel, Q.C., of Hamilton, another brother of the young woman, was notified and traced them to Port Huron and thence to Lansing, arriving here this morning, the fugitives having meantime been apprehended.

The betrayal of the young girl was not the sum of Nelson's offences. Prior to his elopment he induced his wife, whose heart he had broken by his ill-treatment, to go to her father's in Illinois. Nelson's goods were being shipped there also. At Aylmer, however, an attachment was taken out against them on behalf of some of Nelson's creditors, and the stuff still remains at Aylmer.

Pathetic Incidents.

Of Nelson's antecedents little is known. As previously stated he had only been at Port Burwell since June, having formerly had charge of a Baptist Church at Centreville, Ill., where he married his wife. Last fall he made application to be admitted to the Malahide Association of the church, and after enquiries the application was accepted, amongst those who certified to his good character being Rev. A. Grant of Winnipeg, who stated that he had baptised Nelson. His relatives are said to live at Sarnia. He was tall and thin and had a withered hand.

Miss Teetzel was engaged to be married to a highly respectable farmer of South Malahide.

Nelson had been holding revival services in the churches, and was held in high esteem among the members of his congregation, none of whom, however, appeared to have had any knowledge of who he was, or what were his antecedents.

Miss Teetzel was a bright, earnest girl, a good teacher, and from all that has been learned of the circumstances, her very virtues have been made the instrumentality of her betrayer's designs. Brought up in the Presbyterian faith, Nelson secured an influence over her at his revival meetings, and maintained it by representations of his deep interest in her spiritual welfare, and so worked upon the poor girl's feelings that three weeks ago she was publicly baptized into the church, the immersion taking place in a neighboring stream.

The Unloved Husband Role.

The elopers are now in the custody of the city marshal. The reverend gentleman is a man of 26 and Miss Teetzel is a very striking, pretty and attractive blonde of the same age. Both of them are thoroughly frightened and are here without even a change of clothing.

Nelson assumes the role of an unloved husband whose wife left for her home in Centreville, Ill., on Thursday for the purpose of procuring a divorce, avowing that she did so to enable him to marry the object of his affection, now his companion in his flight.

SUNK OFF LONG POINT.

Little Doubt That the Finney Went Down With All Hands.

PORT DOVER, Ont., Nov. 22.—There seems little doubt that the schooner G. C. Finney has foundered, and that her entire crew went down with her. Captain Conlin of the schooner William Home passed close to the three spars sunk below Long Point, and he was positive they belonged to the Finney. It is considered certain that the blue-painted wreckage seen below Long Point came from the Finney. Her cabin sides and front, the provision box, and her hatch covers were painted blue.

The Finney left Toledo a week ago, wheat laden, for Buffalo. She was last seen during the heavy southwester last Tuesday afternoon some miles below Long Point. Just how she went down probably never will be known. The wreck is about 26 miles below Long Point.

The Finney was owned and sailed by Captain Thomas Riordan of Buffalo. Undoubtedly she carried at least six hands. Captain Riordan leaves a widow and four children, all grown up but one.

Belonged to Hamilton.

HAMILTON, Nov. 22.—Annie Pearson of Hamilton was drowned in the wreck of the barge Estelle at Manistee, Mich., a day or two ago.

AMUSEMENTS OF THE WEEK.

Jed Prouty.

To-night at the Grand Opera House will witness the return of that popular dramatic enterprise, the presentation of that successful stage picture of New England life, Richard Golden's "Old Jed Prouty." The play is regarded as one of the best of its best of its class, and Mr. Golden has won universal praise for his delineation of Yankee character. The character of Old Jed Prouty is that of an out-and-out New England tavernkeeper, with his quaint sayings and mirth-provoking adventures in Bucksport and Boston. The entire play is considered a faithful reproduction of the humors of New England life. Since its original prodution many telling effects and improvements have been introduced, presenting scenes as true to life as if they were actually witnessed along the winding lanes of Bucksport. Mr. Golden has attained a distinction that is on a par with that of the late John E. Owens in "Solon Shingle," or the contemporaneous Denman Thompson in the "Old Homestead."

Academy of Music.

"Kidnapped," W. C. Anderson's strong sensational play, will be the attraction at the Academy of Music to-night and balance of this week. The play belongs to the class of realistic plays which have attained such a strong hold on popular favor within the last few years, and is a distinct advance on the old stereotyped sensational dramas. That the public now demand more is evidenced by the success of this popular play, where all the scenes are placed on the stage in a realistic manner, no pasteboard wagons being used, but the genuine article, which can be seen on the streets of Toronto at any time. The plot of the play is exciting and at no time becomes dull, but thoroughly interests the audience from the rise until the fall of the curtain. The play has been very highly spoken of in the different cities visited by this organization and will undoubtedly repeat its success here.

"Lord Rooney" at Jacobs & Sparrow's.

"Lord Rooney" and his suite arrived in Toronto yesterday and were met by several friends and acquaintances, who extended a royal welcome to the great Hibernian artist. He will visit Jacobs & Sparrow's Opera House to-night, and there is every indication that standing room will be at a premium, as his popularity in Toronto is second to no one in the theatrical line. "Lord Rooney" will stay the whole week and give matinees Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday. Mirth, melody and general good fellowship will reign supreme, and he will no doubt leave us with many regrets.

Sir Edwin Arnold Plan.

Sir Edwin Arnold's lecture will be given next Thursday evening. Subscribers can reserve their seats this morning at Nordheimer's. The plan will be opened to non-subscribers on Tuesday.

Notes.

Arthur Friedheim, one of the greatest pianists since Liszt, will give one piano recital in this city early in December. Musicians, piano students and all persons interested in hearing the piano played by an artist whose fame is as wide as the world, and who is acknowledged by critics in all countries to have no equal as an interpreter of Liszt, should subscribe at once. Subscription lists at Nordheimer's, Suckling's and Anglo-Canadian music store, King-street west.

The plan of reserved seats for the coming concert of the Irish Protestant Benevolent Society was opened on Friday last and seats were very fairly taken. Further seats may be secured till Thursday morning next, the day of the concert.

Sir Edwin Arnold came to Canada in 1889 by the Vancouver. He gave an address on India one evening in the cabin. The Hon. Oliver Mowat was in the chair and a number of other Torontonians were among the passengers. They all speak in the highest terms of the lecture.

Local Jottings.

Pat Heffron, no home, was arrested on Saturday evening by Detective John Cuddy, charged with larceny from John Paton.

Builders and others will find it to their advantage to attend the sale of lumber at Bryce Bros'. yards, 280 King-street east. Special bargains for the next 10 days.

Peter Gardiner of Caer-Howel-street, fell on the sidewalk in Ann-street on Saturday, and fractured his leg. He was taken to the Homeopathic Hospital in the ambulance.

The bargains advertised by the European Imperial Company are brimful of interest to the readers of The World. Books, fancy goods and holiday goods of every description are actually being sold by them at half ordinary prices. Such exceptional bargains cannot fail to attract the attention of the public.

The Saturday night "pops" at the Auditorium are becoming very popular. There was a big crowd and an excellent program. The performers were all of good ability. Miss Stafford, late of the Pearl of Pekin Co., was very successful in her songs, so were Messrs. Ramsay and Rich in the comic line, the little Grenville Sisters, Sims Richards, and the instrumentalists. Manager Wilkinson has arranged for other six evening entertainments.

Both Complainant and Prisoner.

Edward Nicholson, 143 Adelaide-street west, complained at Police Headquarters Saturday evening that he had been robbed by Margaret Richmond at 84 Louisa-street. The result of the complaint was that Mary Nicholson was arrested on a charge of keeping a house of ill-fame at that address. Margaret Richmond besides being charged with larceny, was also taken as an inmate. Nicholson and Henry Jones who lives in Clinton-street were arrested, charged with being frequenters.

FOREIGN NEWS OF A NIGHT.

MAGNIFICENT WEDDINGS IN LONDON AND VIENNA.

Resignation of the Spanish Cabinet—Died for Their Religion—A Peculiarity of a Prince—A Mad King Who Imagines He is a Stork—The Paris Strike Likely to be Settled.

LONDON, Nov. 22.—Lady Sarah Isabel Augusta Spencer-Churchill, youngest sister of the Duke of Marlborough and Lord Randolph Churchill, was married Saturday to Lieut. Gordon C. Wilson, son of Sir Samuel Wilson, Member of Parliament for Portsmouth. The ceremony took place in St. George's Church, Hanover Square. The building was crowded to the doors with the wealth and fashion of England. The whole scene was one of splendor and magnificence seldom seen. Lieut. Wilson belongs to the Royal Horse Guards. The Prince of Wales was a conspicuous guest at the ceremony. The Duke of Cambridge, Commander-in-Chief of the Forces, was also present. A large number of other military officers resplendent in gorgeous uniforms added to the brilliancy of the scene. A pretty feature of the service was the arrangement for making a pathway from the porch of St. George's and down the main aisle to the altar. The troop of the Horse Guards commanded by the bridegroom were drawn up in full uniform with side arms in rows, one on each side, and through these rows of soldiers the bride and groom smilingly passed after the ceremony was completed. The ceremony was performed by the Archbishop of Canterbury.

VIENNA, Nov. 22.—The marriage of the Archduchess Marie Louise of Tuscany to Prince Frederick Augustus of Saxony took place to-day in the chapel of the Imperial palace at Vienna. The ceremonies, which were most grand and brilliant, were witnessed by the Emperor and Empress of Austria, the King and Queen of Saxony, the Grand Duke and Grand Duchess of Tuscany, Count Kalnoky and all the Cabinet Ministers, the Diplomatic Corps and a host of Princes and Princesses. The Cardinal Archbishop of Vienna officiated, supported by all the church dignitaries of Austria. The wedding procession was one of the most attractive and dazzling ever seen in Europe. The bride wore a white satin richly embroidered with silver and bordered with tulle and orange flowers. Upon her head the bride wore a small crown glittering with diamonds. The young couple have formally renounced their rights of succession respectively to the throne of Saxony and to the throne of Austria-Hungary. The Archduchess Marie Louise is the eldest daughter of the Grand Duke Ferdinand IV. of Tuscany. The bridegroom, Prince Frederick Augustus of Saxony, is the nephew of King Albert of Saxony and heir to the throne of the Kingdom of Saxony.

HE WINKS THE OTHER EYE.

The Disconcerting "Tic" of Albert Edward, Prince of Wales.

LONDON, Nov. 22.—To strangers, at any rate, the "tic" of the Prince of Wales is somewhat disconcerting. About once in every minute and a half the lid of the right eye drops completely over the ball. The eye remains closed for the space of about a second, and then suddenly opens again to its fullest extent, no other feature of the face having moved meanwhile. People who see the Prince for the first time are tempted to believe that he is deliberately winking at them, an impression which is strengthened by the Prince's reputation of geniality toward men and gallantry toward women. Of course, however, there is no such intention on the part of the Prince, and the wink is altogether involuntary, the result of a "tic nerveux."

KINGS, LIKE BIRDS, HAVE NESTS.

Mad Otto of Bavaria Imagines That He is a Stork.

LONDON, Nov. 22.—The insanity of the present monarch of Bavaria, the mad King Otto, appears to have taken the form of an illusion that he is a stork. In one of the magnificent apartments devoted to his use at the Palace of Furstenried he has laboriously constructed a gigantic nest, every stick and straw of which he has conveyed to the spot in his mouth. In that nest he squats almost the entire day with feathers stuck in his long, thick hair and beard, while he chatters in imitation of the "clappering" of a stork whenever anyone approaches. Occasionally, too, he stands on one leg, gazing vacantly straight before him, while at other times he stalks gravely about just in the same manner that he has seen the long-beaked, long-legged birds do.

"RIPPER JACK'S" PARD.

The "French Colonel" a Mystery to London's Police.

LONDON, Nov. 22.—There was concluded at the Old Bailey, Saturday, one of the most remarkable blackmail trials in the history of British jurisprudence. It is the trial of a mysterious individual known as the "French Colonel," "Le Grande," "Briscony Grant," "Captain Anderson" and "Charles Grant."

There are a number of charges piled up against the "French Colonel," but the one which he is placed on trial for to-day is that of threatening to murder the Baroness Bolsover, who resides in one of the most aristocratic quarters of London, No. 13 Grosvenor-place, and with also threatening to murder Lady Jessel, the widow of the late Master of the Rolls of the Treasury.

The police at a preliminary hearing produced a quantity of gunpowder and an infernal machine, consisting of an arrangement of powerful springs in a cigar box, which had been found in previous lodgings which the "French Colonel" had occupied at Malden.

Lady Jessel was called to the witness stand and deposed that during the afternoon of July 17 last she received a letter setting forth that unless the writer received £500 within 10 days he would dash her brains out with dynamite. After the testimony had been taken the "French Colonel" fainted in the dock. When revived he engaged in a furious fight with the police around him. A dozen policemen assisted by a number of prison wardens seemed unable to restrain him.

There was a tremendous sensation in the court room; a number of ladies fainted, others screamed horribly. Finally the jury found the prisoner guilty on both charges.

Died for Their Religion.

TEHERAN, Nov. 21.—The Mujutahia, or high priest, of the Shiquoh sect, which is the predominant religious sect of the country, its followers numbering nearly 7,000,000, recently fomented a revolt in Ma Zanderan, a province in northern Persia. The Government took prompt measures to suppress the revolt and a body of troops was despatched to restore order and to place the high priest under arrest. The rebels, however, made a determined resistance against the Shah's soldiers. They had entrenched themselves in a strong position and when summoned to surrender refused to do so. Orders were then given to attack the stronghold of the rebels and a long contest and desperate battle ensued. The rebels fought with desperation, knowing full well the punishment that would be inflicted upon them by the Shah should they fall into his hands, but they were finally defeated, not, however, until 200 of their number were killed. The loss of troops was 20 killed. A large number of rebels were taken prisoners, and it is expected summary justice will be meted out to them. Among the prisoners is the high priest.

Probable Loss of 41 Lives.

LONDON, Nov. 22.—A despatch has been received here from the Marquis of Lansdowne, Viceroy of India, stating that no doubts are entertained that the pilot brig Culdoon foundered during the terrific hurricane which recently passed over the Andaman Islands and the Bay of Bengal. The Culdoon had a crew of six British officers and 35 natives and it is believed that all were drowned.

Chat from Over the Sea.

Prince George of Wales is improving.

The Cabinet crisis at Madrid continues.

Owing to the crisis in Spain all the Cabinet Ministers have resigned their portfolios.

Count Tolstoi's daughters, Latione and Marie, have opened a refectory for the famine-stricken near his chateau.

Business on the London Stock Exchange was light last week. The tone at the end of the week was decidedly better and dealings Saturday were remarkably lively.

The delegates of the striking miners have agreed to submit the questions in dispute to arbitration, provided the men have a representation equal to that of their employers.

A despatch to The London Chronicle from Tien Tsin says official information is given that all indemnities to Europeans are now paid with the exception of those arising out of the Ichang riot.

At the Somersetshire Assizes the Rev. Dr. James Casper Clutterbuck, D.C.L., inspector of workhouse schools, pleaded guilty to obtaining £16,000 by false pretences and was sentenced to five years' penal servitude.

An immense demonstration was held in Limerick yesterday in commemoration of the death of the "Manchester martyrs." Michael Davitt, John Redmond, Edward Harrington and others met on a common platform. The speakers demanded the release of the Irishmen imprisoned in England.

The extraordinary credit of over 100,000,000 marks asked for in the German budget for artillery is intended for providing the army with a new kind of field gun. The new gun has been perfected under the direct surveillance of Emperor William, Count Von Waldersee and General Von Schieffen.

A mysterious explosion occurred in a mail wagon attached to a train bound for Halle. Two postal employes were badly hurt. The carriage was set on fire by the explosion and was entirely consumed. The mails, comprising 900 post parcels and a host of letters, were destroyed, including a number containing remittances of money.

Mrs. Lavinia Mason, the stewardess of the steamer Mongolian, which arrived at Liverpool from Montreal on Wednesday last, was arraigned in court Saturday, charged with shooting with intent to kill Purser Stewart of the same vessel. The prisoner declared that Stewart betrayed her under promise of marriage, and when asked to fulfill his engagement on the steamer's arrival at Liverpool he threatened to discard her. She then became so enraged that she fired three shots at him. The stewardess was remanded to jail.

JOLLY BUGLERS.

With Laugh and Song They Meet and Receive Their Prizes.

It was indeed a jolly crowd that assembled at the Q.O.R. buglers mess rooms on Saturday evening. It was the occasion of the presentation of the prizes won by the buglers at their recent shooting match. Bugle-Major Swift occupied the chair, and Major Delamere presented the prizes in a very neat and pleasing manner. The handsomest prize was the Cowper Challenge Cup. It is a large solid silver one, beautifully engraved and is now held by Bugler Scott. Dr. Leslie, Captain Knifton, Lieut. Crean, Capt. Murray, Sgt.-Major Bowden and Captain Wallace were prominent figures among those present, and entering into the spirit of the crowd these gentlemen did their best to make the evening a very pleasant one.

After the prizes had been presented a good program of music, vocal and instrumental, was furnished.

Koch's Lymph.

The lecture room in the Biological department was crowded to overflow on Saturday afternoon by students and visitors anxious to hear something of Koch's lymph. Professor Ramsay Wright first told what prompted him to go to Germany and Vice-Chancellor Mulock to send him, to bring back to Ontario knowledge of the wonderful discovery. He then reviewed the history of Professor Koch, and described at some length the discoveries of this distinguished man, the discoverer of the science of Bateriology. The lecture was illustrated by lime light views and was exceedingly interesting.

Girding for the Fray.

At a meeting of ratepayers of Ward No. 2, held at the offices of Pellatt & Pellatt, it was decided not to nominate candidates for the representation of the ward, as it was understood that the general association would take up the question. It was determined, however, to aid the general association in electing candidates to be chosen.

Personal.

Mr. M. Sweetnam, chief postoffice inspector, leaves to-day for Washington, D.C., to attend the annual conference of the United States postoffice inspectors.

The editorial with reference to Hon. C. F. Fraser in The Globe of Saturday is understood to foreshadow that that gentleman will not be in his place at the next session of the Ontario Legislature. Mr. Fraser's health has not been satisfactory for years and the rumor has been abroad for some time that he will spend this winter out of Canada. The World sincerely hopes that rest and a change of climate may bring this able and true Canadian back to us again with his health firmly and surely re-established.

Charged With Murder.

BELLEVILLE, Nov. 22.—A verdict of wilful murder has been returned by a a coroner' jury against James McGinnis, jr., who inflicted injuries on Mortimer Ford at a "bee" from which he died.

The Legal Grist.

The Master in Chambers yesterday made an order for payment out of court of the money involved in the suit of Toronto General Trusts Company v. Harrison. As reported in yesterday's World the case was settled just before it was called for trial and judgment was entered in terms of consent minutes. By the consent each party is to have one half of the money and is to pay his own costs.

An order was made dismissing with costs the action of Matthew Kavanagh against the village of Weston. The plaintiff sued the village for $3000 damages for injuries received through an alleged defective sidewalk, but failing to prosecute the action it was dismissed.

In the action of Arthur B. Campbell against the city of Toronto the Master made an order for delivery of particulars of the statement of defence. Campbell sues the city for damages to his stores on Carlton-street, caused by floods

HIS FEET TOUCHED THE FLOOR.

But 28-Year-Old George Wallace Strangled Himself Nevertheless.

CAMPBELLFORD, Ont., Nov. 22.—George Wallace, 28 years of age, lately out from Scotland, has, since July 12, been living with a farmer, Benjamin Moir, three miles from here. Yesterday morning he appeared to be in good cheer. At 9.30 he went to the stable and did up his work. He then took a halter rope and placing it over a small beam in the stable with a slip knot around his neck, held one end with his hand and jumped off a box about a foot from the ground. When the body was found, about 11.30, the feet were touching the ground, while there was only a space of six inches from his head to the beam. Ill-health is thought to be the cause.

THE ELECTION TRIALS.

East Bruce Voided—Judgment in North Perth and South Ontario Postponed.

WALKERTON, Nov. 22.—The East Bruce election trial came to a close early on Saturday and resulted in the unseating of Mr. Truax. Mr. Carter, Teeswater, was called. His agency on behalf of Mr. Truax was admitted, and after claiming the protection of the court he testified that he had hired a livery team on election day with which voters were taken to the poll in the interest of Mr. Truax; that he did so without knowing that he was violating the law. The judges voided the election on this charge, with general costs to the petitioner, but each party to pay their own costs on the charge tried yesterday.

STRATFORD, Ont., Nov. 22.—The trial of the North Perth election case was resumed Saturday, when several minor cases of treating, etc., were investigated. Nothing of weight, however, was unearthed. At noon the judges announced that decision on the several charges on which judgment has been reserved would be given at Osgoode Hall, Toronto, on November 30th.

The charges are the furnishing of railway tickets gratis to voters generally; J. J. Stock the lending of $2 to a man named Gowing to go to Listowel to vote; the furnishing Roche, of St. Jacobs, with a railway ticket, he having admitted that he would not have come to vote otherwise, and the case of Anthony Lavelle, who was primed with whisky for the occasion.

Justice Falconbridge announced at Osgoode Hall Saturday that it would be necessary to take more evidence on the Grand Trunk charges, in the South Ontario election petition, and this testimony will be heard at Osgoode Hall on the 30th inst. commencing at 11 o'clock, to which hour the Election Court was adjourned.

At the trial W. T. R. Preston could not produce an original copy of the order sent down to P. J. Slatter in respect to tickets to voters. Preston, however, explained generally how the order read, but omitted words which are now held to be important. These were, "and charge to W. T. R. Preston," or that effect. Afterwards a certified copy was obtained and put in by the petitioner's counsel, D'Alton McCarthy and N. F. Patterson. C. J. Holman, counsel for the respondents, not being willing to this admission of a copy of the order, more evidence must be taken. These orders were all alike and judgment in this case may affect other Dominion election cases.

In respect to the Donnelly and Leslie bribing charges judgment will be delivered on the 30th.

Had Answered Another Roll Call.

ST. THOMAS, Nov. 22.—W. Cusden, M.C.R. brakeman, was attacked on Thursday with peritonitis but recovered, and his name was on the board to go out on his run on the Amherstburg branch this morning. He had a relapse yesterday afternoon, however, and passed away this morning. He was aged 22.

Jumped From Brooklyn Bridge.

NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—An unknown man, dressed in the garb of a 'longshoreman, committed suicide by jumping from Brooklyn bridge to-day. This is the first suicide from the bridge.

Says She Did Not Say It.

Editor World: Will you please correct mistake in last Thursday's issue of World, in which it is stated that I admitted that Father Cassidy took his glass of beer in my house. I wish it distinctly understood that Father Cassidy never drank a glass of beer or any other intoxicating liquor in my house. This must have been Mr. Clifford's talk, as I positively deny ever making such a statement, and if he ever interferes between me and the clergy he will be dealt with as the law directs. Dineen's Furs.

? It's a question with some ladies whether seal, Persian lamb or one of the other fashionable furs best suit their requirements for a fur garment. Seal is so universally popular and such an established and permanent favorite that no mistake is possible where that is given the preference over other furs. But we have all the other fashionable furs as well, and we show a really surprisingly large variety of new styles for garments in all of them. Perhaps our preference for seals is influenced by the immense stock of these furs that we have on hand. But our low prices, we think, will make them an object of preference to you, too. Will you have the time to look at them to-day? Dineen's store is on corner King and Yonge-streets.

Only One Quality of Ice Wanted.

Editor World: The action of the aldermen at the meeting to be held to-night will be watched with great interest by the ratepayers who use ice, when such strenuous exertions are being made by the wealthy ice corporations to thwart the praiseworthy efforts of the Board of Health to prohibit two qualities of ice in future. The ratification or non-ratification of the late resolution of the Board of Health will decide whether the public of Toronto will continue to be fed with a combination of frozen sewage and bay water or pure ice. IND. ORDER OF FORESTERS.

AN EFFECTIVE REPLY TO THE ATTACKS ON THE FRATERNITY.

What the Supreme Chief Ranger has Done—No Discord in the Order—A Denial From Mr. Hewer of Guelph—The Alleged Want of Harmony is Altogether in the Minds of the Writers.

For some time past one of our city papers has been freely criticizing the Independent Order of Foresters and has asserted in substance that discord was permeating the fraternity. The World on Saturday was shown a telegram from Mr. James Hewer, a well-known citizen of Guelph, to this effect:

"Have wired The News not one word of truth in last night's edition concerning myself regarding the Foresters. Must contradict."

The best answer to these attacks is the following letter reprinted from the Uxbridge paper to which it was addressed:

Editor Observer, Port Perry, Sir: There recently appeared in your valuable journal two articles respecting secret societies which I have read with much regret. In one of these was reproduced an article which appeared in a Toronto evening paper, containing reflections upon the Independent Order of Foresters and its management, which I had hoped would have met, at the hands of an older member of the order, a prompt and emphatic denial.

Briefly stated, the charges made were that, after having apparently reached the pinnacle of prosperity, discord in the order had begun to appear, and that this was due to two causes which are stated to be: extravagance in the salaries paid to its officers, and the control of the order, not by the membership at large, but by a few who constitute themselves a "ring" and practically exercise exclusive control.

The article in question, although an attack upon the order itself, is in the main a shaft directed at the Supreme Chief Ranger, who may well be regarded as one of its permanent and honored executive officers. In justice to him and to your readers I trust that you will permit me to refer the latter to some facts in the history of the order.

This order was founded in Ontario in 1874. By the secession in 1879 of those now constituting the Canadian Order of Foresters it was seriously crippled and when, in 1881, the separation of the American Supreme Court took place, it was left with but 396 members and with obligations unpaid of upwards of $4000. Notwithstanding these adverse circumstances from that date a new era of prosperity began, and from that time to the present the growth of the order in membership and in financial strength has been unparalleled in the history of fraternal benevolent societies in this country, the membership having increased from 396 in 1881 to 30,075 in 1891 and from a deficit of $4000 in 1881 the surplus having risen to the large sum of $375,000 in 1891. It is pertinent to ask to whose efforts in behalf of the order are these splendid results chiefly to be attributed? Undoubtedly they are mainly due to the efforts of the executive officers and leading members of the order, but they are unquestionably due, chiefly, and in very large measure, to the high character, the splendid abilities and the great administrative capacity of Dr. Oronhyatekha, the principal founder of the order, and who, during all the period referred to, has, with very great acceptance to the membership at large, occupied the distinguished yet onerous and reponsible position of Supreme Chief Ranger, in which he has, by the unanimous voice of his brethren, been placed on every occasion of an election.

By those who witness only its present marvelous prosperity, the struggles in the early history of the order are apt to be lost sight of. Then it was young and unknown, it had little credit and no funds in its treasury, and it was a continuous fight to keep the order alive. The following extract from the auditors' report for 1879 will illustrate how ill-requited were the services, the untiring zeal and energy and the ceaseless activity of the Supreme Chief Ranger during the earlier years in laying the solid foundations of its subsequent excellent success: "We deem it but just and right to the H.C.R. to add that he received during the year altogether from subordinate courts, for expenses as instituting officer and dedicating halls, the sum of $24; and that during the year he traveled in the interests of the order altogether 6000 miles, and was absent from his office and home 69 days, towards the expenses of which the High Court contributed $37.50, subordinate courts, as above intimated, $24; total $61.50." As the strength of the order in members and money gradually increased, however, these early sacrifices made by the Supreme Chief Ranger in the interests of the order have been fittingly though somewhat tardily recognized. Increases in his salary commensurate with the increased work and added responsibilities of his position have from time to time been made, and at the recent Supreme Court meeting held at Detroit it was fixed at the sum of $6000, this amount having been unanimously recommeded by the Finance Committee and adopted amid much enthusiasm by the Supreme Court.

The statement that this does not represent the whole of his emoluments but that they aggregate not less than $13,000 a year is wholly false. The only sums paid to him in addition to his salary are his actual necessary traveling expenses when on business for the order and $200 a year (not $500) as editor of The Independent Forester, the official journal, and the whole amount of which latter sum he pays out of pocket to assistant editors. He receives no fees whatever for the organization of new courts and the total amount of all his emoluments from the order is the amount of his official salary.

That his eminent services in behalf of independent Forestry are acceptable to his brethren is evidenced in a preeminent degree by the demonstrations of affection and the expression of gratitude and confidence made to him whenever he appears where members of the order are assembled. At the meetings of the High Courts of Ontario, Quebec, New Brunswick and Michigan, which he attended during the past summer, resolutions expressive of "their high sense of his great ability, unwearied perseverence and earnest devotion to the interests of the order;" their "great satisfaction at his presence in their midst;" and "their earnest hope that he might be long spared to adorn his office by that high character and those splendid abilites that have contributed so largely to the advancement of the order" were unanimously passed by standing votes and presented to him. And at the late Supreme Court session, held at Detroit, where he presided with rare dignity, tact and ability, this confidence in and loyalty to him was, if anything, even more warmly expressed. The Finance Committee in their report stated, "respecting the work actually accomplished by him and the consequent results, that they had been especially gratifying to the entire membership." A special committee, composed entirely of U.S. representatives, in their report expressed "their high appreciation of the manner in which the Supreme Chief Ranger met the difficulties arising in Michigan, and his firm and determined action"; they "admired his dignity, his firmness, his open, frank, outspoken manner"; they "assured the Supreme Court that the Foresters in that jurisdiction have full confidence in his ability as an executive officer and that they would give him their loyal and earnest support;" they "congratulated the order on having a chief executive officer with sufficient courage and force of character to quell an incipient rebellion and put down treason and felt confident that disloyalty to the order, either in Michigan or elsewhere, would not secure much foothold while he holds his present position." And another committee, of which your fellow-townsman, Mr. Paterson, Q.C., was chairman, in their report expressed their opinion "that by far the major portion of the increase of membership is especially due to the energy of the Supreme Chief Ranger, whose love for the order, untiring activity in promoting its welfare and far more than ordinary executive ability displayed in the management of its affairs, have, in one short decade, raised it out of the slough of despond, with an unparalleled degree of advancement, to the proud position it occupies to-day."

To the several allegations made I wish to give a general and specific denial. Discord has not begun to appear in the order, but is wholly confined to persons outside of it whose interests seem to be best served by efforts made to injure it. The salaries, instead of being extravagant as charged, are but fair and reasonable, being based in every case solely upon the ability of the officer, the value of the services rendered and the care, judgment and responsibility involved in the management and investment of the steadily-increasing finances of the order. And the statements made that the order is controlled by a ring formed by certain officers, who thereby seek to maintain themselves in office, are absolutety and entirely groundless and false. The foundations of the order are securely laid, broad and deep, in the principles of a pure democracy, and its members, through the subordinate courts, exercise the supreme control.

With such testimony as I have quoted, to the abilities of the Supreme Chief Ranger, to his services and to his devotion to the splendid order which he has so largely assisted to create, there is little need to refer to his towering strength and his great influence in the councils of the order. Nor is there need on his part to resort to the petty arts of "ringsters," so unfairly and untruthfully referred to, to maintain his commanding position. In that position, without these miserable arts, he is as secure as he is in the possession of the confidence, the esteem and affection and the gratitude of the entire membership of the order.

Yours, etc.,
L. T. BARCLAY,
Member of Supreme Court.

TRINITY'S CANTEEN.

People Were Talking About the Workings of High Church Beer and the Dons Put a Bung in the Barrel.

The World has been reading The Review published at Trinity College in this city and there found two columns devoted to the new beer regulations, which have gone into force in that institution of learning. The articles, three in number, are written in grandiose diction, bristle with such terms as "dons," "butteries," and in every other line the students are called "the men." "Buttery" is the Oxford term for the college canteen, and in plain terms the governing powers of Trinity have limited it to supplying beer at dinner time only. Here are some extracts:

When the provost called a college meeting early last week it was readily surmised that he intended to make some announcement with regard to the question of the supply of beer from the buttery, which has been so exercising the minds of some of our members of Convocation lately, as well as some outsiders who take a kindly interest in our affairs, and so it turned out. The provost had no fault to find with the men, nor did he think that they were in the habit of abusing the privileges permitted them. It was quite conceivable, he thought, however, that, through the prevalence of the custom, some students coming up to college might be led into drinking beer, to whom it might, perhaps, be hurtful. He was, he said, very ready and very glad to accept the assurance of the men that cases of excess were rare and were distinctly frowned upon by the majority of students. Nevertheless, in discussing the matter, the faculty had come to the conclusion that their best course would be to limit the issue of beer from the buttery to dinner time. At the same time it is forbidden to import spirituous liquors into college except with special permission.

In an editorial The Review says:

Up to the first of this month it has been possible for our men to obtain beer at the college butteries whenever it was required, either for dinner or for supper. Notwithstanding the criticisms of outsiders, who knew nothing at all about the matter, and who seem to think that the regulations of a Divinity School should be applied to a University, the system was found to work well and the privilege was rarely abused. It was found that the secret introduction of spirits into the University buildings was stopped by this enlightened policy and that the men were trained in habits to self-restraint and a sense of personal responsibility. Habitual over-indulgence was a thing unknown * * But unfortunately a knowledge of the true state of affairs was confined to those immediately concerned, and, presumably from the mere fact that Trinity was not a prohibition institution, there began to arise strange stories of the inner working of the Trinity beer. Things came to a head at the late meeting of Convocation, the prohibitionists, mustering in force and overflowing with reminiscences of their own and long past youthful indiscretions and excesses, spoke in strong terms of the evils of intemperence, calling in question the wisdom of allowing Trinity's beer to be procured at the college butteries. * * Pending the action of the committee the faculty, which had previously been considering the matter, decided that beer for dinner only should be supplied from the butteries.

As the authorities readily admit that the old system worked well and that there was no cause for any change in it, it is evident that the new regulations have been put in force out of deference to the wishes or opinions of people who think they know better how to manage the domestic concerns of the University than do the dons themselves. Whilst we wish the institutions of these good people the success they deserve, we would beg to remind them once more that Trinity is not a divinity school.

Now The World suspects by this winding up reference to divinity school that perhaps "evangelical sentiment" has been making capital out of the existence of a canteen in the high church college and that in self-defence the authorities of the latter have had to close it up.

But does anybody imagine that a regulation or a stone wall will keep a student who wants beer from getting beer?

They Call Him the Colonel Now.

Crushed to Death.

BRANTFORD, Nov. 22.—At corner of Queen and Nelson-streets yesterday, while the men were removing the boards from the sewer, the earth caved in on an Italian, completely covering him. His leg is broken and he received fatal inward injuries.

Have You Bought Your New Stove? Lots of people haven't got their stoves and other winter comforts in yet. Want of ready cash. Able to pay but can't get the goods because they won't pay an exorbitant profit for the sake of getting credit. Can these folks have heard of the C. F. Adams Company? No matter what the home needs—a stove, a carpet, furniture of any description C.F. Adams will sell it on credit at cash prices. 177 Yonge-street. 136

A Raised Check.

OTTAWA, Nov. 22.—An ex-employe of the Treasury Department, Charles Burroughs, who was some time ago superannuated, was given a check for $172 for certain extra work that he had done and before cashing it he is alleged to have raised it to $1172, some say $1472. Burroughs has left the country.

Attempt to Burn a Railway Station.

DRESDEN, Nov. 22.—Unknown parties set fire to the Erie & Huron Station yesterday and the building was partially destroyed. The railway offers $100 for the arrest of the incendiary.

DEATHS.

BICKELL—On the 20th inst., James B. Bickell (of Bickell & Wickett), aged 65 years.

Funeral at 8 a.m. Tuesday from his late residence, 373 Sackville-street, to Union Station, thence to Bowmanville. No flowers.

A TRAGEDY OF THE LONG AGO

A HUMAN SKELETON BOUND TO A TREE WITH A CHAIN.

A Hunter's Remarkable Discovery on the North Shore—Among the Branches of a Swaying Pine He Comes Across the Victim of a Horrible Crime—Who Was the Victim?

NEWBORO, Ont., Nov. 22.—Mr. John Fields while out hunting in the woods along the North Shore Friday met with a startling incident. Having found a brood of partridge in one of the largest and tallest pines, he was about to fire among them when he heard the clanking of chains. His curiosity being aroused he proceeded to investigate. Looking carefully around he found claw marks in the sand that was scooped out beneath the tree, and on climbing it a most unusual sight was seen; there bound to the tree were the bones of what proved to be a human skeleton. The chain was nearly eaten through with rust. This unfortunate relic was a subject of much conjecture to all. The question is, whether he had in some moment of delirium or remorse committed suicide in this extraordinary manner, or had been the victim of some marauding party of Indians.

AN ALLEGED MUSKOKA TRAGEDY.

A Farmer Shot Because He Killed a Hunter's Dog.

DRUMBO, Nov. 22.—The Drumbo deer hunters who returned on Friday from Muskoka allege that while they were there a serious shooting affray occurred. Not far from where they were located was another party, and it appears that one of the dogs belonging to the party ran a deer into a farmer's barnyard. For some reason not explained the farmer shot the dog. The hunter coming up and seeing his dead hound then shot one of the farmer's cows to get even. The farmer enraged at this shot the hunter through the arm, when he shot back, killing the farmer.

Baby's Gown Caught Fire.

CORNWALL, Nov. 21.—Mrs. A. Lefebre of the East End left her two children in the house while she went for a pail of water. On her return a few minutes later she found her 10-months'-old baby lying on the floor wrapt in flames. The mother extinguished the fire as quickly as possible and in doing so was badly burned about the face and hands. It is supposed the elder child, about 2½ years of age, lighted a piece of paper at the stove and, dropping it on the floor, the baby's dress became ignited. The child lingered a few hours.

Founder of Longue Pointe Asylum Dead.

MONTREAL, Nov. 22.—Rev. Sister Therese, Superioress of the Sisters of Providence, in charge of the asylum of St. John de Dieu, De Longue Pointe, died at an early hour this morning at the age of 71. Her name was Tetu and she had entered orders in 1844. Eleven years later she founded a house in Valparaiso, Chili. She founded the Longue Pointe Asylum in 1875 and rapidly acquired property valued at a million dollars. Her health suffered greatly at the fire in the spring of 1890, at which 94 patients lost their lives, and she has been ailing ever since.

An Organist Dead.

OTTAWA, Nov. 22.—Rushton Dodd, organist of Knox Church in this city, died suddenly to-day after being ill for some two or three days from typhoid and pleurisy, the result of chill. Mr. Dodd, who came to this city from St. George's, Kingston, took active part in all musical matters, and was a young musician of great promise.

Lumberman Drowned.

OTTAWA, Nov. 22.—Mr. A. C. McCool of the firm of McCool Bros. & Co., lumber merchants of Mattawa, left Cartier station on the C.P.R. to go to one of the firm's lumber shanties some miles distant. Nothing has since been heard of him, but traces have been found of where he tried to cross a lake on his way, so that no doubt remains of his being drowned. He was about 35 years of age and unmarried.

Butler and Birchall.

WOODSTOCK, Nov. 22.—Charles Butler, the piano agent who sent a lying despatch that he had committed suicide in New York, was the man whom Mrs. Birchall endeavored to connect with the murder of Benwell and thus obtain a reprieve for her husband. Butler was staying at the Thompson House at the time. One morning he mysteriously disappeared, leaving behind him a revolver, which was found in his bed. The circumstances served as a plea for Birchall's innocence, but to no effect.

Killed His Companion.

OTTAWA, Nov. 22.—At Hamilton's Corners a young man named Lynch was examining a rifle and half cocked the trigger when it slipped and the weapon was discharged. The bullet entered the [illegible] of a companion named Moore just [illegible] the ribs and inflicted, it is feared, [illegible] wound.

Gave the Constable the Slip.

CHATHAM, Nov. 22.—George Davis, ex-hotel-keeper, arrested for breach of the liquor law, was allowed the use of the constable's room at the police station instead of being placed in a cell. He rewarded the kindness by bolting through a cellar window and is still at large.

Of Course It's Not So.

OTTAWA, Nov. 22.—Lord Stanley's military secretary, Viscount Kilcoursie, denies the rumors published in London Truth that the Governor-General means to retire within a very short time. He states that Lord Stanley will certainly live out his full term here.

Slept in a Hollow Log.

BELLEVILLE, Nov. 22.—Willie, son of Widow Smith of Seymour, wandered away from home. All night long search was made for him without avail, but about 9 o'clock next morning he was discovered cuddled up in a hollow log, where he had remained all night.

Alleged Postoffice Robber.

QUEBEC, Nov. 22.—J. B. Turner of the Quebec Postoffice was arrested to-day charged with robbing the mails. An alleged accomplice named Vohl has disappeared.
