

Why Salves Can't Cure Eczema

Since the old-fashioned theory of curing eczema through the blood has been given up by scientists, many different salves have been tried for skin diseases. But it has been found that these salves only clog the pores and cannot penetrate to the inner skin below the epidermis where the eczema germs are lodged.

This—the quality of penetrating—probably explains the tremendous success of the well known liquid eczema remedy, oil of wintergreen, thymol, glycerine, etc., as compounded in D.D.D. Prescription.

We have sold other remedies for skin troubles but none that we can recommend as highly as this for we know that D.D.D. stops the itch at once.

Of course other druggists have D.D.D. Prescription—go to them if you can't come to us—but don't accept some big profit substitute.

But if you come to our store, we can tell you all about D.D.D. Prescription and how it cures eczema, because we have had the agency for so long.

Or you can get a free trial bottle by writing the D.D.D. Laboratories, 49 Colborne St., Toronto. Taylor & Son, Druggists.

Meerschmum.

The substance which is commonly known as "meerschmum" is known to science as magnesite. It is composed of magnesite, silica and water, and is, in plain words, silicated magnesite clay. It is extracted from deposits in Asia Minor, near the little city of Kulm, and is found, though in less abundance, in other places.

When taken from the quarry magnesite is washed in constantly agitated water in which it settles in a fine, close, grain-less mass. After this first washing the deposit is dried in the air, molded into cakes, and slightly baked. Then the paste is "aromatized" and carved or molded into pipes. The aromatization consists in dipping the paste in boiling perfumed oil, which gives the product its unctuous smoothness. The value of a meerschmum pipe depends upon the size and purity of the block from which it is made.

WELCOME WORDS TO WOMEN

Women who suffer with disorders peculiar to their sex should write our Association and receive free the advice of a physician of over 40 years' experience—a skilled and successful specialist in the diseases of women. Every letter of this sort has the most careful consideration and is regarded as sacredly confidential. Many sensitively modest women write fully what they would shrink from telling to their local physician. The local physician is pretty sure to say that he cannot do anything without "an examination." Dr. Pierce holds that these distasteful examinations are generally needless, and that no woman, except in rare cases, should submit to them.

Dr. Pierce's treatment will cure you right in the privacy of your own home. His "Favorite Prescription" has cured hundreds of thousands, some of them the worst of cases.

It is the only medicine of its kind that is the product of a regularly graduated physician. The only one good enough that its makers dare to print its every ingredient on its outside wrapper. There's no secrecy. It will bear examination. No alcohol and no habit-forming drugs are found in it. Some unscrupulous medicine dealers may offer you a substitute. Don't take it. Don't trifle with your health. Write to World's Dispensary Medical Association, Dr. R. V. Pierce, President, Buffalo, N. Y.,—take the advice received and be well.

A Fair Offer.

She was strong minded and meant to have her rights at any cost, and when she was hauled up before the justice of the peace for exceeding the speed limit she demanded to be represented by counsel.

"I just tell you one thing judge," she said, whacking the table with her right hand, "I'd rather pay a lawyer $25 than give this court $10 for a fine."

"All right, madam," said the judge, "I'm the only lawyer hereabouts, and if you'll hand over that $25 I'll guarantee to appear before myself and get you off."

Penalty of Initials.

"It has been by observation," said the pretty girl, "that the greatest difficulty a girl experiences at a co-educational college is disposing of the quantities of shaving soap sent her by manufacturers who copied the names of the entire student body from lists where boys and girls alike are registered by their initials and distributed his samples of soap impartially with the request that the recipient write a testimonial to the effect that it is the best shaving soap she ever used."

Ancient Tinted Parchments.

The use of colored parchments, papyrus and paper dates far back into the past, and even in the middle ages de luxe volumes inscribed in gold and silver on purple or golden yellow parchments were highly prized and even forbidden by law to any but princes and church dignitaries. This style of display gave way to the lavish illumination in gold or colors on a white ground which reached its highest perfection in the fifteenth century.

Early Insurance.

To Gasoline Users.

It should be known to everybody in these days of gasoline lamps and stoves that gasoline will not explode until its fumes have been mixed with at least six parts of atmospheric air. Gasoline will catch fire as soon as any liquid known, but let it alone and it will burn out, doing no damage and leaving no scar or sign of fire. Mixed with air in the proportions mentioned it is far more dangerous than dynamite. No receptacle of this liquid should be left uncorked, for to do so is to make the room where it is kept far worse than a powder magazine. This matter of safely handling gasoline is very easy, and no one should be ignorant of how it should be done.

Suffering beneath the razor of an incompetent barber, the customer signaled to the operator to halt. "Yes sir?" inquired the barber, inclining his head. "Give me gas!" said the customer.

A Crime to Burn Coal.

Apropos of the present coal strike in that country, a contemporary points out that in the reign of Edward I. it was a capital offence to burn coal in England. The indignant Londoners at the sight of the dense pall of smoke which rose from the coal furnaces petitioned King Edward that its consumption be prohibited declaring that it was "a public nuisance, corrupting the air with its stink and smoke, to the great detriment of their health." Moved by these protests, and probably anxious to nip the London fog and smoke in the bud—to scramble metaphors—King Edward prohibited the use of coal. A commission of Oyer and Terminer was issued to try all those guilty of this heinous offence. A first offender got off with a fine, but if he repeated the transgression the guilty furnace or kiln was destroyed. Later, however, a man was tried, condemned, and actually hanged for burning coal in London. What is needed just now is some kind of law which will hang men who seek to interfere with the people's supply of coal. Times have changed since the days of Edward I.

Red-Haired Girl.

It would be a distinct loss were the red-haired girl to pass out, so to speak, says the Pittsburg Gazette-Times. She has been so much in evidence through all these years that she would be missed, not only as a bright touch of color, but as the loss of social spice.

The man who has a red-haired wife (he says golden-haired) and knows her well, wouldn't exchange her for any other. Indeed an easy-going blonde wife would fret him, having been used to bear quick steps, quick words, and seeing quick rushes of tears.

Should the number of red-haired girls grow less those left will become prizes, and red-haired stock go up.

If you want a friend who will stick to you through thick and thin, and go with you through good and bad report, take the girl with red hair. She may be a bit fiery at times, but you can safely bet that she will make it hot for those who attempt to do you or to traduce your good name.

Resourceful Linemen.

A recent item in a Berlin, Ont., paper records the resourcefulness of two Bell Telephone linemen as follows:—

"The thoughtful act of two telephone linemen saved the life of a little girl this morning.

The child had taken a dose of gasoline and was suffering extreme internal pain and the mother and neighbors were in a quandary how to notify a physician, the home being half a mile from the nearest telephone. The two telephone men happened to be working in front of the house and were told of the unfortunate circumstances.

Immediately one of them climbed the pole, cut the wire, attached his receiver which he had with him and notified the family physician.

Ten minutes later the doctor was at the house, applied emetics and a few minutes the little girl had recovered and was running about as usual, thanks to the quick-wittedness of the Bell Telephone Company's workmen.

The safe in the Arva mills, near London, Ont., was wrecked and nearly $200 stolen.

A London actress was so overcome with stage fright on the occasion of her marriage that the ceremony had to be postponed. After she has been divorced a few times this unnatural shyness will gradually disappear.

A bill has been introduced in the New Jersey legislature to impose a poll tax of one dollar on cats. It would require a fleet-footed officer to collect the revenue from the grand chorus of a roof garden concert.

"When I was a young man, I was very fond of music," remarked Mr. Cumrox. "My singing laid the foundation of my fortune." "You sang so well?" "No, the captain of industry who started me in life said that anybody who would get up before folks and sing as I did had marvellous will power."
