LOBNE,

BREED WALKING HORSES .- Whether for traveling or for farm purposes a fast even walk is the best for or for farm purposes a fast even want is the best for a horse, and with such an idea the Rural World gives the following advice for the production of fast walking horses — Breeders should pay attention to this matter. In selecting a stallion to breed from, by all means select one that can walk fast. A slow walking stallion will be likely to get slow walking colts: while the stallion that has a long rapid, spirited stride will be likely to beget colts of similar action. Then there is a great deal in breeding to a horse with spirit and ambition. These cold-blooded horses will beget cold-blooded colts. The nearer you can approach the thoroughbred; even for obtaining a fast walker, the better. There is game there, and spirit, and endurence, and stamina, and style. There are the neat, bony heads and prominent eyes, the small ears, the capacious nostrils, the large lungs and chest the well developed muscles, the bones as dense thoroughbred possible, and the same for trotters, and, of course, the same for runners. You have horses then fit for any company and for any purpose—to haul the plough or buggy, or carriage, or to carry you apon their backs. Breed large fine mares to theroughbred horses, and you will get colts that you will not be ashamed to have your friends see." The soil for an orchard should be in good condition and especially well drained. Any soil in which water stagnates is unfit to plant trees in, If the ground has been occupied by a hoed crop the season previous to setting out the trees, it will be an advantage. Of greater atility still will it be to have the orchard deeply ploughed and sub-soiled just before planting, and repeatedly harrowed to bring the seil into a fine tilth. Where the ground is not naturally fertile enough some fertilizer must be used. There is nothing better than good b rn-yard manure, well rotted or a thoroughly decomposed compost and nothing more than green, fresh manure.

It looks bad to see a dog preceding his master down street, and calmly turn down the stairs to the first saloon he approaches. It shows there is something wrong, something lacking, a deplorable tendency on the part of the dog.

A clergyman in Iowa stood in his door and warned a donation party that the first one who entered his gate would be a dead man. He said it was bad enough to take half his pay in beans without having his house destroyed.
