THE PYLADES TARS ARRIVE.

It was half past four. The crowd away along St. Paul street began to sway are

"Make room there!" shouted some one. The crowd fell back, then a rousing cheer went up and the next moment advancing at the double with Lieutenant Navigator Lloyd and Boatswain Stapleton at their head came 60 of the gallant sailor lads of H. M. S. Pylades. With a rolling rattle and shout the tars came on Drugging behind them was the ship hand-engine on top of which was som 60 cet of leather marine hose.

While engaged in pulling down a wait. Charles Grant, a salior of the Pylicles. had his face badly out and his head in-jured by being struck by a grapping due to the breaking of a chain.

GOOD WORK OF THE POLICE.

At the first outbreak of the fire Sergeant Clark and the men of No. 7, and Sergeant, Sullivan and the men from No. 6 were at the scene, but with the sounding of the general aburn, serge intand all the men that could be spared arrived from every station in the city, and these under the direction of Sub-Chief Lancy preserved admirable order, as the fire lines were well kept, and the crowd was prevented from interfering with the themen in the slightest degree. The good work on the part of the police was most favorably commented on by mony prominent citizens who were present at the fire.

ALL OF T.

At 6 c'clock all fear of the fire spreading was at an end. The fire had been well and bravely fought by both officers and men, whose determined efforts were at last crowned with victory, but it was hours after this before the "all out" was sounded and the greatest conflagration Montreal has witnessed for years was at

THE VICTIMS.

The ambulance was on the spot, and the victims were promptly conveyed ! with the utmost care to the General Hospital. On examination it was found that one of these—Sandy King, driver for Sub-chief Jackson, an old fireman about 60 years of age—was not seriously injured. No bones were broken, but the legs were severely bruised. The other case, however, was of a far more serious character. The victim was not a fireman, but only a voluntary assistant. His in-one leg, the thigh broken of the other, and a severe scalp wound, extending right across the top of the head. Concussion of the brain was suspected, and the doctors are by no means hopeful of his recovery. His name is unknown, he having been unconscious up to an early hour this morning. He is a young ham, slight and with dark hair and com-
