

a $4.4 billion particle accelerator for high-energy physics research; the "Kaon Factory", a project aimed at construction of a world-scale, medium energy, particle accelerator for research into sub-atomic physics at the University of British Columbia campus.