

ment. To quote the words of John the beloved, "Greater joy have I none than this, to hear of my children walking in the truth." Indeed, after all, the one springs from the other. Given perfect submission to the truth of God, and there will never be any difficulty in regard to the gifts of our substance. In receiving these gifts, nothing cheered me so much as to be told again and again that they were to be looked upon as tokens of benefit received through my ministry. Therefore again, I can say with Paul, that I am thankful for them, "Not because I desire a gift; but I desire fruit that may abound to your account."
