For Who But the Dett-fingered Needlewomen of France Can Achieve Such Daintiness of Fine Hand-Stitchery in Simple, Serviceable, Moderate-priced "Undies"? Moreover, the Various Garments Are Designed Especially to Suit the Figure of the Canadian or American Woman. Our Artist has Sketched a Few Typical Models

nainsook, and charmingly dainty the eyelet embroidery in this chemise marked "K." The neck is run with pink or blue ribbon,

and the scallops at the edge

are supplemented by dots.

Price, $3.25. Sizes 36 to 42.

H. Talk about pretty boudoir caps, this surely is one of the very prettiest that was ever concocted for the sum of $1.75. It is made of a good heavy quality of flesh pink crepe de Chine, finished around the edge with little upstanding and down-falling frills of pink satin ribbon and white net, the former embroidered with tiny pink and blue French dots. It is gathered on an elastic. It you prefer blue, you may obtain it in that color.

M. Immensely chic this cap of flesh pink crepe de Chine, made filmy around the edge with white net and Val. insertion, which in turn is bordered with narrow pink satin ribbon, hand-embroidered with pink and blue French dots. Notice the coquettish little bow talling down over the wearer's ears. Price $2.00. The same model may be had, too, in blue and in white.

F. Straight and comparatively narrow at the knee is this drawer, with the Valenciennes lace frilling its scalloped edges. It is made of the finest of French nainsook, exquisitely embroidered in eyelet and solid design. At the top of the slashed side, pink ribbons are tied through eyelets provided for the purpose. Price. $3.50.

P. Not much need to say anything more about the pattern on this delightful petticoat. The artist has told you the story well. Allow one to add merely that the material of the flounce is

and the top is in nainsook, blue silk ribbon running through the beading at the knee. The price is $10.50, and the lengths available are 38, 40 and 42

R. Here below is a typical French underskirt, with flounce scalloped and embroidered by hand and set in with hemstitched beading. It is of nainsook, with a dust ruffle underneath. Price, $5.00. It is featured in three lengths-38, 40 and 52 inches.

J. Truly enough this is an exquisite bit of needlework—and full of style, too. For notice that it's fashioned with it's waistline a la Empire. The upper portion is lavishly embroidered, both back and front, so, too is the drawer, at the knees. And a nive flatness is assured at the waist by the confining of all fullness into rows upon rows of hand-stitched tucks. Sizes procurable are 56 to 42 bust measure. Price, $9.00.

N. Simple and unassuming, yet, a very dainty, distinctive gown for all that, the nainsook being fine, the embroidery very pretty, the seams and hems sewn by hand, and the price but $3.75. And, of course, at higher prices-$4.50, $5.00, $7.50, $9.00 and on up to $18.00—are L. S. If it's gathering together a trousseau you are, then probably you'll be especially interested in the two, three and four-piece sets of lingerie which the little Grey Enamel Rooms are featuring for Spring and Summer brides. Beauteous "undies" they are, filmy of material and lovely of embroidering, prices ranging from $7.50 to $35.00 the set. And just to convince you of how surprisingly moderate these prices are, the set at the first-mentioned price has been illustrated above. Observe the charming little bowkhot and eyelet design of the embroidery. Moreover, the quality of the nainsook is distinctly soft and fine, and the corset-cover boasts fine tucks down the back. And the price but $7.50 for the three pieces—nightgown, drawer and corset-cover! The sizes in which the set is obtainable are $6, 38 and 40 bust measure. T. EATON CUMITED

T. Eyelet embroidery wrought with the delicate touch of an accomplished embroiderer makes a very attractive little garment of this corset - cover above. Groups of tiny hand-stitched tucks ornament the back, and the edges show the characteristic scalloping. It may be had in sizes $4 to 42. Price, $2.25.

U. Another alluring little cap for breakfastn-bed or bedroom wearing. The lines you see running round the crown are tiny ruffles of pale blue ribbon, mounted on pale blue crepe de Chine and the frill is of ecru Oriental lace. It may be had, if you pre-

V. We have printed the price below it to impress upon you the extra good value represented by this particular combination drawer and corset-cover. It is made by hand throughout, the embroidery is charmingly done, and fine French nainsook composes it. And what a boon such a combination is to her who wishes to avoid fullness and many waistbands in her undergarments. It may be had in sizes 36, 38, 40 and 42 bust measure.

the most interesting corners of the Store these days, take a peep into the room where the class in lampshade making is in progress. It is a clear case of each to his own taste. Here is one person stitching away at a Frenchy concoction of rose pink silk and gold galloon. Her neighbor, in tune with the current mode, is evolving a handsome pagoda-like shade of Chinese embroidery. Another worker is intent on a charming thing in chints. Somebody else is not making a shade at all, but a round, shirred cushion for her sofa. It is a nice secluded spot off the Drapery Department on the Fourth Floor, the instruction is free of charge—small wonder that the classes are popular. For what is a living-room or drawing-room without shaded lights and smart, downy or drawing-room without shad-ed lights and smart, downy-cushions?

And, speaking of things decorative, have you noticed the fascinating casement cloths—set out on a special platform in little groups of alluring greens, blues, pinks and browns? Some are plain, some are ribbed, some are brocaded, and some boast a self-tone trellis pattern. They are the famous English "Sundour" fabrics, warranted to keep their color in the glare of the tropics. Nothing more delightful could be imagined for the curtaining of casement windows.

hymn-printed in gool size type-appear alongside of the music as the roll unwinds. Needless to point out what a boon it is to the singer who is unable to play his own accompaniment. Some of the "popular" numbers available are "From the Bohemian Girl," "Because," "A Perfect Day," "Absent," "Lead, Kindly Light," "Abide With Me," "Soniewhere a Voice is Calling," and "The Sunshine of Your Smile."

Tassels for knitting bags, tassels for sashes, tassels for sofa cushions, tassels for hats, tassels for the angel sleeves of dressing gowns, tassels for the monks' collars of blousesthe monks' collars of blouses— thus runs one of the chapters in the story of the styles. And mostly they are Chinese tas-sels, with jade or coral beads, holding the silk strands in place. Sometimes, however, they are French-made, wholly of small beads set solidly into the shape of a bell.
