

BATHING IN THE SHALLOWS OFF BELLE ISLE.

The shallow river on the west side of Belle Isle Park makes an ideal bathing spot, and hundreds of young and old people disporting themselves in the warm waters on an afternoon is no uncommon sight.

BRANCHING OUT WITH RIVERDALE.

The large vacant areas in the east and northeast parts of the city are filling up so rapidly that it looks as if Toronto's centre of population will soon be brought from Spadina-ave. back to Yonge-street.

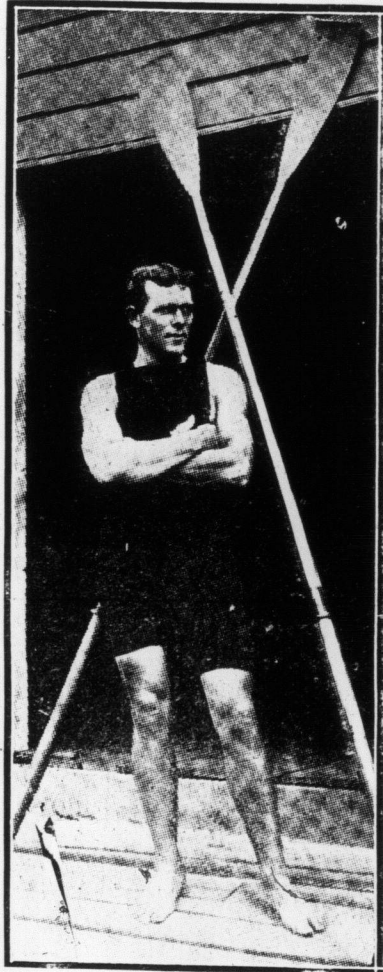

To keep abreast of this development in Riverdale Mr. Sam H. Gibbons, who for ten years has conducted an especially high-class grocery at 742 Queen-street East, three months ago opened a branch at 338 Pape-avenue, just above Gerrard-street. The illustration shows how attractive a store it is. This branch is conducted on a strictly cash basis and at both stores Mr. Gibbons aims to excel in every department of the grocery business. His windows have been among the prize winners in the Canadian Grocer window-dressing competitions. His store arrangement is always attractive; his delivery wagons are models of the carriage makers' skill. Best of all he always sells good goods. Butter and a number of other articles he puts out under his own registered brand "Riverdale."

He features Red Rose Tea, as the picture shows, and recommends specially the 40 cent grade.

Mr. Gibbons' methods and energy have won him an enviable position in the commercial life of the eastern portion of the city.

CANOEING ON THE CANALS OF BELLE ISLE.

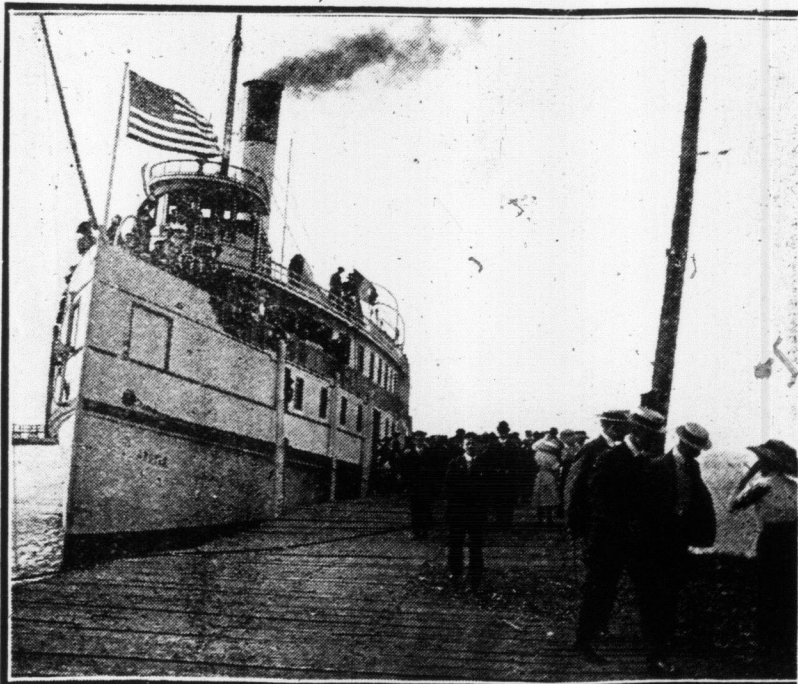

Belle Isle is doubtless one of the most beautiful parks in America. It is situated in the Detroit River one mile east of Detroit. Many thousands of Windsor and Detroit people avail themselves of the park's shade and play grounds during the summer months.
