"THE SECRET KINGDOM"

THE SUPER-SERIAL OF THE SCREEN

Beginning with "The Land of Intrigue"—the assassination of the King and Queen of Alania, the usurpation of the throne by the Prime Minister, and the rescue of the little Crown Prince by a loyal officer of the palace guard.

Picturesque scenes at the Alanian Court—conspirators at work—the last ride of the King and Queen in the forests of Alania—the daring escape with the rightful heir to America.

This is a wonderfully strong and absorbing episode—a fitting opening to the most remarkable serial of romantic adventure ever filmed.

Story by Louis Joseph Vance—famous author of adventure stories.

Stars: Charles Richman, Dorothy Kelly, Arline Pretty—popular screen favorites.

Produced by the Greater Vitagraph—the world's greatest and strongest motion picture organization.

Little Gertrude had been especially inquisitive all evening. Her father had answered her questions patiently, but he was becoming exasperated. Finally she said: "What do you do at the office all day, daddy?" "Oh, nothing," he said. Gertrude pondered over this answer for a moment. Then she returned valiantly to the charge. "But how do you know when you have finished?" she asked.

Mrs. Hawkins, who posed as a literary woman and professed a great admiration for Byron's works, had recently purchased a little dog and was showing him to a caller. "What have you named him?" asked the caller. "Perchance," was the reply. "What a singular name for an animal," commented the caller. "I named him after Byron's dog," she explained. "Don't you remember the line in 'Childe Harold,' where the poet says, 'Perchance my dog?'"

Little Marie stood in the doorway, one hand on the doorknob. For a moment she gazed at her mother, who was preparing to go out. "Mother," she said, "do you know what I am going to give you for your birthday when it comes?" "No, dear," answered the mother. "Please tell me." "A nice hairpin tray with gold flowers on it all around," said the little girl. "But, my dear," exclaimed the mother, "I have a nice one like that already." "No, you haven't, mother," Marie answered. "I have just dropped it on the floor."
