ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

By Olive Roberts Barton

WEENY AND THE TWINS KEEP STORE.

Weeny ate about a dollar and ninety cents' worth.

While Charley Monkey went to the bank, Weeny and the twins found his lemonade-ice cream-peanut-popcorn stand for him. They were kept very busy. First Andy Antelope came and bought two packages of chewing gum. Then Bobby Ostrich came and bought a sandwich (which he ate at one bite). Next Tommy Cockatoo bought at ice cream cone and after that so many people came it kept all three of them very busy. Weeny kept one eye on the peanut bowl, to be sure that some of them were left. After while customers stopped coming and the elephant and the twins had time to sit down. "Now then," said Weeny, wiping his face with his handkerchief, "Charley Monkey told us to eat all we wanted and to stay as long as we liked, so I'm going to begin by eating all the peanuts in the peanut bowl and end by drinking three gallons of orangeade and then going to sleep. Help yourselves, twins, and don't say a word for an hour and sixty-five minutes, please. I'm going to be busy."

So he started in and all you could hear was a crunch, crunch, crunching as Weeny, the elephant, ate his peanuts. Or maybe you couldn't hear him. I forget, but anyway he ate them. And Nancy and Nick each had ever so many things, quite enough to make them sick, I am sure. Ice cream cones and pickles (yes, Charley sold pickles, too) and pop, and sandwiches and candy and coco-nuts and crackerjacks and everything. About a hundred and ten cents' worth. And I guess Weeny ate about a dollar and ninety cents' worth. After Weeny had his nap and another gallon of ginger ale, Charley Monkey came home. "Whoopie!" he cried. "I see business has been good—very, very good."

WOMEN DISCUSS MILK PRICES HERE

Report Two Babies Died After Free Supply was Discontinued.

Faced by the grim fact that following the curtailment of the fresh milk fund expenditures two little lives had been lost, the committee of the St. John Council of Women which has charge of that fund yesterday seriously reviewed the situation. The committee met at the residence of Mrs. A. W. Estey, president of the council, and learned that there was now in the fund hardly any more money than would pay the bills of two months and that in the last five months the bills had amounted to $1,083.99. The price charged for milk in St. John was much criticised and it was decided to have a committee of three consisting of Mrs. Estey, Miss Dora Coates, superintendent of the Victorian Order of Nurses in St. John, and Miss Ethel Hazen Jarvis, acting secretary of the milk fund committee, visit the pasteurization plants and interview the managers. It was stated that the farmers are receiving five and a half cents a quart for milk which retails at 14 cents, that the pasteurization plants charge from one to two cents a quart for pasteurization, that the plants reckoned a charge of one cent a quart against all milk sold as the cost of breakage and loss of bottles and that the additional charge is largely taken up in distribution costs. The meeting was of the opinion that the distribution costs were far too high and that in the interests of the citizens generally some form of municipal distribution should be established as a means of reducing milk prices. The charge of one cent a quart to allow for breakages appeared inexplicable to the members of the committee as it was the experience of those present that any breakages in the homes were paid for by the consumer. One pasteurization plant was said to have lost $1,600 through bottle breakage and the non-return of bottles since May of this year. Mrs. Estey reported that when an entertainment had been given for one of the Y. W. C. A. clubs recently she had found none of the pasteurization plants would buy back the 28 empty milk bottles and this appeared strange in view of the statement that the plants found it hard to keep up the supply of bottles.

Miss Coates, who has supervision of the milk fund distribution which is carried out by the Victorian Order of Nurses, reported there were at present 61 babies receiving milk, the majority receiving a quart a day. The 61 included two sets of twins and the quadruplets who had been readmitted as milk fund babies about a fortnight ago. In all, 91 individual babies had been supplied with milk through the fund since the first of the year. The babies now on the fund included the children of two widows, five deserted wives and two unmarried mothers. The others were children whose fathers were out of work.

Two Babies Died.

Miss Coates said that when in June an attempt was made to cut down the number of babies receiving milk because the fund was diminishing, one baby whose supply had been reduced from a quart a day to a pint a day had died and another baby that had had its supply cut off had also died. Since the fund had been put in opera-

FABLES ON HEALTH

Learn How to Walk

Well, now that you have learned how to carry yourself, the next thing you need to know is how to walk. I mean by that how to use your feet, said Mr. Mann's physical director.

"Once you have managed to get a well poised body, you want to be sure of well directed feet."

"Such troubles as weak foot and flat foot are more prevalent among women than men. It isn't altogether the arch, as many think, but a general weakness condition of the leg muscles that support the arch.

"A good exercise for strengthening the leg muscles is to rise upon the toes from 15 to 30 times each morning."

"People who toe out place a greater strain upon the arches of their feet than those who toe in. Persons who continuously toe out should try just as persistently to toe in and, in addition to the exercises, will soon be greatly benefited."

ORDERED TO PAY POTATO POOL LOSS

Decision in Victoria Co. Case Given By Mr. Justice Barry

Fredricton, Aug. 18.—In Chambers this morning Mr. Justice Barry gave judgment in an action which was tried before him, without a jury, at the last Victoria County Circuit Court.

Twenty-six of the shareholders of the Andover branch of the Maritime United Farmers' Co-operative, Limited, had, it seems, in the fall of 1920, entered into a partnership agreement to buy potatoes on their own account and sell directly to the trade, thus eliminating the middleman. They were to share the profits or the losses of the venture according to the number of barrels of potatoes delivered by each. The plaintiffs guaranteed their account at the Bank of Nova Scotia at Perth, from which they obtained the necessary advances to buy produce and pay the expenses of management. The venture resulted in a loss of $3.11 per barrel, or $8,837 on the quantity handled and this loss the guarantors had to pay to the bank. These guarantors, R. Willard Demmings and six others, are suing H. Lee Bedell and James W. Howlett, two of the 25 shareholders, for their proportionate share of the loss. Mr. Bedell is defending the action as against him on the ground that one of the conditions on which he entered into the arrangement had not been fulfilled. That was that it was understood that all of the co-partners having produce to sell should sell it of it through the agency of the partnership and through that agency alone, and that was not done.

Mr. Howlett's defence was, principally, that having furnished no potatoes, he was not liable for a part of the loss. The judge found the issues of fact against both the defendants, and entered judgments for $1,938.25 against Bedell and $346.25 against Howlett, with costs of suit in both cases.

SAVE TWO CLINGING TO DRIFTING BOAT

Reston, Aug. 18.—Nicholas Muzerall, light keeper at Richibucto Harbor, and William Wilson, were aroused at midnight recently by calls for help. The two men manned a boat and rowed out into the harbor, where they rescued from drowning Willie Arsenau, aged 14, and John B. Richard, of Richibucto Village. The boat to which they clung was being washed out to sea. The boy when brought to shore was almost exhausted.
