JAPAN PLAYING LOSING GAME IN HER FIGHT FOR GREAT NAVY

No One Believes, However, She Will Balk the Hughes' Programme—Attack Made on Under Construction Principle—Kato Says the Mutau is Completed.

Washington, Dec. 3—Japan is putting up a stiff rear-guard fight for a 10-10 naval ratio instead of the 8-8 ratio assigned her by the Hughes programme. She will continue to resist until the last minute. But there is no a conference announcement of risk in Washington does not constitute belief—as the American delegation held out—that a settlement on the Hughes basis is impending and inevitable.

Japan's insistence on the 10-10 ratio now is formally before the conference. The official presentation of Tokyo's objection to the Hughes ratio occurred in the session of the technical experts. It was made in the form of an objection to the 8-8 percentage of the Hughes ratio. The American delegation, however, is not prepared to provide adequately for the national security of Japan.

Later in the day Admiral Baron Kato should be known formally to the secretary Hughes and to the British delegation. Kato is expected to demand that Japan be allowed to increase the ratio according to the results of the conference. He is expected to make public his own views on the subject during the "big three" conference in a projected speech.

Later for almost three hours secretary Hughes debated the question of the ratio. He pointed out that the American delegation is not prepared to provide adequately for the national security of Japan. He pointed out that the American delegation is not prepared to provide adequately for the national security of Japan. He pointed out that the American delegation is not prepared to provide adequately for the national security of Japan.

is the Mutau "Under Construction"?
After the committee of experts had agreed to disagree on the question of the ratio, the committee of experts considered the American principle bearing on "ships under construction."
The committee of experts agreed that the ratio issue being thrown into the full committee of the "big three" for agreement. The committee of experts agreed that the ratio issue being thrown into the full committee of the "big three" for agreement. The committee of experts agreed that the ratio issue being thrown into the full committee of the "big three" for agreement.

Hughes Will Not Recede.
The whole situation comes down to a single, simple proposition, and that is whether the United States is consideration ships which are under construction. From the official American viewpoint, which has been repeated and about which there can be no compromise, the correct ratio stand taken by the United States not even doubtful. It has been suggested that Japan has accepted the 8-8 ratio, but this is a mere understanding respecting the ratio and also to come to an agreement with the United States in respect to the ratio. The ratio issue
