'The meeting was attended by repre tatives of mills from all over the Un from Ottawa, But Is Uncommunicative-Outline of Some of St. John's Illuminations and Decorations for October 17,

George Robertson, M. P. P., returned Tuesday from Ottaws. His visit to the capital was as the provincial government representative in connection with arrangents for the royal visit to St. John.

He said that the city would have the service of the local militia at its disposal and added that he was hopeful of the result of his negotiations with the militia department.

Upon reliable authority The Telegraph learns there is a strong probability that St. John will have a big military review on the occasion of the duke's visit.

According to whisperings in military circles four thousand men will come to St. John to be reviewed by the duke if what is contemplated is realized. Negotiations for this event have been going on for some days between the provincial government and the dominon militia department. A determination is anticipated today or to-florrow.

Mourow.

Even if the scheme for the big review falls through 1,500 or 1,600 volunteers will participate in the St. John celebration.

At a meeting of the committee of the government yesterday Mr. Robentson, secretary to the committee, submitted a report and various details connected with the visit of the royal party were consid-

Another grand display is being arranged for by Manchester, Robertson & Allison, a firm whose efforts in former celebrations have been notable. Something which will celipse all former demonstrations is the intention of the firm. They will decorate both King street and Market square buildings. Fifteen hundred "incandescents will be used in the illuminating.

Work of wiring the front of the custom house for an electrical display was begun yesterday. Five hundred tamps will emblazen the Prince William street side of the building. One feature will be a crown, 30 feet high, covered with incandescents on the cupola over the main entrance.

On the post office there will be transparencies of the duke and duchess and King Edward, the latter representing him as he was when here in 1860.

Sections of the three city arches are in the course of construction. The King street structure will be illuminated by 500 incandescents. The Mill and Broad street arches will be studded with 250 lamps each.

Among other things decided upon by the city is to have a row of arc lights surrounding the King and Queen squares.

Mrs. Chipman told the story of the Mrs. Chipman told the story of the work of the convention, and said that our advantages added to our responsibilities.

Miss Palmer, branch corresponding secretary, presented a report in which she stated that the adult members of the society numbered 1,578, and young members 1,717, and that the subscriptions amounted to $136 more than last year.

Dr. Maud Killam then addressed the meeting. She wore the native Chinese costume. She spoke of the few laborers in proportion to the immense number of in proportion to the immense number of people, and described the theories of their three religions and spoke of their super-stitions. They gave no honor to women, made people fear demons on all sides, allowed the murders of girl babies, and, after a life of suffering, gave no comfort to the dying. These superstitions had retarded the progress of China, for the Chinese have as good mental ability as the Canadians. But the worse curse in China was the opium trade. She closed with an earnest appeal to all for daily prayers and asked for financial aid to spread the gospel of Jesus Christ, which has done so much for us. The address was intensely interesting. There was special music.

Chatham, N. B., Sept. 26—(Special)—
The W. F. M. convention opened this morning with a very helpful prayer service on working together with God, led by Mrs. Howard, of Baie Verte. After the routine business, Mrs. Byron Coulthart read a paper on the model president.

It was full of good supprestions, which It was full of good suggestions, which could not fail to be a great source of help to all present. Mrs. Coulthart emphasized the fact that each president should thoroughly understand her work. This paper was discussed by the meeting. The afternoon session was opened by a Bible reading on faithfulness, led by Mrs. Munroe. Mission band work was taken up by the mission band secretary, Mrs. Byron Coulthart. Three or four little delegates from mission bands gave short reports of work in their particular band. Dr. Killam addressed a number of children on child life in China. TERRIBLE DEATH OF A CHILD AT CHATHAM, N. B.

Chatham, N. B., Sept. 25—(Special)—Elmer, the 10-year-old son of William Tait, was burned to death last night. He went with his older brother and two companions to the Chatham laundry stable, and, while his brother was putting up the horse, the little boy attempted to fill a lighted lantern from a gasolene can. Young Tait's clothing caught fire, and, before the blaze could be extinguished, he was fatally burned.

Three doctors were called, but he died at 1 a. m.
