The Wesleyan Sacred Harp.

The Wesleyan Sacred Harp. The authors say in their preface:—"Our object in compiling this book, is to supply a denominational want which is felt, and often expressed by our preachers and people. We commit the work to tod, and his children praying that all who sing from these pages on earth, may sing the new song in heaven torever."

We are pleased to know that so far sait has been examined the Harp meets the strong appropriate of the denomination, and we trust that it will soon be in generalize.

Zion's Herald, Boston, speaks thus of this work:—
This book is, without doubt, one of the very best of its class. We like it because its pages are not distigured by the light dogged which sometimes fluids is way him sugar, which I verify believe was the means of saving my life. Soon after wearing the Inhaire, I found it releved the and the strong of the chirch want of such a work."

From the Western Christian Advocate, Cincinnation Ohio:—" We commend the Westeyan Harp most cordial. To the singing members of the chirch acceptance of the static presents on the limitate, and to surprise the limitate, and to surprise the limitate, and to surprise the limitate, and the strong and pury sing to the lange, I feel in the chirch acceptance of th who rest the want of such a work."

From the Western Christian Advocate, Cincinnati, Ohio: "We commend the Westeyan Harp most cordialiff to the singing members of the church, especially all such as believe in praising Good."
