

NEW ANTI-INFLUENZA SERUM PREVENTS AFTER-PNEUMONIA

Army Medical Men in Montreal District Getting Good Results.

Montreal despatch: A new anti-influenza serum is now being used by Col. Bridge, A.D.M.S., and the medical officers of M. D. No. 3, as a preventive, not only of the influenza itself, but chiefly of the pneumonia diseases and lung abscesses which have proved more fatal than the influenza. This is a serum known as the polyvalent serum, and it is administered subcutaneously, just as was the anti typhoid serum with the overseas troops.

Col. Bridge stated yesterday that all the officers and men of the R. C. R. stationed at the Peel street barracks were inoculated with this serum last week, following a mild outbreak of the influenza at the barracks. Whether or not it was a result of this treatment, the outbreak had been of a very mild character, and there have been no cases of serious after-complications.

Trial is Inexpensive.—To those who suffer from dyspepsia, indigestion, rheumatism or any ailment arising from derangement of the digestive system, a trial of Parmenter's vegetable Pills is recommended, should the sufferer be unacquainted with them. The trial will be inexpensive and the result will be another customer for this excellent medicine. So effective is their action that many cures can certainly be traced to their use where other pills have proved ineffective.

Record Novels.

Nowadays the shorter novel is in vogue as well as the short story. Occasionally a novel runs to 100,000 words, and sometimes a little over, but 80,000 is about the limit as a rule.

Martin Chuzzlewit and Dombey and Son probably run to 400,000 words. The longest novel in the English language is Richardson's "Clarissa Harlowe," published in 1749. It was originally issued in eight volumes. It runs to over 800,000 words!

But even this is far surpassed by Mlle. de Scudery's famous novel of the seventeenth century, "La Grand Cyrus." This ran to ten volumes, and was translated into English and appeared in five folios of 500 pages each. Yet it was read widely.

Then there was La Capreneche, who wrote Cleopatra. This novel, which found hosts of readers, actually ran

AN IDEAL LIFE.

Tiny Bay Island, Utilla, Lazy Man's Paradise.

Life in the Isle of Utilla is described in The Oregonian as an existence of unbroken ease. There are no worries or ceaseless struggles for your daily outflakes. Nature takes care of all that. Utilla's place on the map would be hard to find, but it's worth discovering. Away off in a southern sea, never heard from before and but little known it comes to the knowledge of the Pan-American union that here have Americans found a home that others enjoy when they are dead.

"We call it a lazy man's paradise," says the message from this land of delight, "not that the inhabitants are necessarily indolent, but simply because a large amount of labor is superfluous. Nature provides for nearly all our wants here as in most tropical countries. Farming is our principal occupation, yet there is not a plow on the island. Frost is unknown and extreme heat is never experienced. Ninety degrees in the shade would be an unusually high temperature. Our grade schools are of high standard, attendance being compulsory 10 months in the year. American textbooks exclusively are used and social life could not be distinguished from that of the United States.

Utilla is one of the Bay Islands, a string of six verdant keys in the Bay of Honduras, an arm of the Caribbean sea, which were discovered by Columbus in 1502. They were then thickly populated by native Indians who became slaves. The islands now are inhabited wholly by English-speaking people.

In 1852 settlers on the island petitioned the governor of Belize to administer them as a British colony. This was done until 1960 when the island was ceded to Honduras. "The change somewhat discouraged the people at first," says the letter, "but they soon learned that the laws of Honduras were equally just and allowed all the privileges in the pursuit of life and happiness enjoyed under British rule. The administration of the present governor, R. Barahona Mejia, whose headquarters are at Roatan, the capital, is giving general satisfaction."—New York Times.

PEANUTS ARE FINEST FOOD

Roasted peanuts are more nutritious than sirloin of beef, mutton, veal, turkey, chicken and eggs. Many of us can scarcely believe it and yet it is true. They have more heating properties than skim milk, whole milk, or cheese. They contain more ash, the brain and bone-forming property, than rice or cornmeal, and they are richer in flesh-forming qualities than whole wheat flour, lima beans, rice, barley, macaroni and vermicelli. Like popcorn, chocolate raisins and coconut, peanuts are rich in fat-forming qualities, the quality that fits one for enduring cold weather, so the craving of school children in winter for chocolate candy, popcorn and peanuts is the natural craving for suitable food to supply heat to the body.

As an evenly-balanced food peanuts are far above eggs, rice, hominy, chicken and salmon. They are nearly twice as good a fat builder as potatoes, and about eight times as nutritious. They are about four times as heavy in the qualities that nourish all parts of the body as whole milk, and about six times as nutritious as almost all kinds of fish.

A WINTER FOOD.

As a winter food, therefore, 25 things are better than peanut sandwiches and peanut butter, or any cooked dishes containing peanuts, because the olive oil or cream used in making peanut butter furnishes the fattening units of nutrition necessary to renew the fat cells and furnish heat and energy, while the peanuts furnish the flesh-forming unit.

Peanuts, milk, pur butter and good bread are almost an ideal dietary.

A PEANUT BUTTER.

This is the way to make delicious peanut butter: Take freshly roasted peanuts, shelled and skinned, and pound them to a powder in a wooden mortar or heavy earthenware bowl, or you can grind them in a food-chopper. Then mix with fresh butter or cream, adding a little salt, making the nut butter as thin as desired, and work to a smooth paste, when it is ready to use. Oil or oil may be used also, when the butter will keep indefinitely.

PEANUT MEATOCE.

Dissolve one cup of oatstarch in two cups of tomato juice, two cups of peanut butter and one teaspoonful of salt, stir for a few minutes, then pour into a baking dish and steam for four hours.

OTTOMAN EMPIRE REDUCED TO DUST

Turk Frontiers to Hold Only 6,000,000 People.

Navy Wiped Out, Sultan's Sway Small.

London cable says: The once powerful Ottoman Empire was finally reduced to dust by the Allied Supreme Council to-day through its decision to so restrict Turkey's future frontiers that they will contain a population of only 6,000,000 as compared with Turkey's pre-war population of 30,000,000.

Territorially, the Turkish sway, formerly extending from the Danube to the Red Sea, is now limited to a small corner of Anatolia. At the same time the Sultan, titular successor to Mehmet the Prophet, will exercise his Caliphate from a circumscribed area in and around Constantinople, under the perpetual menace of British, French and Italian naval guns.

This, the Supreme Council announced to-day, will be Turkey's punishment for her war against the Allies and the Armenian massacre.

Following a long discussion with Admiral Earl Beatty, who was called in to attend the morning session, the Council also determined to wipe out the Turkish navy. The warships that are left to Ottomans will be either scrapped or apportioned among the Allies. Only a few revenue cutters will be allowed to fly the Crescent. Turkey's monetary indemnity has not yet been fixed. A commission was appointed, however, to investigate the Ottoman finances, and its report will be made the basis of financial reparation.
