SAVED BABY.

Guelph Man Used Coal Oil to Hurry Fire.

His Right Hand Almost Burned to a Crisp.

(Special Wire to the Times.) Guelph, Ont,. Nov. 6.-"I hope they save my right hand, but I am glad J saved my baby, anyway," said Fred Bosomworth, of Waterloo avenue, when taken to the General Hospital last evening, suffering from terrible burns as the result of a coal oil explosion, and his attempt to save his two-year-old son from injury. It was the old story of the fire and the coal oil can. Bosomworth was coaxing the fire along with the coal oil, when the explosion came, spreading the burning liquid over the clothing of the father and child. Witnout a thought for himself, Bosomworth battled with the flaming clothing of the baby, and, although the clothing was almost burned off, the child did not suffer. The father, however, was in flames, and pumped water on himself until extinguished. His right hand was burned almost to a crisp, and will probably be useless. The left hand is also badly burned, but will be saved. There are also great burns on the right leg and about the neck.

impression made by their visiting cards. Almost inexcusable, too, is this carelessness, for a proper card and plate costs so little.

A copper plate from which the cards are printed by a process which brings out in fine relief all the delicate lines of the engraving, costs only $1.35.

The plate will last a life time. We usually keep them here, but of course they are always available and will be delivered at any time on request. The quality of the card also has much to do with the appearance of the com-pleted work. We use only the finest stock for this purpose. Samples on request.

STEINHEIL TRIAL

Madame Not on Stand-Former Servant Testifies.

Paris, Nov. 6.-Madame Steinheil, who vas led fainting from the courtroom yesterday, was not called to the stand trial was resumed to-day somewhat to the disappointment of the spectators.

The first witness to-day was Remy Couilkard, formerly a servant in the Steinheil household, but now in the military. It was Couillard who discovered Mme. Steinheil bound and gagged in her bed and the bodies of her husband and stepmother in adjoining rooms. He recounted to-day the story which he had told the police, but nothing new was developed. In his examination special emphasis was laid upon the condition in which Mme. Steinheil was found. Soon after the crime Couillard left the service of Mme, Steinheil, and on Nov. 18, 1998, he was arrested upon suspicion of having been implicated in the murders. A pearl which Mme. Steinheil had claimed was stolen from the home at the time of the murders had been found in his pocket, but after he had been held in jail for several days he was released upon Mme. Steinheil's confession that she had placed the jewel in his pocket. placed the jewel in his pocket.

The "Boy Police."

The "Boy Police."

In the city of Council Bluffs, lows, there is a unique organization known as the "Boy Police," composed, as its name indicates, entirely of boys, whose duty it is to preserve order among the lads of that city and to see that the "rising generation" does not become too boisterous in its fun. The young law officers act under the eyes and orders of the regular police department of the city, and have authority to make arrests when necessary to preserve order.

The size of the force fluctuates, at times decreasing until not a single member is on the roll, and at other times increasing until it reaches, a strength of two hundred and fifty. This is the maximum number allowed to serve in the "Boy Police" force. The boys receive no pay for their work, but are recompensed solely by the prestige which acquest to them as guardians of the peace.

So greatly is the honor esteemed at holiday times, when the mind of Young America naturally turns to mischief, that anything from five hundred to fifteen hundred boys besige the police headquarters, seeking appointments as "policemen." It is the greatest honor that can come to a Council Bluffs boy—to be made a policeman. Every grade of society is found among the applicants, from the street arab to the son of a banker and railroad magnate, for practically every lad in Council Bluffs is a standing candidate for the "job" of a boy policeman.

This "Kid Police," as the force is popularly known, originated in the mind of Chief of Police Richmond, of Council Bluffs, and was more the result of an accident than of mature thought. It was an inspiration, however, that has worked wonders among the boys of Council Bluffs, and has been so successful in its object that it is being seriously considered by a number of other American cities.—Thomss P. Reynolds in the November Wide World Magazine.
