

own personal benefit and aggrandizement, by dividing amongst themselves the principal offices of trust and emolument, and thereby too often prostituting the Legislative and Executive powers entrusted to them, to purposes calculated to maintain themselves in office, instead of directing their attention exclusively to the furtherance of the public welfare.

We believe Your Excellency to be too well acquainted with the principles of Responsible Government, to yield to the extraordinary and unconstitutional attempt of the memorialists to control the opinions of the majority of a newly elected House of Assembly, or to deprive that majority of the opportunity of carrying out, in all its integrity, the established system of Responsible Government, in such form and manner as will prove most conducive to the general interests of the Inhabitants of the Colony.

With full reliance on the knowledge possessed by Your Excellency on matters affecting the constitutional privileges of the Representatives of the people, we humbly and respectfully request that your Excellency will decline to accede to the prayer of the Memorialists to Dissolve the present House of Assembly.

(Copy)

[Of Memorial to Sir Alexander Bannerman, to Dissolve the recently elected House of Assembly.]

MAY IT PLEASE YOUR EXCELLENCY: We humbly desire to convey to Your Excellency, as the Representative of our Most Gracious Sovereign in this Colony, an assurance of our continued attachment to Her Majesty's Person and Government.

This feeling of loyalty and attachment is deepened and strengthened by the reflection, that on Your Excellency's assumption of the Government of this Colony, the principle of Executive Responsibility was conceded to the Inhabitants of this Colony, the Queen's dominions.

For nearly three years that principle has been in operation, and the many important measures of reform of which it has been the precursor, have been productive, as was anticipated, of great advantages to the people of this Island.

Your Memorialists regret to perceive a disposition on the part of a majority of the present House of Assembly, now about to be convened, as was evinced by their Address to Your Excellency, dated the 30th of September, praying for an early call of the Legislature,—to overturn the Constitution established under Your Excellency's auspices, and to introduce or re-establish a form of Government, not congenial to the wishes, and destructive, as your Memorialists believe, of the best interests of a majority of the Inhabitants of Prince Edward Island.

We humbly beg to assure Your Excellency, that, holding opinions, as we believe we do, in accordance with a very large majority of the people of this Island, our feelings and opinions are not represented by the fifteen gentlemen who signed the Address to Your Excellency, dated the 30th of September, assuming to be Representatives of the people,—some of those gentlemen having been elected, as your Memorialists understand, in consideration of their promises to support the Government, as now established, and to concur to us and our posterity the continuance of Responsible Government in all its integrity.

We therefore earnestly beseech Your Excellency that you will not admit of any change being effected in the Constitution of the Colony, nor yield to any vote of a majority of the Assembly, which may have a tendency to alter the political complexion, and introduce different principles into Your Excellency's Government, from those which it is at present influenced, without first affording to your Memorialists, an opportunity, by means of another General Election, of rectifying the errors of the past, and deciding on the merits of the Party seeking to change Your Excellency's Government.

HASZARD'S GAZETTE.

Saturday, February 11, 1854.

The Speech from the Throne, on Thursday, was one of the longest that we ever remember to have heard delivered on a similar occasion. It comprises, however, but four topics,—on each of which we shall offer a few remarks. Since the introduction of Responsible Government, the Speech at the opening of the Session has always been considered by us as emanating from the Executive Council; and we shall always continue so to treat it, not holding the Governor for the time being in any way personally responsible for the incoherence of the statements or opinions which may be therein promulgated.

The allusion to the Resignation presented during the vacancy by a majority of the newly elected members, for the purpose of having the Legislature convened on an early day, we, we think, in bad taste; as a matter had been previously given to the requisitionists, which was matter of public notoriety, and any further mention of it was therefore superfluous; and we should not pass it by as unworthy of further comment, were it not for the extraordinary, and, in our opinion, totally incorrect assertion that is therein contained. In this part of the Speech, the Lieut. Governor is made to say, that his reason for not acceding to that request was "that such a departure from the usual course would have been construed into an admission on his part that evils had arisen demanding an immediate change,—for one of your own statutes, passed six years ago, is in force (as it was at the time of the Election) defining what are Departmental Offices."

Now, we deny that any definition of what are and what are not departmental offices can be gathered from that statute, which was passed to prevent offices of emolument being distributed by the Government, among members of the House of Assembly, thereby diverting their allegiance from their constituents, and making them subservient to the Crown to the prejudice of the people. A wholesome and constitutional jealousy, and well calculated to keep the Representatives of the People in continual mind whose servants they are and whose interests they are bound to keep constantly in view. The circumstance of the statute having been passed six years ago—three years before the system of governing by Heads of Departments holding seats in the Lower House of Assembly, and therefore responsible to the people, was thought of, is conclusive upon this point.

That the present administrators of the Government are not understood why the Council should be excluded from participating, as they have hitherto done, in a share of the "salaries" or departmental offices of the Government," is not at all to be wondered at, for their whole conduct from the beginning shows that they have been totally ignorant of the principles of Responsible or Self Government, and of the principles by which such principles are to be constitutionally carried out: the answer, however, may be given in a very few words, and it is this: Because the members of the Legislative Council hold their seats of "the pleasure of the Crown," and are not responsible to the people. That the Colony has been for the last three years prospering, and therefore tranquil and contented, is a circumstance which we should rather attribute to the merciful dispensations of an indulgent Providence than to the firm Government and will which we live,—for let us merit be what it will, it has not, we presume, the power of controlling the elements and of conferring good seasons and plentiful harvests. When the learned Judge, alluded to, described the Education Bill as "the wisest, the noblest and the best that ever graced the Statute Book," it was clearly evident to all who heard him that he had never read it, and meant rather to eulogize the principle of Free Education in connection with the teaching of Agricultural Chemistry in District Schools—a matter upon which the Act is wholly silent. We have, as yet, no reason to doubt Mr. Stark's competency, and can only wonder why his name was introduced into the Speech at all; his semi-annual reports and suggestions of improvement, and his lectures on Agricultural Chemistry, will best show whether any great benefit will result from his labors as a Visitor of Schools.

The allusion to the Sheriff's Return to the writ of election for the first district of Queen's County, is unconstitutional, indelicate and unbecoming; nor is it at all extenuated by the admission, that "its legality is a matter entirely for you to decide"—but it is of a piece with the ignorance displayed by the Colonial Secretary, on his return to the House of Assembly, in moving for leave to lay before the House the Writ of Election for the 1st District of Queen's County; and the former was intended, we suppose, to pave the way for the latter. This unconstitutional interference of the Crown with the privileges of the Assembly has, we are happy to see, been met in a proper and becoming spirit by the firm, yet temperate resolution proposed by Mr. Palmer, and adopted by the House.

All the imposing—or meant to be imposing—array of figures with respect to the flourishing condition of the Revenue, is totally out of place. It is the business of the mover of the Address in answer to the Speech to enter upon the details illustrative of the facts alluded to in the latter; and this is the difference which has been often remarked between the Speech from the Throne by the British Sovereign, and the Message of the President of the United States,—the former being compared to the notes of a speech, or the heads of a discourse, the latter to the discourse itself. The rest of the Speech we have no great fault to find with. The question as to the duty on the export of juniper knees had better have been the subject of a message; and the paragraph respecting the fishery reserves need not to have been so long as it is. In conclusion, we have only to say, that we think the Speech was not so much intended for those within the walls of the Colonial Building as for those without, and more especially for those in the more remote districts of the country, where a coloring may be given to it suitable to the views of the now confessed minority.

In future, we trust that Speeches from the Lieut. Governor's hands will be constructed on the model of those of the Crown above alluded to, and that each paragraph will be so framed that a distinct mention of concurrence or the reverse may be given to it in the Address of the House. If that Address is an echo of the Speech, the party in power will still retain the administration of affairs; or, on the contrary, if amendments are proposed and carried, the fact will be a signal to them to tender their resignations with as little delay as possible.

TO THE EDITOR OF HASZARD'S GAZETTE. Sir: On the first day of the present Session of the Assembly, the Honorable the Colonial Secretary—a Member of the House and a Member of the Government—by command of His Excellency, offered, in his place, to lay on the table of the House of Assembly the Writ of Election for the First District of Queen's County. His object in doing so was too obvious to mislead us, or even to be positively denied by himself: it was to lead the House into a contest on the Sheriff's Return in favor of Mr. Beer, and to give Mr. Coles the benefit of trying the legality of that Return, without petitioning the House, as the law requires he should. The House of Assembly immediately perceived the object, and by a spirited Resolution—which it is to be hoped will be upheld as a record of their wisdom and independence—and passed after the utmost opposition which the members of the Government could offer to it, refused to receive a message of such an unconstitutional and dangerous character. Could a vote of want of confidence in, or a censure on the Government be passed in stronger terms? What!—refuse to receive a message from the Government, manage all the efforts of the Legislature convened on an early day? Just so. From the moment that vote was passed, no man, however coarse his sense of honor, can deny that the Government were placed in a position humiliating beyond any other instance that can be referred to in this, or any other Colony.

And yet, Sir, that Government still cling to office! How many hours, I would ask, would a British Ministry remain in office if the House of Commons rejected a message which that Ministry had advised Her Majesty to send down to it? It is no less than a Colonial disgrace, that there should be found in the Island any number of public men who could for one hour submit to such degrading meanness. Their conduct to the Queen's Representative is unpardonable. What a predicament to have been the means of placing him in! Are they going to wait till His Excellency says to them, "Gentlemen, you have rendered yourselves objects of public contempt and distrust, and if you don't immediately retire from my Council you will render me so too." This, no doubt, is the signal they are waiting for, and the only language such men can utter. The Hon. John Jardine, much to his credit, has resigned—happy, no doubt, in embracing such an honorable opportunity of "coming out from among them," as that of accepting the Speaker's chair. It is believed, however, that he would have done so in any event, and the general course of his political life justifies the opinion. The lingering fragments of the Government will now grasp at the straw which they see in the shape of filling up his vacancy. Will the Governor do so? Will he appoint one from the House of Assembly—whom, say the Resignists, there should some day be appointed one from the minority? Poor Resignists!—what wide mouths and throats they require, to enable them to swallow, wholesale, their own rules, or what they would call their principles.

Your obedient Servant, J. M. HASZARD.

TO THE EDITORS OF THE ISLANDER AND HASZARD'S GAZETTE.

GENTLEMEN: On Wednesday last, the 8th February, instant, being Small Debt Court day at St. Elizabeth's, a Mr. John Adams, of Lot 18, in Prince County, whilst at New Hotel, produced a Letter, in the presence of several persons, and alleged it to have been written to him by His Excellency Sir Alex. Bannerman, requesting his (Adams) influence to obtain Signatures to the Petition for the Dissolution of the Assembly. It having come to my knowledge that His Excellency's name had been used for the same purpose in various other sections of the Island, this morning deemed it my duty to wait upon His Excellency and acquaint him with what Mr. Adams had publicly stated, when His Excellency positively denied his having, at any time, authorized his name or influence to be used in obtaining signatures to the Petition praying for a Dissolution of the Assembly; and further declared that Mr. Adams' statement was "a gross falsehood," as he had never written a letter to Mr. Adams upon any subject.

I am, Gentlemen, yours, &c. T. HEATH HAVILAND. Feb. 10, 1854.
