It is a peculiar and rather regretas ours does not possess any orranisation similar to the Navy League United States whereby we could extend the hearty welcome and entertainment we should like to the senior branch of the Service. The absence o such, however, has commendably prompted a number of our well known thusiastic heads of patriotic and public committees to be responsible for a certain number of ladies being asked to attend. The ship's orchestra will render delightful programme of very latest English and American dance numbers, and the Hall is being tastily decorated in the manner for which the Navy lads are noted.
