Filling A Need

It is gratifying to learn that, in addition to the routine work of the Memorial College, the supplementary classes of instruction, which are conducted for the benefit of the general public, are eagerly being availed of by many who are desirous of brushing up subjects neglected since their school days, and by others who did not have such opportunities earlier in life.

These classes cover a wide range of subjects, and it is particularly pleasing to find every effort being made to meet the requirements of those desirous of acquiring knowledge that can be practically applied in the various walks of life. Among these are such subjects as Workshop Mathematics, Machine Drawing and Building Construction, and, as will be seen in a news item which appears elsewhere, instruction is given in connection with the management of the home. The extent to which the breadwinner's pay cheque is adequate or inadequate to meet the demands made upon it depends in no small measure upon the housewife's knowledge of domestic science, and it is the factor which affects more than any other the comfort and general well-being of the whole household.

So great has been the number of applications for admission that it has been found necessary to duplicate the classes in several instances. The arrangements include not only subjects more or less of a technical nature, but those which the working man finds necessary. Foremen, for example, in the mercantile firms are given the opportunity to acquire a working knowledge of arithmetic and other subjects which apply to their respective trades, and they are eagerly availing of it. Later it is hoped to extend the range of subjects in order to meet the other requirements of the community.

That the college is filling a long felt need is evident, and that it will prove an immense factor in advancing the general welfare of the community seems assured. We heartily congratulate President Paton, his staff and those others who are taking such a keen interest in the College, and who are doing so much to further the valuable educational work performed by the other institutions in the community. Education means enlightenment, and without it this country could never hope to attain to that prominence among her sister dominions which is hers by right of the Island's rich natural resources and the sterling characteristics of her people.

A New Feature

Commencing to-day, the Telegram publishes a new feature, "Lessons in Auction Bridge," which it is hoped will prove interesting to many of its readers. The series, which has been compiled by Wynn Ferguson, a well known authority on the game, consists of thirty six articles on Bridge with problems and the solutions. These will appear in our issue on Mondays.

Star of the Sea Association

ANNUAL MEETING.

The annual meeting of the Star of the Sea Association was held yesterday afternoon, when all the past year's business was finalized. The reports of the Secretary and Treasurer were read and showed that the year was a most successful one in every respect, and that the Association is now in a strong position, financially and numerically, and next year promises to be even better than last. The election of officers resulted as follows:

President—P. J. Cashin, re-elected.
Vice-President—Joseph Murphy, re-elected.
1st Asst. Vice-President—M. Ready, re-elected.
2nd Asst. Vice-President—R. Dooly, re-elected.
Treasurer—F. Kenny, re-elected.
Asst. Treasurer—J. J. Kelly, elected.
Secretary—Geo. C. Conway, re-elected.

Asst. Secretary—James Kelly, re-elected.
Chairman Reading Room and Billiard Committee—Jas. Carberry, re-elected.
Chairman Athletics—John Robinson, elected.

Marshal—P. Furlong, re-elected.
Asst. Marshal—M. Pittman, elected.
The election was conducted by Mr. W. F. Graham and assistants. At the close, after the officers had been installed and each made speeches, votes of thanks were passed to Archbishop and clergy, the Spiritual Director, press, the ladies and outgoing officers. The meeting was a long one and did not conclude until 11 p.m.

Browning and the Strollers

In one of his more intelligent poems Browning wrote:

All the wonder and wealth of the mine in the heart of one gem.
All the shimmer and shine of the sea in the heart of one pearl.

and if he were alive today he would be able to add that all the elusive charm, glamour, witchery and seductiveness of the Orient will be compressed into the Oriental Dance to be held in The Grenfell Temple by the Strollers on November 19th. The costumes are beautiful beyond belief. oct26.11

Most up-to-date Music will be played at the Novelty Dance, oct26.31

Gold Mine Shares Increase in Value

Those who purchased shares in the Clarke-Bourlamaque Co. gold mines at Royan last fall were notified yesterday by mail that the stock is now listed at $2.50 per share. Mr. F. J. Hunter, promoter of the company, is arriving in the city to-day to confer with the holders of stock. About $30,000 was invested here last fall in this company when the shares were selling at 50 cents each.

Count yourself lucky if you receive an invitation to the Novelty Dance, oct26.31

Wesley Church Notes

At the morning service Rev. J. G. Joyce, B.A., preached from Nehemiah, 1st chap. 11th verse. He referred to his loyalty to God in his exalted environment at the Persian Court. His example and insistence for the observance of true religion, by the reverence of the Sabbath, his compassion for the poor and earnest endeavour to heal the divisions amongst the people. God has raised up leaders many times. One man stands out prominent as St. Peter at Pentecost. Luther in the time of the Reformation. Carey to plead for India. It all depends on a man seeing God as his leader and taking up the challenge of patriotism in Nehemiah in endeavour to throw off the existing restrictions of unfair treaties made in past years which prevents that freedom and liberty which a country must have to develop its resources and educate its people. There will need to be more prayer for China in the present crisis or something will happen that will vibrate to the ends of the world.

At the evening service the pastor preached on the power and influence of music and singing in the service of God. After the introduction of the subject he said in part: "The walls of Methodism were built to music, for the spiritual results which John Wesley achieved by the founding and organizing of a church was not greater than those of his younger brother by his hymn-writing. If the services of Charles Wesley were less tangible they may prove more enduring. He then cited the titles of many hymns of various kinds for different occasions written by Charles Wesley until death stayed his pen. It is impossible to live in the Christian Church at all without recognizing our indebtedness to every section of it for the hymns by which we express our worship and praise. For 'Jesus, the very thought of thy name' 'With sweetest sighs my heart,' and 'Lead, kindly light' must go to the Roman Catholic Church. For 'Dear Lord and Father of Mankind,' 'The Son of God goes forth to war,' 'There is a green hill far away,' to the Episcopal Church for those. For 'O for a heart to praise my God' and 'Jesus, lover of my soul' to the Methodist. For 'Oh, love that will not let me go' to the Presbyterian, and for 'Eternal light, eternal life' to the Congregational; and our hymnology shows essential unity. Music, too, is a divine art. God has commanded it. David says, 'Sing unto the Lord a new song,' Paul's hymns and spiritual songs, and music is the vehicle of religious expression in great meetings for spiritual power.

At the close of the sermon an anthem, 'All things praise Thee, O Lord,' by Berridge, was rendered. Mrs. Walter Fay sang the soprano solo. Following devotional exercises a service of sacred song continued by the congregation singing 'All hail the power of Jesus name,' then an anthem, 'Blessed be the King that cometh,' Mrs. J. J. Miller singing the contralto solo. 'For He is father than the children of men,' Mr. J. M. Ruggles sang that grand baritone solo, 'The Holy City,' his fine voice filling the church. Another hymn, 'Onward, Christian Soldiers,' followed by 'What are these arrayed in white robes,' by Dr. Stainer. The precision and harmony was splendid. Mrs. C. F. Garland by invitation entered the choir gallery, stood near the microphone and very sweetly sang Mrs. Heman's beautiful poem, 'I hear thee speak of a better land,' with such pathos and expression that it was just exquisite and the audience sat entranced in a silence that was felt. After the offertory the congregation joined in 'Abide with me,' followed by the Vesper, 'Before thy throne, O Lord of Heaven,' and the Benediction closed a feast of sacred music and a means of grace.—A.W.M.

With Judith, the outcome was different and the closing scenes of the book, Judith's flight with the man she loved; the punishment meted out to Amleth—her refusal and the terrible beating at the hands of her misical husband; the sudden fire swooping down on the farm; Isaac's frantic effort to save his acres of flax—more to him than God—keep the reader tense with excitement.

The love story of Mark and Lind and the tightly pulled back hair and red rimmed eyes, vaguely blue, and the silver rimmed glasses that were never made for her—and love left her, at the command of her dominating father.

Meigle Returns From Labrador

AFTER LENGTHY PASSAGE. The steamer Meigle returned from the Labrador Service at 6.10 p.m. yesterday after a lengthy passage of 29 days. Capt. Burgess reports the trip was one of the roughest in his experience, particularly on Tuesday last when a terrific sea was encountered. The weather was pleasant on the run north to Hopdale. They are expected south the ship ran into a succession of gales and snowstorms, and it was only by skillful management that the ship was brought through without any damage being sustained. The captain reports winter has set in here in Hopdale and Long Tickle, snow covering the ground to a depth of four feet in places. South of there no snow has fallen as yet. A large number of fishermen were picked up along the coast and were conveyed to their homes in Conception Bay. The only people left on the coast are the Marconi operators with their wives and children. They are expected to return by the Earl of Devon which reached Battle-Hr. on Saturday. Capt. Martin Gossie and vessel which was lost at Battle Harbor came south by the Meigle and were landed at Spaniard's Bay.

Smugglers Captured

A message to the Deputy Minister of Customs from Inspector De reports the capture yesterday at L'Anse-au-Loup of a motor boat laden with liquor. The crew consisted of John Maher, Thomas Martin and Michael Hickey of Plottack. On board the boat were 120 gallons of rum, 8 cases of other liquors and 1 box of tobacco.

Train Notes

Sunday's express is due at Port aux Basques on time.
The express reached the city at 1.30 p.m.
The local train arrived at 12.35 p.m.
Poor Luke Bradbury got an awful kick from one of the mules. Wait till you hear what Kate has to say about it at the Casino next week.—oct26.11

On Our Bookshelf

WILD GEESE—By Martha Ostenso. (Published by Macmillan & Stewart, Limited, Toronto).

In WILD GEESE, winner of the $12,500 prize, Martha Ostenso has written a powerful story of the harsh and lonely Northland. There is silent, gripping drama in the life of the Gare family: Caleb, his wife Amelia; Martin, aged twenty; Judith, Ellen and Charley.

Caleb Gare, commanding, dominating, dominating and tyrannical was obsessed by the land, not for love or patriotic feeling toward it, but for what he and the human machines, called his family, could drag from it for his enrichment. Work, work, work, beginning every day at 5 a.m. and none might go to bed until 11 p.m. gave the word. Meals waited for none in that house, except Caleb, and none dared not be late. Martin, at the age of twenty, had long ago learned the futility of opposing his father and stumbled on a dreamer of dreams he had no hope of fulfilling. The only fire brand in the family was Judith. Every revolt was taken out by Caleb on Amelia, his wife, not in blows but in left-voiced purring threats of disclosing some secret which would disgrace her in the narrow-minded community about her, and prevent any one from marrying into the family. Her task was to see that none of the children left the farm.

Into this alien atmosphere came Lind Archer, pretty, dainty, refined, to teach at Oeland, during the season between April and October, when weather and farm work permitted the children to attend to the mere matter of education—where one trustee, a Scandinavian, who spoke a few words of English and understood less—the other trustee being Caleb Gare.

Lind lived with the Gares and her sympathy went out to the family, especially Judith, seventeen, and beautiful, with a finely developed figure, clothed in overalls and coarse smock, her feet encased in heavy toe capped boots—Judith, who hated farm work, plowing, harrowing, tossing hay, cleaning stables, milking cows, watering cattle, until her arms and hands were reddened and coarsened beyond repair.

In her heart she carried a deadly hatred of her father, which looked out stark and unashamed from her beautiful brooding eyes. No visitors ever came to the house. The family went nowhere, not even to the nearest town, two miles distant. No pleasure ever entered their lives, and yet love found both. Ellen, of the noble brow and tightly pulled back hair and red rimmed eyes, vaguely blue, and the silver rimmed glasses that were never made for her—and love left her, at the command of her dominating father.

With Judith, the outcome was different and the closing scenes of the book, Judith's flight with the man she loved; the punishment meted out to Amleth—her refusal and the terrible beating at the hands of her misical husband; the sudden fire swooping down on the farm; Isaac's frantic effort to save his acres of flax—more to him than God—keep the reader tense with excitement. Kylie arrived Port aux Basques 7.05 a.m. yesterday.
Malakoff left Port Blandford 6.45 a.m. yesterday.
Meigle arrived St. John's 6.10 p.m. yesterday.
Portia arrived St. Lawrence 10 a.m. Saturday, going west.
Prospero storm bound at Quirpon, Saturday evening, going north.
There is no report of S.S. Sagana since leaving Curling Thursday morning.
S.S. Caribou sails on Thursday at daylight for North Bay to take up the service to the Gulf.

Laid to Rest

On Saturday afternoon the mortal remains of Lance Corporal Thomas Murphy were laid to rest in Mount Carmel Cemetery. A large number of mourners attended the funeral. The casket was covered with beautiful wreaths and a guard of honor from the G. W. V. A. and the Star of the South Association. At the graveside the Rev. Fr. Murphy conducted the funeral service.

Topmast Carried Away

Schr. Behrdraven, Capt. R. G. Benson, arrived in port this morning with her steering gear gone, her foretopmast carried away and the stays loosened. The vessel left Westleyville on the 17th inst., for Sydney, and passed St. John's Heads about a week ago. Since then she has been buffeted by the storm. Owing to the smashing of the steering gear, the captain and crew had a most trying experience.

The Toll of the Storm

Owing to the interruption both North and West many places have not yet been heard from since the storm. Friday last, one dead at Bell Island is attributable to the storm, and another fatality is reported from Lamaline in connection with the stranding of a French vessel. At the former place James, the 13-year-old son of Wm. Jackson, Mailman at Bell Island, was blown into a reservoir. Sgt. Sheppard in a message to the Inspector-General states that the boy had been the Presbytery about 9.30 on Friday night to go home, but did not turn up. On Saturday a search was made and at 1 o'clock that day the body was found in the reservoir behind the Presbytery. It is presumed that the heavy wind blew the last of the water, and as a result of it he lost his life.

VESSELS STRANDED. The loss of life at Lamaline is reported in a message received on Saturday by the Minister of Marine and Fisheries from Mr. C. C. Pittman. The message reads as follows:—

"French vessel St. Pierre St. Louis, from La Rochelle, La Pte. St. Pierre, with cargo liquor to St. Pierre, Miquelon, for orders, stranded at L'Anse-au-Loup, last night. Capt. Vincent, in a message to the Inspector-General, states that the vessel had on board 2500 cases brandy, 2500 cases alcohol and 7 cases ashale.".

The St. Pierre St. Louis has gone inside the Lamaline Ledges according to a message received by the Deputy Minister of Customs and there is very little hope of salvage.

A message to the Deputy Minister of Customs from the Sub-Collector at Bonaville reports that the stranding of the schr. Alpha Guy on Saturday. The message reads as follows:—

"Schr. Alpha Guy, R. Guy, master, came ashore this morning and is now apparently a total wreck."

Schr. Carlie and Nellie also went ashore at Ferryland, according to a message received Saturday from Mr. J. White, Collector at that place. The message reads:—"Schr. Carlie and Nellie, Wm. Evans, Master, dragged anchors and is now on the rocks. Vessel has 70 tons of coal on board." A message was received to-day stating that the vessel had refloated and was not much damaged.

Capt. Burgess of the Meigle, reports that at Hr. Grace the schr. Admiral Drake dragged her anchors and narrowly escaped going ashore on the beach, being brought up with a few yards to spare. A schr. laden with coal, from Bell Island, had her side stove in by being driven against Motte's wharf, and sank.

Nothing definite has been heard of the boat Eliza, which drifted off whilst proceeding to St. Mary's Bay from this port, nor of the Danish schr. Bonavista, which left here several weeks ago to load fish at Fogo. On Saturday, Capt. Winsor, Minister of Marine and Fisheries, received a letter from Mr. Mitchell, at Hopdale, seeking orders as to what would be done with the chains and gear of a schooner that was ashore at that place. This was the first intimation of the loss of a vessel at Hopdale and the Minister has no information yet as to the identity of the wreck.

Sergt. Kavanagh Injured

At nine o'clock Saturday night a still alarm was received at the West End Fire all, calling the firemen to the house of Mr. E. Brown, 7 Hamilton Street, where a chimney blaze was in progress. Sergt. Kavanagh with two firemen named Walsh and Wiley, went up the ladder to the roof of the house to quench the blaze with the chemical, but it was found that in order to do this it would be necessary to raise a ladder alongside the chimney. While Sergt. Kavanagh was in the act of doing so, a number of bricks crumbled away, two of which struck him with great force on the head, causing injury. Dr. McDonald was called to the injured man and after dressing the wounds ordered him to be taken to the hospital where he was taken in a motor car. Sergt. Kavanagh's condition is improved to-day.

Tidal Wave at Little St. Lawrence

Hon. J. J. Long is in receipt of a message from St. Lawrence, stating that the storm of Friday was the worst ever experienced in that vicinity. At Little St. Lawrence, a tidal wave went three feet over the old bridge there and carried it away, and doing damage to the abutments of the new structure which was being erected. The message states that flakes, stages and roads were washed away by the sea, and many houses were moved from their foundations by the gale.

Magistrate's Court

A labourer convicted of a breach of Section 24, Sub Section 3 of the Alcoholic Liquors Act was fined $200 or in default 3 months imprisonment. Another man convicted for a first time under the Alcoholic Liquors Act, was fined $10.00 or 30 days imprisonment. Both went down.

A drunk and disorderly was fined $2.00 and costs.

A seventy-year-old fisherman belonging to St. Philips, taken in for safekeeping was granted his release. A master mechanic, convicted of driving a motor car on the wrong side of the road was fined $5.00.

A man given in charge by his wife was released.

A drunk was fined $1.00. Eighteen delinquents were summoned by the St. John's Municipal Council for failing to pay their annual Poll Tax. All parties with the exception of one answered to the summons and made good the amount. The man who failed to appear will be arrested under warrant.

Here and There

SUSP. RETURNING SOUTH.—S.S. Susu left Joe Batt's Arm this morning for this port direct.

Dave Delaney wants a supply of coal to keep that wife of his from burning old rubbers. See the Casino next week. It's a scream.—oct26.11

NOT SERIOUSLY INJURED.—The man Clifford Earle, who fell in the hold of a vessel, Mr. Hickman's premises on Friday afternoon last, has recovered from his injuries which were not as serious as reported. He will be discharged from the General Hospital this afternoon.

We understand the management is looking for increased police protection to regulate the traffic next week at the Casino. Poor Dave Delaney "just plain Dave." He sure is a gloom chaser.—oct26.11
