(Continued.)

enign method of snowing our love toward our brethren who disagree with us—burning at the stake—has gone sadly out of fashion; the thumbscrew and the boot have been relegated to the museums, but we are yet only slowly approaching the paried

WHEN REASON SHALL CONTROL MEN'S MINDS

cause we advocate, come success soon or come it late we know that it must surely come, and standing on the rock of Justice, guarded by the shield of Truth, we are content to wield the sword of Reason and sight

That his block eyes may not seelyou do the thing that is not right?

But the Destinies think not so. To their judgment chamber lore

ment chamber lore

Come no sounds of popular clamor; there

Fame's srumper is not blown.

Tour majorities they reck not. This you grant, but tren you say

That you differ with them somewhat. Which is stronger—you or they?

At the conclusion of the address a free-

The Woman in the Case.

Rev. So-and-So.

you want to be used by God don't have

A Lovely Woman

And he said nothing further about his object in calling.—Spare Moments.

The Austrian General Baron Knebel von

Trauerschweit is dead. He was the only soneral who won a victory over the Prustians in the campaign of 1866.

are those who are lowest.

Mrs. O Shea, the woman whose charms der that dicating inta the sembled

nysicians

steal. The sent back s member r collection, nt had been s on Tues sentative of ands of the ott got an and left his for him all to find him. vidower and est of whom, His habits 1 his salary ids had lon e as he did , he gambled.

mite. s: A serious esulting from lace to day at nber of workrn line of the s of dynamite , and the fuse p ignited, but going off, and Prevost, went listance of 100 n unconscious age were fracacture, besides huge, stuffed nd wide open paws a ham-is is a quaint hall. ive longer than

THE TAP-ROOT OF POYERTY good cause the pen of the younger Garrison is doing werk werthy the son of such a sire. Yes, the world improves:

Tes, the world improves:

For Humanity sweeps onward, where to-day the marryr stands
On the morrow crouches Judas with the silver in his hands:

For ahead the cross stands ready, and the crackling fagots burn.

While the hoosing mob of yesterday in silent awe return
So glean up the scattered ashes into History's golden urn. The sky was of the deepest blue, reflected in the ripples of the little inlet that washed almost to their feet over the smooth sand. Across the water, beyond the meadow, they could see the white-pillared front of Lord's Gift. The russet, autumn fields, in the soft air, were veiled here and there with the haze of brush-fires, blending into the The advocates of the Single Tax reform have passed through all the various stages of the persecutions of the time. That benign method of showing our love toward purple of the horizon.

"There are not many young men in the neighborhood to make it gay, are there?"

asked Tom.
"No, indeed; and that is why I was very glad when I heard you had come back. You see, it is so dull. Bab is most busy, and Aunt Clem is moody and rather stern. I have no friends. I often thought of you when you were away, and I have the half-

The Siegle Tax advocates have passed through the period of contempt, of sneers and innuendoes, and have emerged into the more cheerful and most welcome one of argument. That our case is a strong one is made clear by the strengons effort our penny you gave me."

She was looking away into the blue with eyes as blue, speaking with the utmost simplicity.

"Well, are you glad I have come home now that you know me?"

Betty looked at him for a moment and laughed.

Yes, I am; though, to tell the truth, I did not like you much the other night. I thought you too modish and conceited."
"Upon my soul, you are a piece of candor! 'Gad! you are no more what I fan.

argument. That our case is a strong one is made clear by the strenuous efforts put forth to close the mouths of its eloquent advocates; by the number of emine at political and social economists who also joining our ranks; by the tendency of legislation, and by the perterbation it occasions in the camp of the common enemy. But conscious of the righteousness of the arge we advocate, come success soon or or! 'Gad! you are no more what I fancied you the other evening. You are as changeable as Mother Hubbard's dog, and his moods were far from reliable. Now, the other evening, since you must know, I fancied you rather missyish and affected."
"I knew it," said Betty, delightedly.
"I was affected, vastly so. I protest that I do not feel natural all decked up in furbelows. I want to be mincing and saying defy the ailied powers of riches, selfishness and political expediency to do their worst. Those for whom the gods fight can be 'Oh, Lud!' and putting on all the airs and graces in the world. I can't breathe or Think you Truth a farthing rushlight to be pinched out when you will with your doft official fingers and your politicians skill?

Is your God a woeden fetiah, to be hidden out of ural, like this, without powder or hoops, in easy deshabille. I feel as free as those birds."

With whirring wings a flock of wild ducks rose from the marsh grass, skimming the water, their snowy breasts white against the blue as they wheeled aloft.

She was a childish slip of a girl, as she sat looking up at him from under the shade of her big black hat, the snalight falling on her display freekled free and slim flants. her dimpled, freekled face and slim figure, clad in plain blue gown, big neckerchief, and white aprop, her sun-burned, supple

"Patient are they as the insects that build islands in the deep;
They hard not the bolted thunder, but their silent way they keep;
Where they have been that we know; where empires towered that were not just;
Lot the skulking wild for scratches in a little heap of dust." and white aproof, ner sun-surface, supple fingers playing with Cassins's long hair.

"So you feel lonely?" said Tom. "I have felt lonely, too." He gave her a quizzical glance. "There I am of the same complexion as you. But how about Will Ringgold? is he not in sympathy with and-easy discussion of the address a free-and-easy discussion and many interroga-tories and answers followed. A vote of thanks, moved by Mr. R. Hopkins and seconded by Rev. Mr. Morton, was tendered Mr. Carrick and briefly acknowledged. Betty was slowly nibbling a cooky, which ihe gave to Cassins, not wishing to be nterrupted in this interesting conversation. "In some way he is not the same," she said, "though he writes poetry. He even writes poetry to me."

"Does he? The coxcomb! By heaven the fellow must be mad. But how does it seem different with me?"

fascinated Parnell and have precipitated a political crisis upon Great Britain and Ireland, was, according to the London corseem different with rae?"

"You do not prate as much, but I feel that you really love Mature more. It seems like home, this water, and as though we belonged to it, and should love it always. Now, when it looks thus quiet, I feel like going out with the ripples, as free as they. The reason we love the sky and the world around us must be like Cassius's love for us, because it has a meaning we cannot understand. But do you know, it makes respondent of the New York Commercial Advertiser, the mistress of an ex-governor of the Bank of England before she married O'Shea. She is the sister of Sir Evelyn Wood, a distinguished English soldier, and Wood, a distinguished English soldier, and a woman of great beauty and accomplishments. The statement of the correspondict just quoted is news to the American public, but is is made with a positiveness that assumes its solute accuracy. Parnell's intimacy with the woman, it is said, began eight years ago and was well known to his associates of the Irish party and even to other members of the House of Commons. Surprise is expressed in some quarters, therefore that the men who have all along known that Parnell has frequently neglected his public duties to pay court to the wife of another man should now demand his retirement from the leadership of understand. But do you know, it makes me sad sometimes, Tom, to watch a sunset or a beautiful view? It must be because there is no one to enjoy it with me; but now you have come it will be different."

Tom was silent before replying, smiling into her eager, uplifted face.
"I think," he said, gravely, that we shall be great friends, dear little girl. Whenever you feel lonely, send for me."

Betty was very barry to have found.

Betty was very happy to have found will Ringgold's such a delectable spark, betty determined by the compact, Betty gazing at the rip.

"Oh, Stacey," Betty's voice came sad mand his retirement from the leadership of his party.—Rochester Herald. over the compact, Betty gazing at the ripples, always changing, always the same—at one spot where a line of grass curled like a water snake, until it seemed that the guiling arts. Fly, fly from temptation! Water was still and that she and Tom and the pine-tree were drifting slowly over its Moody on Matthew: "Yes, I see. He simply grabbed all the money he could because he had a right. Well, there are tree were drifting slowly over its those gray hairs--."
"Hoity-toity, child! my hair's as dark placid surface—out—out.

CHAPTER VI.

because he had a right. Well, there are lots of people in Chicago who are just like him. Notice one thing about Matthew, though, he gave up his title. Nowhere through the Bible will you find the servants of God using any titles, and I would advise you all to avoid it. Don'tgo around calling yourselves the Rev. So and So. When a man begins to want a title he doesn't want to be a servant of God. If you want to be used by God don't have It was February 14th, 1775, and snow had been falling since morning. Betty, spending the day in the village, at Miss Stacy's little cottage, wearied with her chatter, as unceasing as the singing of the small, square panes at the people passing down the road to Mr. Atkins' store, for the opening of the fortnightly mail-bag. Through the veil of snow, falling thick and fast in big flakes, the landscape showed as in an etching, barely suggestive of the hidden color. titles. There are too many big men already in the country. We want more small ones. A big head is a dangerous disease. The most useful men and women den color.

Between the waste, white tract of the garden, where the evergreens were bending beneath their heavy burden, and the waste, white tract of the meadows, there was no line of demarcation save a faint zone of

A Lovely Woman
Overheard one say of her, "By heaven!
she's painted"! "Yes," retorted she, indignantly, "and by heaven only!" Ruddy health mantled her cheek, enthroned on the rose and lily. Yet this beautiful lady, once thin and pale, with a dry, hacking ough, night sweats and slight spittings of blood, seemed destined to fill a consumptive's grave. After spending hundreds of dellars on physicians without benefit, she tried Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Disovery; her improvement was soon marked. woodland.

"Betty, if you see anyone going by, be sure to tell me," said Miss Stacy.

The room, used as dining room and sitting-room, was aromatic with herbs. On the wall hung a mural memento of the late tried Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery; her improvement was soon marked, and in a few months she was plump and tong again, the picture of health and strength. It is the only medicine of its class, sold by druggists, under a positive gwarantee that it will benefit or oure in all class of disease for which it is recommended, or money paid will be promptly refunded.

The Privilege of Age.

"My object in calling this evening," he began, with a nervous tremble of his chin, "was to ask you, Katie—I may call you Katie, may I not?"

"Care the wall hung a mural mements of the late Dr. Anderton, in the shape of a silk sampler, representing a dejected female under a dejected willow. On the bare, oiled floor stood, at regular intervals, straight, splint-bottomed chairs. A drosser furnished with dishes, a chest of drawers, and a table completed the simple furniture of the room. Miss Stacy sat in a rocking-chair; on two low stools on either side of her were her dog Norval, asleep, and her little negro maid Judy, whose round, black face was bedewed with tears, for she was learning to knit, and every missed stitch was visited upon her head by sharp taps of her mistress' thimble. Dr. Anderton, in the shape of a silk sampler, representing a dejected female under a dejected willow. On the bare, oiled floor stood, at regular intervals, "My object in calling this evening, he began, with a nervous tremble of his chin, "was to ask you, Katie—I may call you Katie, may I not?"
"Certainly, Mr. Longpipe," said the sweet young girl. "All of papa's elderly triends call me Katie."

her mistress' thimble. On the mahogany work table, besides the piece of sewing that Betty had thrown down, was Miss Staoy's tortoise shell snuff-box, from which she now and then extrao-ted a dainty pinch of rappee, indulging in the luxury of a suppressed sneeze, careful not to awaken the slumbering Norval.

The hand of the high clock was nigh upon From the esteemed Epitaph of Tomb-tione, A. T., it is learned that Sheriff Slaughter expects soon to add to the popu-lation of the public graveyard.

"LAST CENTURY LOVERS"; one contains another. She had begun on the subject of the Vaughan family history and an old love affair of Miss Clem's, which, by some circuitous process, led to the following sage aphorism:

"You ean't account for the height of people. Now, there was my dear departed father, so tall of stature that the joiner said the was the longest corps he ever measured.

father, so tall or stature that the joiner said he was the longest corpse he ever measured, and I'm nothing much. And there's Judy, her father was a Guinea nigger belonging to Mr. Paca, and seven feet high, and Judy's little—like a dwarf—but it all comes of Judy's having, in early youth, been knocked down by some animal. Wasn't when the state of the state of

"Well, t is Mr. DeCourcy, that you "Well, t is Mr. DeCourcy, that your Aunt Clem was a going to marry, was a gentleman of good height and personable parts. They doted on each other, and it all but broke her heart when he was killed by a fall off a horse; and then, when your father and mother died of yellow fever, she took on so that she hasn't been the same since to my mind though she always. since, to my mind, though she always was oddish."

Here Beity, whose face had been hidden by the muslin curtains, uttered a little exclamation of surprise.
"La! Betty, what is it? What do you see?"

"Peregrine, Tom Rozier's bound man that he brought with him, has just gone by in a sleigh. Miss Stacy, I think the post-bag must be open now, and I'll put on my wraps and get the letters"

"No, indeed, child, Judy'll go. Sure as you're born there's a visitor coming. My nose has been itching on the left side all day for a lady, and Judy's on the right for a gentleman; but Judy's never fails. Don't go out, somebody might come while you were gone."

Judy, wild for freedom, slipped a shawl around her and was out of the door and away from the detested yarn and needles. Presently Betty saw her with envy, a fleet-ing silhouette on the white ground, dispers-ing a flock of drooping fowls.

ing a flock of drooping fowls.

"That Judy!" sighed her mistress.

"Would you think it! she's got idees of dress and finery; came to me the other day and asked me if I thought pink or blue wrappings for her wool becomed her most!

"But now, Elizabeth," said Miss Stacy, and the banding forms in the said with the contraction. solemnly, bending forward with impressive and uplifted forefinger, "now that we are alone, I wish to speak to you seriously, and I want you to tell me the truth." Roused to curiosity, Betty rose with her hand over her heart, bowed and said, with an excellent mimicry of Will Ringgold's finicky voice: "Votre tres humble serviteur,

Mademoiselle.'
"That's just it," said Miss Stacy mysteriously. "Nobody knows what he means by such gibberish, and you a poor metherless girl with no one to speak to you and warn you. Bab knowing as much of the male sex as a babe unborn, and Miss Clem so high-minded and mighty, with her thoughts on books and receivement Mademoiselle. her thoughts on books and poetry—not that Bab's not fond of poetry too, when she's washed up the dishes. But they're neither of them alive and active, and I'm only speaking for your own good."

"Speak prithee, speak, Anastasia, more plainly. Unfold the dread mystery, the tortuous windings of thy fevered imagina-

"Oh, yes, you may laugh if you please, and rant like some play-actor for all the world, but there's no knowing what these travelled young gents mean. They are sad travelled young gents mean. They are sad rakes for the most part, and woe to the yielding fair who gives ear to their perjured vows!" Miss Stacy seemed carried away with delight at her own unwonted eloquence, continuing in the same rapid and targid strain: "Tis for naught that I have read the history of that sweet creature, Clarissa Harlowe, writ by Mr. Richardson; I know the wiles of these Loviaces, with I know the wiles of these Loviaces, with their allurements, laced ceats, and French phrases stealing into the heart. For all as it ever was, and the Anderton's never get gray, though my mother's aunt's—that was a Posey—was snow-white at thirty but it all came in a night, because of ghost she saw. I'll tell you about it in a minute. But 'tis all very well for you to change the subject, and refuse to confide in copper tea-kettle over the fire, sat on a chest by the window, looking through the small, square panes at the people passing budget. Tut! I'm out of all conceit with

"Ah, now, it isn't angry with me you are? Why won't you believe that my affections are disengaged? Like the miller o' Dee,

'I care for nobody, no, not I, And nobody cares for me,'

except Bab and Cassius——''
"And me, Betty."
"Alas ! no. The heart which of old was "Alas 1 no. The heart which of old was mine has been given to a ratiling blade hight Will—'Sweet William." But beware!" said Betty, gazing as if into Ossianic futurity, and mouthing her words. "Dark lowers the tempest overhead—the walls of the cottage are desolate and dis mantled—the blue eyes of Anastasia, that beamed so brightly erstwhile, are bathed in dew-"

"Pshaw! how paltry. What gibberish you can talk. "Forbear! I see,"continued Betty wildly,
"a dark form approach—'tis the sable minion—she bears aloft a message of Here Judy entered, panting and covered with snew, having been pursed by Johnny Atkins with snowballs. "Letter fur Miss Betty," she announced. It was a folded sheet of paper, directed in a disguised hand, and the interior bore the following verse:

VALENTINE TO BETTY. Fortune, gifting Phyllis faire,
Made her witching, debonnaire;
Made Chioe, steadiest, pure, and wise,
Sonnd judgment, and sweet soft Replies:
To Betty Fortune, Goddess kinde, Gave Phyllis' Face and Chloe's Minde.

Betty held it, beeming silent delight, hile Miss Stacy put on her spectacles and

The hand of the high clock was nigh upon four, and Betty was beginning to be impatient to see the messenger whom Miss Bab had promised to send for her.

For hours Miss Staoy had been holding a disconnected monologue, as involved as the stories in the "Arabian Nights," where court to Miss Ramsay, who is a fortune.

But 'tis the sweetest thing, I protest."
It irritated Betty to hear Miss Stacy speak so confidently of Tom, whom she had long since ceased to regard as a "conceited prig." He had seemed lately to belong to herself in some intangible way; she alone, knew him well, and it was she, alone, knew him well, and it was absurd for other people to fancy they understood him, though, of course, she was understood him, though, of course, she was quite indifferent as to whether or not he was courting Miss Ramsay. Her feelings were disturbed and contradictory; she became suddenly depressed and weary of Miss Stacy and the ticking clock; experiencing a seneation of relief when Judy, who had returned to the fray, rushed to the door, announcing the approach of Mr. Tom Rozier.

Miss Stacy pointed triumphantly to her prophetic nose. "What did I tell you?" she whispered.

Betty was so unfeignedly delighted and cordial in her greeting to I'om as he came in, ruddy with cold, large and handsome in his long, green great-coat with three capes, that the impetuous young man seized Miss Stay, in lieu of a better, and gave her a hearty emb. ce.

hearty embrace.
"I've been to the house, Betty, and Miss

"I've been to the house, Betty, and Miss Bab sent me for you. I was only too happy for an excuse for gazing again upon my charmer, my Anassasia."

"Fie! fie!" Miss Stacy fluttered, delightedly. "We were looking for you; Betty half expected you." Tom glanced at Betty, who looked coolly out of the window. "We saw the sleigh go past with that man of yours. For certain, he's an outlaw. "Such a pock-marked, sorrylooking rogue!"

"Peregrine's as honest a rascal as you looking rogue!"

"Peregrine's as honest a rascal as you could find; plays on the French horn and has numberless accomplishments. I left him just now at the tavern, mixing a brew the paragraph and talking of bumbo for the parson, and talking religion and politics; but if his views are too liberal the parson will use convincing arguments; for he is one of those who will

'Prove his doctrine orthodox
By apostolic blows and knocks.'" Seeing that Betty had donned her long mantle, with its boa of dark fur, above which her face looked liked a mischievous nun in the severe setting of the close hood, Tom also rose, and took up his pointed heaver.

"Stay," pleaded Miss Stacy. "The humble contents of my larder are at your service. If you stay I'll make you a tansy pudding, and, well made, there's nothing more delicious to the palate."

"Oh, no," said Betty. "We know your dishes too well—the cakes with which you poisoned our vouth and over which we wasted our days in trying to pick out the wasted our asys in trying to plock out which they were flavored. No, I will bear Tom away from your wiles."

Leaving Miss Stacy bobbing curtaies, they escaped into the keen air and were soon far away from the low cottage.

(To be Continued.)

"An idler is a watch that lacks both hands As useless if it goes, as when it stands,"

Alas! how many women, though house hold and children need their care, are necessarily idle, because suffering from diseases peculiar to their sex. To all such Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a precious boon, speedily curing internal inflammation, leucorrhea, displacement, ulceration, tormenting periodical pains, prolapsus, "bearing down" sensations, morning siokness, bloating, weak stomach, nervous prostration, and tendency to cancerous disease. In all those ailments called "female complaints," it is the most reliable specific known to modern science.

Chicago Herald: Custom is cruel to the living in its funeral proprieties. It adds nothing to the esteem in which the dead nothing to the esteem in which the dead are held, and cannot assuage in the least the pain that is caused by their passage away. Humanity and right reason alike demand that burials shall be private; that only the few chosen by those directly interested shall attend them; and that the weaker members of a suffering family shall be induced to remain away from a spectacle that is heartrending, but which they cannot soften by their presence. The inhumanity of permitting the weak and the bereaved to suffer the wholly useless torture clay upon a coffin will gradually have the effect of making cremation desirable as rapidly as it becomes convenient.

No matter what the school of physic,
They each can cure an ache or phthisic—
At least 'tis said they can;
But as Science turns the wheel still faster,
And quacks and bigots meet disaster,
To us there comes a man Whose merits hath won countless zealots,
Who use and praise his "Pleasant Pellots."

The "Pleasant Purgative Pellets" of Dr. Pierce, though gentle in action, are thorough, and never fail to cure biliousness. ough, diseased or torpid liver, and constipation

Heredity.

Aunt Penelope—How vain Fanny is Old Crusty—Yes; just like the sex. They drink it in with their mothers' milk. Aunt P.—There you are quite wrong. Fanny, I know, was brought up on the bottle. Old C. (determined to have the last word)—Yes, from some conhave the last word)-Yes, from some conceited fool of a cow.

The girl who runs away with the hired man is held up to ridicule, but she frequently does better than the one who marries a poet.

Mr. Fuller to Clarence, four years old-Why, Clarence, how much you look like your father. Clarence, resignedly—Yes, sir. Everybody says that, but I don't think I deserve it.

A DAMAGE SUIT FAILS.

Railway Companies Not Responsible for People Jumping From Trains.

Judge Wurtele, in the Superior Court at Montreal, gave judgment Wednesday in favor of the Grand Trunk Railway in an favor of the Grand Trunk Railway in an action for $10,000 damages taken against the company by the mother of the young man Hugo Bouthiller, who was killed by a train at Irequois about a yeer ago. The lad and two companions, who were making their way from Lake Superior in the best manner they could, had boarded a freight train, the result being that young Bouthillier fell under the wheels and received injuries, from the effects of which he died an hour afterwards. The plaintiff's pretension was that the young man was pushed off the train by one of the officials, but the defence produced evidence that he had defence produced evidence that he had jumped himself from the train, and under such circustances the court dismissed the DONL. 51. 90.

$2,250

IN GOLD

To Be Given Away.

In order to introduce the circulation of In order to introduce the circulation of our Monthly Magazine, "The International," (which will be issued in January) into all parts of Canada and the United States, we take this means of bringing it before the public and securing for it one of the largest circulations of any Magazine in America. We will give to the person sending in the largest list of English words constructed from the largest list of English words. constructed from the letters contained in the following words, "The International.

$1,000 in Gold to 1st. 500 in Gold to 2nd. 200 in Gold to 3rd. 100 in Gold to 4th.

SPECIAL : PRIZES. The following Special Prizes will be given during the competition:

50 in Gold to 5th.

$100 to the lady sending in the largest list during the week ending January 10th.
$50 to the girl (under 16) sending in the largest list during the week ending

January 17th. $100 to the gentleman sending inthe largest list during the week ending January 24th. $50 to the boy sending in the largest list

$50 to the boy sending in the largest list during the week ending January 31st
$50 to the person in Canada sending in the first list of over 50 words.
$50 to the person in the United States sending in the first list of over 50 words.
Send 60 in stamps for list of "Rules" governing the competition. Mention this Contest closes March 1st, 1891. Address

THE INTERNATIONAL PUBLISHING CO

Hamilton, Canada.

FARM FOR SALE.

PARM CONTAINING 100 ACRES, To acres cleared, situated lot 38, 4th concession Township Ancaster, on Bra. stord stone road, 10 miles from Hamilton. Enquire W. KAVANAGH, 393 King wess, Hamilton, Ont.

Bermuda Bottled.

"You must go to Bermuda. If you do not I will not be responsi-ble for the consequences." "But, doctor, I can afford neither the that is impossible, try

OF PURE NORWEGIAN COD LIVER OIL.

I sometimes call it Bermuda Bot-tled, and many cases of CONSUMPTION. Bronchitis, Cough

I have CURED with it; and the advantage is that the most sensitive stomach can take it. Another thing which commends it is the stimulating properties of the Hypophosphites which it contains. You will find it for sale at your pruggist's, in Salmon wrapper. Be sure you get the genuine."

SCOTT & BOWNE, Belleville.

TO THE EDITOR:—Please inform your readers that I have a positive remedy to above named disease. By its timely use thousands of hopeless cases have been permanently con I shall be glad to send two bottles of my remedy FREE to any or your readers who naves sumption if they will send me their Express and Post Office Address. Respectful T. A. SLOCK M.C. 195 West addedaids Company. ONTARIO.

THUUSAMUS UF BOTTLES

THOUSARDS UP BUILLS

GIVEN AWAY YEARLY.

When I say Cure I do not mean merely to stop them for a time, and they core for a line, and they core takes a life-long study. I warrant my remedy to cure they core takes. Because others have falled is no reason for not now receiving a cure. Sends once for a treatise and a Free Bettle of my Invalible Romedy. Give Exprey and post Office. It costs you nothing for a trial, and it will cure you. Address with a life of the core of the