FEMINE DAIRY WISDOM.

The chief cause of the difficulty of getting butter in winter, is that the cream is too cold or too old.

The temperature of ordinary farm cream in winter should be from sixty-eight degrees to seventy-two degrees.

If a separator has been used from two degrees to four degrees lower will often bring better results.

Another important condition to remember is not to have too much skim milk in the cream.

Skim the pans or cans carefully, taking as little milk as possible in the process.

If cream has been allowed to become too old and bitter, it will be impossible to get good butter, or to churn in a reasonable length of time.

Proper temperature and rich cream are two important points.

In some cases, where cows have been milking for a long time, there is some difficulty in churning.

The addition of one or two fresh cows in the milking herd will often overcome the difficulty.

The best way to bring cream to the proper temperature, is by putting the cream can into a pail or tank of very warm water. Stir gently until the cream is of the proper temperature.

Never churn in a cold room. The butter will be cheesy if you do.

The churning room should be about the temperature of the cream.

A perfect butter can not be made in a kitchen where there are all the odors of cooking.

Humped backs and starting coats will put the balance on the wrong side of the ledger.

Are your cows only grazed? Make the most of them. Feed them well, care for them as well as you would thoroughbreds and improve your herd as fast as you can.

FEEDING DRY COWS AT MILKING TIME.

The custom of feeding cows just before or during milking time is a common one. Many farmers claim that the cows will stand more quietly and give their milk down better if they are eating while being milked.

The experience of many dairymen, as ascertained by the Storrs, Connecticut, Experiment Station, shows this to be a mistaken idea.

The man who has once adopted the done seldom, if ever, cares to go back to the old method of having the cows eating while being milked.

The average cow seems to be unable to divide her attention satisfactorily between two operations, and the result is that either she pays most of her attention to eating or else she pays more attention to the man who is milking her, and is, therefore, unable to eat quietly during the milking process, and becomes annoyed and nervous because she cannot stand more quietly during their milking process if they have nothing else to attract their attention.

Cows which have been accustomed to eating during the milking process may bother for a few days if the feeding is postponed until after the milking, but they become accustomed to the new order of things very quickly, and after a few days will behave much more satisfactorily than they did when the two operations were done at the same time.

It is not only more pleasant to do the milking before the feeding is done as a result of the better behavior of the cows, but the sanitary and keeping qualities of the milk are also better than when the feeding has been done just before or during the milking period.

All of the dry feeds, such as the common grains, hays, etc., contain large quantities of dust, which is thrown into the air by the handling. This dust is heavily charged with bacteria, and the atmosphere of the stable thus becomes filled with these micro-organisms.

As this dust settles into the milk pail it carries down with it the adhering bacteria and the germ content of the milk is thereby increased. At the same time, the restlessness of the cow results in the dislodgment of a greater amount of dust and bacteria from the cow and the milk and these also fall into the milk.

THE VALUE OF A MANURE SPREADER.

To know the real value of a manure spreader in the saving of manure, we must first know the value of manure, and what it adds to the productive capacity of a soil.

When we top-dress with manure, we are supposed to add in a measure, all the elements needed for plant growth. It is considered a complete fertilizer. In addition we supply vegetable matter which darkens and enlivens a worn soil. The decaying of manure when applied to a soil also makes unavailable plant food in that soil available to growing plants.

ical properties of a worn out soil is one important factor, recommending its use. Scarcely a farmer can make or obtain one-half enough manure for his entire farming operations.

To cover ten acres with ten loads to the acre, the old way is difficult. With the manure spreader the ten loads per acre may be cut in two and only five loads used, and the total manure made to cover 20 acres instead of ten.

We get the physical benefit over twice the acres by using the spreader. If more plant food is needed supplement with commercial fertilizers. Fertilizers add plant food only. Commercial fertilizers prove the most profitable when used with farm manures.

The manure spreader will do much to help this combination. The spreader is used every day in the year and keeps the farmer watching for some better way of making more manure for his own use or of getting it from outside sources. He also learns of ways to save all he makes. Without it, he loses much of the value of manure by allowing it to wash away from his barnyard lots or to fire fang in little piles under the drip or, somewhere near the barn.

PROTECTING WELLS.

Having read in your valuable journal the account of five people being afflicted with ptomaine by bad well water and also a communication regarding the top of the well being unprotected, and having had some experience, I should like to call your attention to a never failing remedy.

By laying the brick of the wall in cement mortar and filling all openings you will make it perfect so far as the surrounding is concerned. Then by closing in the wall to two feet across and either raising the top of the well above the surrounding earth or putting it below and covering the top two feet with earth, perfect isolation will be secured.

Or make a few circles six inches smaller than the size of the fresh dug well and by nailing boards around them make a mould that will leave you four inches of wall outside the cone, fill in with cement and gravel well mixed (six of cement to one of gravel).

PASTOR AND PEOPLE PRAISE PSYCHINE

(PRONOUNCED SI-KEEN)

A Marvellous and Triumphant Record of Victory Over Disease.

No medicine has ever effected as large a number of wonderful and almost marvellous cures as Psychine. It has had one continuous record of victories over diseases of the throat, chest, lungs and stomach.

Where doctors have pronounced cases incurable from consumption and other wasting diseases Psychine steps in and saves numberless people even from the very verge of the grave. Coughs, Colic, Hiccups, Bronchitis, Chills, Night Sweats, Grippe, Pneumonia, and other like troubles, all of which are forerunners of consumption, yield quickly to the curative powers of Psychine.

Mrs. Campbell, one of the many cured, writes the following statement: "I cannot refrain from telling all who suffer from any of the above named troubles that I had a heavy cold which settled on my lungs and finally led to consumption. I could not sleep, was subject to night sweats and my lungs were so diseased, my doctor considered me incurable. Mr. Halsey, Port Ellen Presbyterian Church, recommended Dr. Halsey's Psychine to me. When I was living in Ontario I had never heard of Psychine, but I was so weak, the night sweats and cough ceased. I was never so healthy as I am today. I never feel better in my life. Psychine has been a god send to me." Mrs. Andrew Campbell, Cotnamwood, N.W.T.

PSYCHINE never disappoints. PSYCHINE has no substitute. There is no other medicine "Just as good."

gravel), which will make a water tight wall, and finish at top same as recommended for brick.

To be safe the wall of the well must be tight for ten feet from the top to keep out worms, grubs, etc.

APPLY FARM MANURE NOW.

Top dressing with manure the pasture field or the unprofitable meadows may so encourage the good grasses present that their larger growth may crowd out the red clover and other objectionable weeds that too often come in just to fill vacant places.

The chief points to be kept in mind are that the manure is best utilized when spread as soon as possible after it has been made, and that its best service comes from its use as a top dressing upon a growing crop.

The new clover field, the meadow and the old pasture field would be greatly benefited by a top dressing in the winter or early spring, when the clover and grass plants are making their new start for their summer crops.

STARTING LIFE ON THE FARM.

Calvelonia Banner.—Country life has its drawbacks, but it has great advantages which overcome them. True, those who live in the country are "Rubes" and "farmers" and "hay-seeds" to the cigarette smokers in town, but the boast of business men in the world today is that they were born on a farm.

Take away the surrounding evils that beset the young men or women on the threshold of life's journey in the city, and substitute the helpful influences of nature, and you fortify them for the sterner walks of life. The few things they do not know about table etiquette, and when it is proper to leave two visiting cards and when but one, they will catch onto much quicker than city boys or girls will learn to properly shake the furnace or make good bread.

No boy or girl need be ashamed of living on a farm, for if they have taken advantage of what it has offered they are well fortified for after life.

ADAPTABILITY IN FASHIONS.

There is a new keynote in the spring fashions this year which every woman who makes her own clothes will be glad to know about. It is adaptability. This new adaptability is perhaps the most important feature in the new styles of dress.

The pattern consists of three garments—the skirt, the waist and the bib jumper. In making up the gown it would be wise to have at least two waists to wear with it, and two or more jumper bibs. One of the waists might be of sheer India linen or all-over lace.

When the waist that matches the skirt is worn, then the bib jumper may be of some other material. For instance, if the waist and the skirt are made of dark blue cotton voile, the bib jumper would look attractive in all-over lace.

And then again, if an entirely different sort of a dress was wanted, the skirt and the bib jumper could be made of plaid merized madras, and the waist be of all-over embroidery or linen. The jumper in this frock is slipped on over the head and is made with tabs at the back and front which button onto the belt.—Grace Margaret Gould in Woman's Home Companion for March.

A HEADACHE REMEDY.

Take each morning 1 cup hot water with pinch common table salt added; drink as hot as possible. A simple remedy but a good one.

A SWINDLE.

Old Farmer.—No, I don't want any more of your labor saving machines. I've tried enough on 'em. Look at this. There's a typewriting machine the missus spent all her egg and butter money on to buy for me 'cause I ain't so over handy with the pen. Just look at the swindle.

Friend.—What's the matter with it? Old Farmer.—Matter? Why you can't even write yer name with the bloomin' thing unless yer know how to play the pianer.—London Telegraph.

THE SYMPATHIZER.

"Croaker seems to feel a great sympathy for any one who is ill." "Huh! his idea of sympathy is to get some poor invalid in a corner and tell him how miserable he is looking."—The Catholic Standard and Times.

STRENGTH.

For strength we ask For the ten thousand times repeated task, The endless smallness of every day.

No, not to lay My life down in the cause I cherish most, That were too easy, But what'er it cost.

To fail no more In gentleness toward the ungentle, nor In love toward the unlovely, nor to give.

Each day I live, To every hour with outstretched hand its need Of not to be regretted thought or deed. Ethelyn Wetherald.

A WOMAN TELLS HOW TO RELIEVE RHEUMATIC PAINS.

I have been a very great sufferer from the dreadful disease, rheumatism, for a number of years. I have tried many medicines but never got much relief from any of them until two years ago, when I bought a bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm. I found relief before I had used all of one bottle, but kept on applying it and soon felt like a different woman. Through my advice many of my friends have tried it and can tell you how wonderfully it has worked.—MRS. SARAH A. COLE, 140 S. New St., Dover, Del. Chamberlain's Pain Balm is a liniment. The relief from pain which it affords is alone worth many times its cost. It makes rest and sleep possible. For sale by W. A. Warren, P.M. B.
