A BIGGER PAPER

Our readers will notice this week that the MONITOR has been enlarged from four to eight pages and made a much more convenient size. It is the intention of the paper's present management to give the people as much as the business will warrant. Everyone should be proud of the local paper for nothing can boost the town or the county more than a live newspaper. We believe that the MONITOR, with its large circulation, must be read in almost every home in Annapolis county, and it is now rapidly making its way in many of the homes of Digby county. We are always pleased to send sample copies to any addresses furnished us, especially to those who have moved away from this part of the province. We again thank our old and new readers for the interest they are taking in our personal welfare and wish particularly to thank the merchants and business men for their increased advertising patronage and for their orders for job printing, which are coming in by every mail. There is no necessity for an order for job printing to go outside the county. Everyone should keep this in mind and patronize home industry.

DIGBY COUNTY EXHIBITION

Weather Conditions Were Ideal, and a Big Crowd Visited the Fair.

One of the best exhibitions yet held in Digby Co., opened in Digby on Tuesday at 1 o'clock, and concluded Wednesday afternoon.

All the exhibits, both on the grounds and in the buildings, were up to the average. The attendance at the opening, on Tuesday, was not as large as was looked for, but on Wednesday morning people began arriving in town at daybreak, and by noon hundreds had arrived, for the purpose of visiting the fair.

At the grounds in the afternoon, there was a record attendance, the gate receipts being $363.90.

There was a first class display of fine arts and school children's exhibits, and domestic manufactures. The exhibit of bread and preserves was excellent, also the dairy products of all kinds.

The assortment of apples in the fruit section, was one of the best we have seen, also the garden vegetables and field roots.

The showing of cut flowers and potted plants, deserve special mention, for they were exceptionally good.

The exhibition, on the whole, was a big success, and much credit is due the officers who had it in charge.

The ladies of the Field Comfort Club served lunch on the grounds Wednesday.

Digby Amateur Concert Band furnished music during Wednesday afternoon.

Record Trip to Yarmouth.

Mr. and Mrs. T. B. Chipman, of Bridgetown, who had with them as guests, the editor of the MONITOR and Mrs. Dunham, made the run from here to Yarmouth Post Office last Wednesday in Mr. Chipman's Overland in three hours and fifty-five minutes, running time. Stops were made at Westville, Church Point, Salmon River, Beaver River and Port Maitland. After a pleasant visit at Yarmouth, attending the exhibition, meeting old friends, etc., the return trip was made in good time the following day, stops being made at Brooklyn, Yarmouth county; Weymouth North, Westville and Clementsport. On the same date in 1916 the editor made the run from the Digby railway station to the Grand Hotel in Yarmouth in two hours and eighteen minutes, the guest of Mr. H. T. Warne in his seven passenger Studebaker, the other guests being Mr. F. W. Nichols, Digby; Mr. Geo. E. Graham, manager of the D. A. R., and Mayor Pelton, of Kentville.

Death of Mrs. Eben Bent

At the home of her brother, Mr. J. W. Wade, Thursday, Sept. 27th, the death occurred of Jane Wade, widow of the late Eben Bent, of Granville Centre. Although the deceased had been in poor health for several years, the call came unexpectedly at the age of seventy-eight years. Mrs. Bent, previous to the time when disease had wrecked both mind and body, was one of the bright, useful, christian women, always giving her assistance to the moral and religious interests of the community in which she lived. She leaves to mourn their loss, two sisters, and two brothers; also three step-daughters and one step-son, who cherish the memory of one who was specially qualified to fill the place of mother. The funeral took place on Saturday afternoon, conducted by her pastor, Rev. A. R. Reynolds, assisted by Rev. I. Brindley. The remains were interred in Wadeville cemetery beside her husband.

Thanksgiving Day in Bridgetown

Monday, Thanksgiving Day, passed off very quietly in Bridgetown. Service was held in St. James church in the morning. Several took advantage of the holiday following Sunday and spent the week-end out of town; others entertained guests. A party of eight of our business men enjoyed the holiday in the woods at one of the favorite camps, pronouncing the outing a very enjoyable one. Places of business were closed and flags were displayed from many of the staffs throughout the business section and in various places around town.
