

which he was so faithful and devoted a minister! She had shot forth to almost every part of the land. The little one had become a thousand, and the small one a strong nation. How clear and full was the evidence afforded him that he had the sanction of the Lord of the vineyard in the step he took when he resigned his charge in Scotland and came out as a missionary to Canada, and His presence with him in his labours and travels, which may be well described as having been by night and by day! Having, like David, served his generation by the will of God, he has fallen asleep. The Christian public will sympathize with the family in their affliction, and with the congregation in the bereavement with which God has been pleased to visit them. Those in the ministry will hear the voice of Christ speaking to them through this dispensation, and urging them to do with all their might whatsoever their hand findeth.
