

business of the Senate for the remainder of the week. The information now available is rather incomplete. However, tomorrow we will be dealing with Bill C-41, respecting the stabilization of net proceeds from the production and sale of western grain and to amend certain statutes in consequence thereof. On Thursday we will be dealing with Bill C-71, to amend the Criminal Code and to make related amendments to the Crown Liability Act, the Immigration Act and the Parole Act. Consideration of these bills should occupy a good deal of the Senate's time for the remainder of the week.

Senator Flynn: May I ask what is the intention of the government with respect to the present session? What are the bills the government would like Parliament to pass before a new session is started, remembering that this one began about a year and a half ago?

Senator Perrault: All I can say is that the inscrutable legislative pattern will be unfolding shortly.

Senator Flynn: Like the rest.

The Senate adjourned until tomorrow at 2 p.m.
