

CONTENTS.

vii

trade.—Her government.—Her religion.—Peruvian fertility.—Mineral resources.—Animals.—Cattle.—The face of the country.—The Andes.—Rivers and lakes of Peru.—Her coasts.	244
--	-----

PAGE

167

CHAPTER XIII.

Departure from Peru.—On board the "New World."—The nautical ladies.—Chimborazo and Cotopaxi.—The volcanoes of the Cordillera.—Crater of Cotopaxi.—A narrow escape.—Arrival at Panama.—An amateur concert.—Departure from Panama.—Scene occasioned by a dead mule.—Badness of the roads —Arrival at Cruces	263
---	-----

200

CHAPTER XIV.

The hotel at Cruces.—A felonious eat.—The New Granadian gentleman.— Progress towards Chagres.—Lightning, thunder, and rain.— Arrival at Chagres.—The dead American.— Quarrels between Americans and the natives of Panama.— Humboldt's estimate of the Indians.—Incredulity of Californian emigrants.— Melancholy case of two returned Californians.— A beautiful sun-set.— Arrival at Jamaica.— Kingston.— Descent of General Lopez on Cuba.— Strange effect of it.— Reverses of Jamaica planters.— The glories of Nature.— Creation's Praise, a poem	282
--	-----

221