Remains Are Being Held Until Relatives Are Heard From.

COLDWATER, May 27.—(Special.)—Shortly after 8 o'clock this morning a C.P.R. freight train brought in the body of £ouis G. Sorensen, a brakesman belonging to the crew of the train, who was killed at Buckskin Station, a few miles porth of Coldwater.

C.P.R. freight train brought in the body of £Jouis G. Sorensen, a brakesman belonging to the crew of the train, who was killed at Buckskin Station, a few miles north of Coldwater.

Sorensen was walking on top of the cars while shunting operations were being carried on near Buckskin, and while crossing the gap from the caboose to the next car, missed his footing, and was seen to fall between them. The wheels of the caboose passed over his head, instantly killing him, and the remains were taken on to Coldwater.

An inquest was opened here by Coroner W. B. Boyd of West Simcoe and adjourned, and the remains were sent on to Toronto. The man's home was in Baker, Minn., and his relatives have been telegraphed, the remains staying at Speers' undertaking rooms until word is received concerning interment. He was about thirty years of age, and boarded at 67 Hook avenue, West Toronto. He was unmarried, but is survived by his mother and father and several brothers and sisters in Minnesota.

This is the second fatality occurring under almost identical circumstances here within the last few weeks.

WARD SEVEN.

The misison band of the Victoria Presbyterian Church held their annual Presbyterian Church held their annual entertainment in the church basement last evening. This year the entertainment took the form of a May festival. Yesterday pedestrians on Dundas street were alarmed by the strange behavior o fa large dog in a lane near Kele street, which, while it did not venture to attack anyone, was growling and snarling in a degreeous manner. and snarling in a dangerous manner. The police at No. 9 station were notified and P. C. Allewey killed the animal with his revolver.

The Kele stret drinking fountain was opened yesterday for the first time this yead and thirsty citizens may again quench their thirst while waiting for the cars. One such fountain is scarcely enough for ward seven, and a petition will be presented to the city council for others by the ratepayers' association.

fix the exact form in which the cooperation of the county, city and government should work for the coming year, but that it would be decided before long. There is little doubt that help will be forthcoming, the only matter to be settled is the plan of expenditure in view of the fact that so many sections of the province today are anxious to follow the suit of York. "We are at the present time endeavoring to see how we can help York," said Sir James. "The county wants the contract of last year duplicated, but this has not yet been approved by the government." "Would your consideration be in view of the government plan to reorganize the whole roads system of old Ontario?" the premier was asked.

"No," he replied. "We are merely finding whether help for York is of immediate necessity."

Appoint Commission.

The first step of the government in the polley outlined during the session will be the appointment of a commission. Of this Sir James would say nothing beyond the fact that he hoped it would all be settled by the end of June.

Parliament Must Act.
Mr. Maclean, in submitting his resolution, said that he had consulted no one concerning it, and did not even nder. The question quality of rates in freight, express and telegraph tolls was one of supreme importance and in his opinion could only be dealt with ada. He had deferred making the motion hoping that the principle would be recognized by the minister of railways when he brought in his bill to revise and codify the Railway Act. Unfortunately, that legislation would not be introduced at this session, and the matter could only now be brought to the attention of the house by a substantive motion proposed by a private member.

Reform by Strategy.

Progress and reform, said Mr. Maclean, were often brought about by strategy, and parliament now occupied Over 30 ratepayers petitioned against granting a permit to the Toronto Railway Co. to build a $35,000 car barn on Queen a street, at Greenwood avenue. As that section is not in a residential district, the petition was not considered. Simcoe street, from Front to King street, is to be extra well lighted. The railways of this country were national in their character; to their construction and extension all the tizens of this country contributed. and as all citizens shared in the bu dens of transportation, they should share in its benefits. The Winnipeg Board of Trade had recently declared her aid to the railways and espelally should not act upon the pro-osed subsidy to the Canadian Nor-nern without establishing the princiole of equality of rates. The Winninger Free Press, in commenting on a of commons by Mr. Maclean, had de-clared that the way to vindicate the rinciple of equal rates for all parts untry was by an amend to the Railway Act.

Just now, Mr. Maclean said, the railway commission was struggling with this question and was examining something like 230,000 railway rate effective in Canada.
