

BOMBING SCHOOL MAY BE INCLUDED IN PROVISIONAL SCHOOL PLANS

Instruction Course for Officers in Fredericton in January—News of the Soldiers at Home and Abroad

In all probability there will be a provisional school of bombing attached to the provisional school of infantry, which will be held at Fredericton, for the purpose of giving instruction in bombing.

This school will be in charge of Captain G. McR. Johnston, of this city, who was formerly a brigade bombing officer in France. The school in Fredericton will not likely start before the first of January and a large number of applications are being received each week at the headquarters of the New Brunswick from officers and N.C.O.'s to participate in the work. The kilties battalion will have quite a number of officers ready to take the qualifying course as well as N.C.O.'s, while the 165th will, no doubt, send quite a number of men. From present indications the provisional school of infantry for this province will have over one hundred students about the time the course begins.

Nine Recruits

Nine recruits were secured in the city yesterday for overseas service. They are as follows: For the 9th Siege Battery, F. R. Bepreux, Bordeaux, France; F. B. Young, Carquet, W. M. Addison, Petitcodiac; J. B. Somerville, St. John; F. J. Foley, Jacques River; Arthur Westrup, Fairville, Field Ammunition Depot; John Garbey, Kings county; Joseph Barlow, St. John, Naval Service; George Soper, Millstream, Kings county. Jobs for Returned Men.

Charles Robinson, secretary of the Returned Soldiers' Aid Commission, yesterday informed The Telegraph that he had nearly twenty positions open for returned soldiers if it was possible to find suitable men to fill them. He said that the majority of the positions offering were from concerns within the city of St. John but that he had already received a number of offers from business enterprises in different parts of the province.

To Go Before Board

Lance Corporal Louis Leclacheur, who was wounded seriously in the battle of Ypres about a year ago and who returned to his home a short time ago, is now confined to his bed by reason of the fact that his wounds have broken out afresh. It is understood that a medical board has been authorized to sit on his case, in order that the young man will in the future be under medical charge so far as his attendance is concerned, until he has completely recovered from the effect of his wounds.

N. B. People in London

In a recent list of Canadians now visiting in London, England, appears the name of Elizabeth S. Green, of Newcastle (N. B.), and Gunner Donald G. Kyle, of St. John (N. B.).

Again in Trenches

Word was received yesterday by relatives of Major Alexander McMillan that he would rejoin his old battalion, the 26th, on November 30. So he is now with that unit in the trenches. It is well known here that this is wholly in accord with Major McMillan's desire.

For Flying Corps

About eight young men from various parts of Canada will converge in the city of St. John before the end of the week en route to England to take commissions in the Royal Flying Corps. The splendid spirit of the Canadian soldier and his absolute fearlessness has made the imperial authorities believe that this type of manhood is especially fitted for the air service. No other branch of the service offers such inducements to the young man so far as thrilling exploits are concerned and it seems to have a special attraction for Canadians courageous.

Flight Lieut. R. Needs, of Galt (Ont.), arrived in the city last night and will be one of the party to go overseas this week to join the R. F. C. Another young man from the same city is Flight Lieut. J. A. Jardine, who was the proprietor of a gentleman's furnishing store in Galt (Ont.) prior to the war, but who responded to the call. He passed the flying corps examinations at Ottawa with ease and is most enthusiastic Second in Attack.

That James Lynott, son of S. L. Lynott, editor of the Carleton Sentinel, was the second man to reach the German lines in a recent attack is the information conveyed in a letter received by a friend from A. G. Shaw, who is now in France also in the fighting. "There is little change in yours truly," he adds, "except that I may be a little thinner, and the boys say my hair is getting whiter than it was, but that does not matter so long as we beat old Fritz," he adds in the hopeful tone of a true Canadian Tommy.

Young Lynott, referred to in the letter, celebrated his nineteenth birthday in the trenches, assisting in hurling deadly missiles at the enemy opposite. Clothes Torn By Shrapnel.

The following letter to Claude McLean from "Buddy" Shaw, of Woodstock, who went over with the 55th will be of interest to his friends and friends of the boys he mentions:

France, Oct. 31.

Dear Friend Claude—I suppose you will be quite surprised to get a letter from me. I should have written before but we have a lot more time out here to think of our friends at home than we have the chance to write to them. It is just one year ago today since we boarded the old Corsican at Quebec, bound for England, and nearly seven months since I came to France. I have

Gen. Turner is Appointed

Noted Commander Returns From Front to Assume Charge of Canadian Troops in England

London, Nov. 30.—The appointment of General Turner, G. O. C. of the Canadians in England, is the Gazette understands, the first step in a scheme for the better co-ordination of the relations and arrangements with those on active service in France. It has been decided to bring back the men who, though of great value at the front, are more urgently needed here. It is likely this precedent will be followed by further appointments. The new appointment creates a new position, in fact, the multiplication of Canadian camps has necessitated the appointment.

Further conversation with wounded officers emphasizes the fact that the attack of Nov. 18 was valuable in continuing the advantages gained by the complete capture of Regina, trench, a month previously, as the capture of Desire and Gungit trenches gave our forces possession of an important ridge. Although our troops, while consolidating the position, were subject to a heavy fire from machine guns, they tenaciously held on and achieved their task. Kind words, with praise, were uttered concerning Lieutenant G. F. MacDonald, who was killed while with a trench mortar battery. He was regarded as an officer of great promise.

Colonel Cantley, president of the Nova Scotia Steel Company, has just visited the Scotia troops at Bramshott. He speaks well of their condition and environment.

General Turner has been in active command since the Canadians went to the front, first in command of the third brigade, and during the last fourteen months, of the second division, which includes the 26th Battalion.

TEA ADVANCED IN PRICE

Owing to the continued increase in the cost of tea and the heavy advances in marine freight and insurance rates, we have regretfully been compelled to advance our selling prices five cents per pound, but the consumer will still be getting in "SALADA" packets, tea of incomparable quality and value. THE SPIRIT OF CHRISTMAS CARDS

(Helena Smith-Dayton in Cartoons Magazine.)

Whatever the form of Christmas good wishes they will be welcome and the collection is flattering and the most critical and cynical of us are sentimental at heart. A humble post card from our office boy gets a rise from us.

A very much dejected and blotted message from Boy Blue of Curlylocks will cause even the most matter-of-fact business man to see through a haze, while the original poem penned by the nine-year-old Ella Wheeler Lilex down the street (she plays the violin and her name is Aseneth), fills our heart to overflowing. It is the personal touch that counts. It is the home-made Christmas card that goes right to the spot. How could anyone be indifferent to such tributes—such labors of love? The cheap card sent by our old negro Mammy, still faithful after many years; the Christmas greetings from Ellen, now married, and a mother of three children—of such is the real spirit of the season.

John McCann of Chestnut, Ill., was asked by a friend if he voted for Wilson. He answered: "I did, and so did my six sons, four daughters, four sons-in-law, seven granddaughters and my wife. You see this makes 23 votes for Wilson right in our own family."

DYSPEPSIA

MOST DIFFICULT TO CURE

BUT B. B. B. DOES IT

Dyspepsia is one of the most difficult diseases of the stomach there is to cure. You eat too much, drink too much; make the stomach work overtime. You make it perform more than it should be called on to do. The natural result is that it is going to rebel against the amount of work put on it. It is only a matter of time before dyspepsia follows. That forty-year-old remedy, Burdock Blood Bitters, will cure the dyspepsia, and will cure it to stay cured as we can prove by the thousands of testimonials we receive from time to time.

Mr. Neil A. Cameson, Kiltarity, N.S., writes: "I am writing you a few lines to tell you what your great medicine has done for me. I was troubled very much with dyspepsia for the past two years. I was recommended all kinds of medicines, but they did not help me any. At last a friend advised me to try a bottle of B. B. B. I took four bottles and was totally cured. I will gladly recommend it to all sufferers."

B. B. B. is manufactured only by The T. Millburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

A "DRY" NEW YORK WITHIN FIVE YEARS

"If People Do Not Wake Up," Is Warning of Head of Hotelmen's Congress

Rome Miller, of Omaha, chairman of the National Congress of Hotelmen of the United States and Canada, is quoted in the New York Globe as saying that New York state will go dry within five years "if the people do not wake up." Other prominent hotelmen, there to attend the hotelmen's national convention, agreed with Mr. Miller as to the "danger" of the empire state going "dry" and said that the only way to stem the wave of prohibition which is sweeping over the country is to do away entirely with saloons, which measure, they think, would satisfy the prohibitionists.

"New York City man now laugh at the possibility of ever going 'dry,' but the laugh will be on the other side if it does not get busy at once," said Mr. Miller. "Six years ago I warned the people of the coast and got laughed at for my pains. Now Washington and Oregon are dry, and California was only saved from a similar fate by her grape industry."

Mr. Miller pointed out that the great strength of the prohibitionists was in the rural districts, and that it was from until the cities, one by one, were won to the cause.

"It is a fact that the rural element of the entire United States is inclined to prohibition," he continued. "It is in the larger cities, where live those who are opposed to it as they are to the curtailment of any of their other liberties that they stand against it must be made."

MEASURING MEN'S MINDS

Futility of Tests of Modern Scientists

Shows in Many Trials Among Men. Aristotle knew that it is nonsense to use the language of exact knowledge in taking subjects which defy measurement. Judged by the number of "tests" going the rounds, the old Greek philosopher was at least 2,000 years ahead of some modern psychologists.

These talkative gentlemen are quite certain that knowledge and mental capacity can be measured like potatoes. Hence the "tests" which are served as psychological peck measures. There is one list of questions which is supposed to determine the exact "mental age" of the victim, and which looked convincing until it was found that, according to this formula, some of the most successful business and professional men were mere 9-year-old children. This test has been modified since, but the underlying error of pretending to an exactness which doesn't exist still remains.

Now there is an educational test, a series of words which every human being must be able to define on penalty of being adjudged ignorant. Two members of the Journal staff passed this examination with a score of 91 per cent. The chances are strong that not more than one justice on the supreme bench of the United States could do as well, yet no one but a fool would say that a newspaper staff is better educated than the supreme court. The jurist knows law, constitutions, history, the great moving forces of life, and knows them deeply; the journalist of necessity has a far less profound knowledge of a rather greater number of things.

Consider further that such a test gives the man of words an enormous advantage over the man of deeds, that a dry-as-dust pedant could pass with high score when a painter, sculptor, inventor or engineer might be lost altogether, and you get some notion of the comprehensive silliness of these devices.—Chicago Journal.

A Service of Fulfilment —Not of Promise!

AN inspection of our new British-woven tweeds, serges and worsteds will convince you that style and service start with the proper selection of the fabric for your Suit or Overcoat.

But it does not end there!

Individual Tailoring plays a big part in our SERVICE. It is distinctly a tailoring of the higher class. The same consummate skill of design, the same careful attention to exactness of measurement and nicety of detail characterize the tailoring done for you here as it would were the cost to you much greater, indeed.

With all these points rigidly adhered to, The English and Scotch Woollen Company can render you a service that gives an entirely new meaning to the word. It is a service of deeds, not words; a service of fulfilment, not of promise!

Is such a service worth anything to you? Come in today and let us give you this service—instead of talking it to you.
