Side by side with Sir Wilfrid, looms the figure of one of his ablest lieutenants in many a hard-fought political battle—the Hon. John Costigan, Senator from New Brunswick.

Born in St. Nicholas, P.Q., in 1835, Mr. Costigan accompanied his parents to New Brunswick, where his education to New Brunswick, where his education to New Brunswick, where his education was completed. OTTAWA, ONT., 232 Cooper St. Jan. You know what fearful trouble I hav of the Court of Common Pleas. In the same year, he was elected to the Legislature for Victoria.

So great had become his popularity, and so widely recognized his ability, that in the election of 1867, he was returned to Parliament, where he sat until elevated to the Senate last year.

Throughout the latter part of the last century, in campaign after campaign, Mr. Costigan was ever in the public eye. It was as a debater that he early established his reputation. Few, indeed, of the many brilliant men who have been his contemporaries in Parliament, ever cared to cross swords with him in debate, His words were like stabs — keen and piercing — and he hurled sarcasm and
