Passengers of the Alice Blanchard Unable to Reach Copper River-What Happened to the Blanchard.

Cannot Get Up the Stikine-Miners Return from Wrangel-Happenings at Skagway.

Steamer Danube, Captain Meyer, re turned from Skagway and Wrangel early yesterday morning, completing the round trip in ten days and three hours, of which two days and a half were spent at Skagway and Wrangel, discharging and loading freight. She experienced good weather; in fact the weather all along the coast has been remarkably mild for this time of year. As a consequence of the mild weather, it is reported that over two thousand with several hundred teams of horses, a great number of dogs and many outfits, are stranded at the mouth of the Stikine river, the ice having been ade unfit to carry any weight. A numher of those who went up on the Dan-ube, contemplating going in by this route, changed their minds when they saw the situation and took their horses and outfits on to Skagway and Dyea, to go in over the White and Chilcoot pass-es. At Wrangel steamers are delayed greatly on account of the insufficiency of wharf accommodation. Up to the of wharf accommodation. Up to the present there is only one old wharf on which the customs authorities will allow which the customs authorities will allow freight to be landed. The new wharf of McKinnon & Co. is about completed, but no freight is allowed to be landed until the bonded warehouses are completed, and in consequence of this vessels had often to tie out in the stream awaiting their turn to tie up at the old awaiting their turn to tie up at the old dock. It is understood that several other companies contemplate building docks, but so far no signs of work are to be seen. At Skagway and Dyea the to be seen. At Skagway and Dyea the wharves are also taxed to their full capacity, handling the enormous quantities of merchandise, feed, lumber, etc., being dumped there by all kinds of craft. So much freight has been landed there that the market is overstocked with produce and material, and it is likely to continue so for some time to ie, as until the spring either completes its work of thawing the snow or frost hardens it the trails are almost impassable. In consequence of the glut a great deal of valuable merchandise is

Of the 18 passengers returning on the Danube, the majority are people who have lost their outfits through accidents which befel the steamers on which they took passage northward. A. Arnold, T. E. Kenny and E. Cook, who left San Francisco on the Whitelaw, were among these. They lost all they possess in the fire which destroyed the wrecker, H. W. Heinsch and L. L. Brentner are members of a party of gold seekers who tried to go to Copper River on the steamer Alice Blanchard, which left San Francis-co about a month ago. They are loud in their complaints against the management of that vessel, and threaten to take legal proceedings against them at San Francisco. They say they were greatly overcrowded, and the table set the Blanchard, according to their story, found nearly every rock on the coast. She struck a number of times, was ashore at various places for different and, in consequence, soon began like a sieve. Her freight, conleak like a sieve. Her misting mostly of the outfits of the bas sengers, was badly damaged, and while passing up Lynn canal the greater portion of it was totally destroyed, as through the result of a collision with an iceberg the forehold filled with water.

Arriving at Haines, the vessel was beached to be examined under the water line, when it was found she had come off second best in scraping acquaintance with the various rocks. Then, of her complement of 50 passengers, all left her but five, refusing to go any further on her. After patching her hull somewhat, she started southward. Several others who had experiences of a other steamers also came back. The only Victorian who came back on Danube was Mr. A. Henderson, of Victoria Transfer Company, who has sold out his pack train, and intends to devote his time entirely to his busi-llar character on the Del Norte and ness in this city in future.

The situation at Skagway when the Danube and Centenninal, the two last vessels to depart from the gateway city, left, was practically unchanged. Gambling had again broken out, but only "legitimate gambling" is now allowed; a stop having been put on all sure-thing, flimsy and confidence games. In consequerce of this many of the tough element are now moving down to Juneau, News comes from Dyea of still an-other murder. Frank Clement, of Holts Oregon, was shot and killed at Camp on Monday last by Gottlieb Schneider, of Maryland. Schneider was promptly arrested, and had it not been for the prompt action of the of-ficers in securing protection for the murhe would have been lynched by the infuriated miners.

The murderers of Peter C. Bean, the miner killed on the Skagway trail, and Sam Roberts, the fare dealer, who was shot down in his cabin on the Dyea trail, have not been discovered, nor does it seem likely that they will, for the search, when the steamers sailed, acemed to have been shandoned.

The bark Prussia, which ran ashore in Wrangel Narrows, has been pulled off by the tug Tacoma, which vessel is taking her northward, and has continued her voyage.

The steamer Tees, Captain Gosse, arrived at midnight on Saturday, after a very fast trip from Skagway, Wrangel, Skidegate and Alert Bay. She made the run down in three days and 16 hours. The Tees brought back several passengers who were unable to go in by the Stikine route, and the steamer Centennial, which returned this morning, also had a few on board.

The Danube will sail again for the north to-morrow evening, the Tees on Thursday and the Centennial on Friday.

SALMON ARRIVALS.

Salmon Dealers Securing Satisfactory Prices in the English Market.

The British ship Irby arrived at London, England, about the end of February with 63,542 cases of British Columbia salmon, and about the same time the British ship Balmore arrived at Liverpool with 68,177 cases and the American ship Lansing at London with 26,-950 cases of Alaskan salmon. As this had already been sold "to arrive," there was no alteration in the position of the market. There was at that time a satisfactory demand; market firm. Combina-tion prices were being refused by hold-ers, and it was stated that a meeting of the committee of the combine would shortly be called to sanction a further advance in the scale of prices.

LOCAL COUNCIL OF WOMEN. Programme for National Council Considered—Delegates Appointed.

Mrs. James Baker presided at the meeting of the Local Council of Women held on Saturday afternoon in the city hall. McKenzie and Thompson, M. C. A. played well for the losers, but moites was too much for a team compos ed of players who were unfamiliar with each other's play. Not less than a thousand spectators witnessed the match, which was, all things considered, an ex-also be played in Victoria.

THE ROD Good Sport.

Those disciples of the rod and reel who braved the elements on Sunday to have a first try at their favorite sport were very successful, the fish taking were very successful, the fish taking splendidly. At Shawnigan and Sooke lakes some very good catches were made, ther being several baskets of 50 and few under 25. Prospect Lake also provided some good sport, the catches there being far ahead of what they have been for several seasons past. Gilesville, the headquarters of the Shawnigan Lake fishermen, was the scene of an interesting ceremony, the Union Jack being raised for the first time over the little village of sportsmen's cabins. In the absence of the newly-elected mayor, his substitute, the biggest man in the camp, did the honors for the time being. Gilesville is now a full-fledged railway station, the E. &. N. Railway Company having erected a platform there.
