CHEAPER NOW TO PROVISION A HOME THAN 20 YEARS AGO.

Interesting Facts About Prices in St. John.

Luxuries of That Day Are Almost Neces saries Now--Not Much Difference in the Figures on Some Lines, But a Big Drop in

A comparison of the cost of living twenty years ago and now, so far as provisionare concerned, shows that on an average a family can live cheaper in St. John at the present day than in the past.

In certain lines of produce there is scarce any difference in price, but in more than a few of the staple articles it is shown by actual comparison that the cos twenty years ago was greater than a per-son is called upon to pay today. Sugar and flower are cheaper, kerosene oil is cheaper, cereals are cheaper; there but small difference in meats and poul try, and with no elevation in prices of other goods to offset the decrease in the cost of these staples, it will be seen that a grocery bill of today does not appear quite so formidable as it did years ago. The following comparison is submitted:— Ten hs. brown sugar, $1.

Oil, 36c per gallon.
Molasses, 50c per gallon.
Corn 15c per can.
Tomatoes, 16c per can.
Cream tartar, 46c per lb.
Oatmeal, 4c per lb.
Soap, 5c per cake.
Corn starch, 14c per package.
Beans, 12c per quart.
Nutmegs, $1 per lb.
Fresh meats, from 6c to 18c per lb.

Eighteen bs. brown sugar, $1.
Oil, 25c gaillon.
Molasses, 40d pen, gallon.
Corn, 10c per can.
Tonatoes, 9c per can.
Cream tartar, 30 to 35c per lb.
Oatmeal, 3c per lb.
Corn starch, 10c per package.
Beans, 10c per quart.
Fresh meats, 6 to 18c per lb.

many kinds of articles, and in English goods—pickles, jams, jellies, etc.,—there is a decrease in price principally now through the effects of the preferential duty. The man was John H. Stone, of Moncton, a shunter in the I. C. R. yard here. He is in the hospital now and may not live. At the time of the accident the depot was filled with persons going to their summer homes and they were attracted by news of the casualty to the spot.

Mr. Stone, who is 23 years old, is a man of nerve. While coupling cars, he dropped a pin, and in stooping to recover it, slipped and fell.

In a moment the car wheels were upon him. He wriggled as far from the rails as he could and so the wheels, which would otherwise have crushed his body., caught his leg above the knee.

He had not saved his life nor had he even saved his limb, but he did all that cool and prompt judgment could do. Men ran to the rescue, and he was carried further into the train shed, and Dr. Jas. Christie and the ambulance summoned. Before the physician arrived, such rough.
