WEDNESDAY EVENING, JAN. 14, 1874.

Mr. Jenkins recently gave us a harrowing description of the sufferings of English agricultural laborers under the shock of their employments. He said that the sufferings of the poor were such that he was ignorant of the word "wretched" in its primitive sense, but that he could recognize their humanity, and he had no doubts of their humanity, but he had no doubts of their humanity, but he had no doubts of their humanity.

Notwithstanding the fact that another banquet in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Tilley was given this evening on temperance principles. The dining room was elaborately decorated for the occasion, the tables were elegantly ornamented, and when the one hundred and eighty black coated gentlemen and gaily dressed ladies were seated, the scene was animated, picturesque and imposing. The grand band furnished an accompaniment for the conversation.

Shipping Notes.

The brig Taco Mar, Thrusell, master, from St. Martin's for Boston, sprung a leak, and the crew refusing to proceed she was taken into Nassau on the 22nd ult. She was discharging a portion of her cargo on the 4th inst to effect repairs.

The schooner Sarah Wallace, of this port, Armstrong, master, from Truro, for Cuba, with coal, which put into Galway on the 22nd ult., with damage, reports that from the 21st November to the 12th December, she encountered a succession of gales, during which she carried away forestays, jib etc., split foremast, and had everything movable washed from deck. On the 16th, in lat. 44 N., lon. 19 W., during a severe gale from N. by E., she had to cut away mainmast. She anchored in the bay, and employed coast guards to haul up the anchor, her own crew being exhausted. She was towed from the bay into the roads; and went with tug, 2200.

The ship Richard Robinson, which has just returned from the West Indies, has at last completed her repairs and sailed for New York.

Pianos for Tuning.—Mr. Carlo J. Flood has secured the services of Mr. C. E. Bourne, of Boston, a practical tuner, who will visit St. John next week. Orders left at the Warehouses, No. 75 Prince Wm. street, will be attended to in the order received.

Board of Trade.
The Council met yesterday afternoon and adopted the bye laws proposed by the meeting of the last meeting. An informal discussion took place on the subject that would probably be introduced at the meeting of the Dominion Board of Trade.

It was decided to hold a meeting immediately after the election, when the views of the Council would be more fully explained to the delegates.

The Board met after the Council had adjourned. The Secretary reported that he had received notice that the time for the meeting of the Dominion Board of Trade was changed until late in February. He also reported that he had received from the International Line of steamers passes for the delegates to Ottawa, and an annual pass for the President. An additional bye-law was passed in reference to expulsion of members for improper conduct, and an order passed to have 500 copies printed.

Mr. Watson, the chairman of the committee on telegraphing, has by market reports, announced that the committee had been corresponding with Mr. King, of the Portland Exchange, and with the Western Union Telegraph Co., and found that full telegrams containing the N. Y. Herald's shipping list, and other cable information, could be obtained for about $13 a week. The report was adopted, and the committee instructed to make the necessary arrangements.

A committee was appointed to look after a more suitable place of meeting.

The Gubernatorial Banquet.—Great Enthusiasm.—Witty Speeches, etc.

The banquet at the Victoria last evening, in honor of the LL-Governor and Mrs. Tilley, was a magnificent demonstration. There were one hundred and eighty subscribers to the dinner, at $5 each, notwithstanding the fact that another banquet in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Tilley was given this evening on temperance principles. The dining room was elaborately decorated for the occasion, the tables were elegantly ornamented, and when the one hundred and eighty black coated gentlemen and gaily dressed ladies were seated, the scene was animated, picturesque and imposing. The grand band furnished an accompaniment for the conversation.

The program of toasts was strictly adhered to, and no volunteer offerings were responded to. The Queen, the United States, the Governor General, the Mayor and Corporation, the Ladies, and the Press, were the toasts.

Gov. Waples made a felicitous speech, as he always does. He said that he had much pleasure in attending the banquet, and he congratulated the Governor General, but he did not.

Mr. Macdonnell, Deputy Minister of Justice, was called on by several voices to respond for the Governor General, but he did not.

The drinking of Mr. Tilley's health was followed by one of the most enthusiastic outbursts of feeling ever witnessed in St. John or any other city. Cheer did not follow cheer, but there was a sea of cheers on whose surface the waves of sound rose and swelled and ebbed and flowed for minutes. If Mr. Tilley were the ruler of all the earth, instead of Governor of New Brunswick, his breast might have heaved with pride and his voice been choked with emotion by the demonstration with which he was honored.

Mr. Tilley said he had received many honors at the hands of this constituency during the last quarter of a century, but never before had been so deeply honored. The reception he had received, not from his own former political associates, but from men of all parties, had been kind and cordial. I am proud to say, he said, men here who have differed from him in the past, but like me, have forgotten the differences. The sentiments expressed by the representative of the neighboring republic have touched me much. I was in an official position when that country was in the hands of a military government, and I felt that they were right. As the Chief Magistrate of this Province I have the most kindly feeling for that country.

When the Dominion was first formed I thought the Government was one of the men who were not identified with political parties, and I think so still. Circumstances prevented the appointment of such men. But notwithstanding our past differences of opinion, I must say that the men who have given me the right hand of welcome. I have been in embarrassing positions before tonight, and this is an embarrassing one. I can't speak of local politics because I have seen a great deal of them. I can't speak of Dominion politics: I have seen a great deal of them. I can't speak of the past without offending any one. Perhaps you may permit me to review the progress of the last twenty-five years. A quarter of a century ago we were just entering upon responsible Government. A committee of the Legislature prepared the tariff. A tariff might be made in opposition to the Government, and execute the tariff without their consent. There has been a great change, but there is no change that can compare with the change in the means of communication. You have expended $10,000,000 in railways, have 700 miles completed or under construction, one mile for every 370 people, more in proportion to your population, than any State in the Union has. I have had a hand in nearly all these great works. Then we legislated for 200,000 people and a little Province, now we legislate for 4,000,000 people and a country larger than that of my friend the American Consul. There are some points I would like to touch upon, but I won't. I feel much embarrassed, but I won't. I feel much embarrassed, but I won't. I feel much embarrassed, but I won't.

Mr. Tilley was frequently applauded, and set down amid loud cheering.

Hon. T. R. Jones, in proposing "the Mayor and Corporation," said a good word in behalf of the much-abused gentlemen who are in charge of the civic government.

Mayor Reed (who occupied the chair) responded, saying that he and the other municipal officers always tried to do their duty.

Ald. Rowan said men of large brains might make the streets smoother, but they'd need money to do the work with. If the people would continue to elect the present members of the Common Council everything would soon be perfect!

Ald. Ferguson said he could not say much after the able, eloquent and exhaustive speeches of his illustrious predecessors. The Common Council was a useful body, affording a theme for the exercise of the wit, sarcasm and denunciation of the press when Pacific Scandals and elections failed. The man who went into the Council as a reformer found the work before him a hard one, and his great intentions were unfulfilled. After a year of office he went to his constituents, was sternly asked where was the road, and bowed in patient humility before the sovereign elector. His speech
