☾ The column of the moon's southing gives the time of high water at Parrsboro', Cornwallis, Horton, Hantsport, Newport, Windsor, Truro, &c.

EVERY farmer may effectually be his own banker if he chooses; he has the right, he has the power, he has the means at his own command, and by the exercise of this right, this power, and these means, he can be benefited far more than by any investment of capital in the banks now in use. The bank alluded to is the farmer's bank of manure, the location in his barnyard. This is a bank that can never fail, can never be insolvent. He subjects himself to no protests, he lives in no fear of a suspension of payment, he needs no bolts, bars or locks, to secure him from the midnight robber, there is no cashier to tell when he presents himself to this bank for means to carry on his farming operations that a discount is required to grant him a favour, or to tell him his endorser is not good or sufficient. He is not confined to a limited number of days, with a little grace beyond it; and when he draws his check he has no fear of being told that there is not any funds placed to his credit.
