

Amherst is a splendid example of the good work done by our Augmentation Fund. Some sixteen years ago the few Presbyterians there were organized into a congregation. For a time they worshipped in a hall Thea calling a minister and beginning a Church they wrought bravely on aided by the Augmentation Fund. Growing in numbers they grew in strength and in a few years became self-supporting, and are now doing their part in helping other weak, struggling beginners. The Augmentation Scheme has thus been one of the most successful agencies for Church extension that we have ever employed. Let there be a strong rally to make it more than ever a success.

Jesus is the incarnation of unselfishness in that He gave Himself for others, Judas the incarnation of selfishness in that he deliberately sacrificed others for his own gain. Naturally we are Judas-like in that we put self interest above all else. By the Grace of God we may be made Christ-like, giving ourselves for others. One way in which we can do this and one means that God has of training us in this grace is in permitting us to give. The more cheerfully and heartily we do this for His sake the more is there in us of the 'mind that was in Christ,' the more we are growing in likeness to Him. If it were not for the calls that come for giving we would lose one best means that the world affords of growing in this way in likeness to Christ. Were there no giving to do it would be the taking away of one of the best means of growing in Christ's likeness that the Christian enjoys.
