A Progressive Farmer

MR. OLIVER J. WILCOX, a farmer of South Woodslee, near Windsor, Ont., has performed a great feat. He carried the Federal constituency of North Essex against the Laurier candidate who was chosen to succeed the Hon. R. F. Sutherland on his appointment to the Bench. The Liberal candidate was Mr. W. J. McKee, a lumberman, and he was expected to carry the riding for the Government, because of his previous legislative experience and because of the popularity of the Government. Only twice since 1882, has the constituency been represented by a Conservative, and not once since 1891. Nevertheless Mr. Wilcox did the trick and won by a majority of 75. The turnover in the Town of Windsor was 200.

Football Brutality

GREAT discussion is taking place in the United States as to the relative value of soccer football and American Rugby. The latter's brutality and dangerousness is applauded by some, and deprecated by others. The upholders of soccer have been called "mollycoddles." One of these writes as follows in a New York daily:

"I am happy to think of my 'mollycoddle' days; what glorious exercise for body and brain they afforded. Swiftly of foot, always on the run, the great flying kicks, the intricate dribbling, quick passing, artful dodging, the ball never at rest, just like the puck in hockey, and always in view. No squabbling, no substitutes and with scarcely a hurt. Contrast this with the American game with its painful succession of collisions between two struggling masses of padded humanity, the elephantine ponderosity of the movements, nothing dashing, but everything crashing, mashing and groaning, with occasional intermissions for clearing away the debris and carrying off the wounded. It may be that some battered figure will escape from the carnage; no leaden feet his—terror lest the writhing mass he has escaped from will recover, pursue, and rend him lends wings for his flight. With staring eyes, oblivious of the mailed giants ahead, he blindly rushes to his destruction, the huge grizzly has got him, a short struggle, and he is again buried in an avalanche of flesh and bones. A frequent babel of tongues in settlement of some disputed scientific myth, the essence of which is known only to the coaches and trainers, relieves the tension, thus affording the delighted spectators an opportunity of seeing the ball, which is patiently wondering what all the slaughter is about, and why it has been so innocently dragged into such an exhibition. This is the game of which 'Left Guard' says, these are 'the things which make a man's college days the happiest and best of his life.'"
