

UNB At Hub Tomorrow

University of New Brunswick Red Bombers tomorrow open their campaign to retain the New Brunswick Canadian Rugby Football Union championship with a tilt against Moncton Hubs in Moncton. The Bombers, shown above in action during a past season, have been warming up for their opener for about a week now and the team's new coach, Don Nelson, forecasts a strong performance by the Red and Black charges. Following tomorrow's contest, the Bombers will play Mount Allison University here Oct. 13 in their first home game. It is expected that many U.N.B. students will be going to Moncton for tomorrow's game. An independent survey conducted on the campus just before press time indicated that the number would be about 200. For those making the trip, we remind you that the game will be played at the athletic field of the Moncton High School on lower Church Street.

To Unveil Split-T

When University of New Brunswick Red Bombers tackle Moncton Hubs in Moncton tomorrow afternoon, they'll be introducing the split-T formation into provincial football circles.

In making their first start under their new coach, Don Nelson, the Bombers will be forsaking the straight-T style of ball which has won them the New Brunswick Canadian Rugby Football Union crown the past two seasons under Coach Gerard (Moose) Fleming.

In this formation, the quarterback operates along the line of scrimmage. Unlike the conventional T, this formation is not primarily a deceptive attack. It is rather a running offense which emphasizes quick-hitting plays into the line.

The contest itself should prove to be a close one. The UNB charges, who have been working out for only slightly over a week, will be facing a Moncton team which has already played three games, all against Saint John Wanderers. The Moncton team won its first two starts, but was edged by the Loyalist City dozen in its third try.

Coach Nelson states the UNB team is "up for the game", a strong team having been molded around last year's veterans.

Carolyn's Comments

By CAROLYN SOMERVILLE

The Red Bomber football squad will, without a doubt, be the main topic of campus conversation for the next few weeks. In the past few years our Bombers have come out on top of the list. We are all hoping the championship will come to UNB again this year but we cannot be sure until the last game is played.

It is said on the campus that the girls are not at all interested in this sport. This was proved untrue by the tremendous exhibition given by the co-eds last fall.

The Bombers have started practice now and workouts will continue until the end of the season. Tomorrow we go to Moncton to play our first game and the following week we tackle Mount A. It is extremely important to all of us that we win.

Watching from the sidelines of the football field we soon see that our team has not yet reached perfection. Co-ordination is still far from the best, passing seems to be a great difficulty, and the converts we hope, will be improved upon by Saturday.

Phil's Back

The well-known backfielder, Phil Bird, is again back with us. We all regret that he was unable to play last season but we are sure that he will play a great part in bringing victory to UNB this year. Other veterans back for another season are Tex Doiron, Hugh Osier, Mike O'Connor, John Courtice, Dave Irving, Derek Mackesy, Mike Gordon, Ralph Clark, Stan Williams, Mike Schofield, Mike Opper and Bill Vaughn. It is rumored that one of the football heroes of the year may be Ian Matheson of Ridley College.

On the other side of the picture we find that Mount A. has some hidden ammunition for the fight here at College Field. Walter (Bubbles) Peters, halfback, and Johnnie Roberts, quarterback, are supposedly ready to meet the Red and Black. Other players of interest are "Chink" McLaughlin, Bruce Smith and Sterling McLean.

With Coach Nelson and the players' incentive to win we are sure that many wins are in store for us. However, the students' support at all the games is a very important issue. Please turn out and give your support to the Bombers. Best of luck, Red Bombers!

NET PLAY UNDER WAY

The university tennis tournament yesterday went into the quarter-final round. The semi-final round will be played today, and the finals will be played immediately after the holiday weekend.

With three of last year's intercollegiate team entered in this year's university tournament, the competition should be keen. However, because of other commitments, some of them will be unable to travel to King's College where on Oct. 13 the Maritime Provinces intercollegiate tournament will be held.

TRACK TEAM JILTED

With the MIAU track and field championships only three weeks off (Oct. 26th), UNB's hope for making a good showing is fading.

Many students who indicated interest during registration have not turned out for practices. The team is not only weak in numbers, it is lacking entries in the following events: high-jump, shot-put, discus, hammer, pole vault, hurdles and the 440 dash.

Unless immediate additional interest is shown, UNB will field only a token team on its own field Friday, Oct. 26.

Practices for track and field are held each day, Monday to Friday from 4 to 6 p.m. Cross country running practices are being held Monday to Friday 4:30 to 5:30.

Report to Coach Legere at College Field.
