Items of Interest

Mr. James McCracken, after not being heard from for fifteen years, has written to his people in London, announcing that he has struck it rich in the gold fields of Alaska, and is now residing in Fairbanks. McCracken left London when but a lad and the letter reached his mother, who is in a paralyzed condition. His father has been dead for some years. His people had believed him dead.

One of the queerest advertisements which has ever appeared in a newspaper was one which the other day made known the wish of Mrs. Reginald Waldorf, a wealthy lady of Philadelphia, for a new index forefinger. Mrs. Waldorf's right forefinger was amputated after becoming infected by an accidental cut with a rusty knife. She appealed to Dr. Fred. B. West, who advertised for a finger. He names no price, but says his patient is willing to pay liberally.

While her parents were absent a few days ago, ten-year-old Ruth Henry discovered a rattle snake in the yard of her home at De Soto, Wis. Miss Ruth was delighted at the queer wriggling creature, and decided on the spot to adopt it as a pet, so with a couple of sticks she drove it into a glass jar. When the parents returned they were horrified to find the little girl using the bottled snake as a plaything. She had not been bitten.

The Lucky Lottery.

An old farmer one day called at a roadside public-house where he was well known. The landlady asked him to buy a ticket for a lottery they had on there.

"Well," he said, "I hae naught in ma pocket, or I might."

"Oh, that's a' rect, John!" she said, "take the ticket and pay for it any time."

Some time later John called again, and the landlady asked him if he knew who had won the lottery.

"No," he said. "Who won?"

"Well, I hardly durst tell you, but our Sam won. Wasn't he lucky?"

"Ay," said John, "he was lucky. And who was second then?"

"Who would you think, now?" she said.

"I couldn't say," said John.

"Well it was Sally. Wasn't she lucky?"

"Ay, she was lucky," said John.

"And who was third?"

"Well," she said, "I might as well tell you. I was third. Wasn't I lucky?"

"Ay, you was. Did I ever pay you for that ticket, missus?"

"No, John, you didn't," she said frowning upon him.

"Well," said John, "ain't I lucky!"

The Campaign in the "Queen's Bush."

The two election contests in the county of Bruce are now in full swing, and they bid fair to be among the most picturesque in this Province. The southern part of the county, made up of eleven townships of ordinary agricultural land, would make a large county of itself, but there is tagged on to it by nature a northerly "panhandle" of limestone formation, where "pockets" of agricultural land are supplemented by lumber ashore and fisheries in the adjacent waters of Lake Huron and the Georgian Bay. As there are only four small towns and a half a dozen villages there are few manufacturing industries, and the population is very predominantly rural and agricultural.

It is evident at a glance that there is no other county in Canada in a better position than Bruce to gain the ratification of the reciprocity agreement. By a pair of curious-historical coincidences it is called by the family name of Lord Elgin, the author of the old Reciprocity Treaty, and this part of the "Queen's Bush" was thrown open for settlement just as that great measure came into force.

The great southern area of the county is an ideal field for the production of foodstuffs of all sorts—grain, potatoes, vegetables, dairy products, and fruit, and of live stock of every marketable kind—horses, cattle, sheep, hogs, and poultry.

To enable the farmer to carry on his operations to the greatest advantage the enormous market afforded by the United States is precisely what he requires, and this is equally true of the farmers, the fishermen, and the lumbermen of the northern extension.

The South Riding of Bruce comprises seven purely agricultural townships and two towns. There the late member Mr. Donnelly has been nominated, and he is opposed by Mr. Truax, who has been for some time the representative of that part of the county in the Ontario Legislative Assembly.

The Liberal candidate in North Bruce is the late member, Mr. Tolmie, who has represented it continually since 1906, and represented West Bruce for many years prior to that date. As a salt manufacturer he has a very intimate and extensive acquaintance with the farmers of the whole county, while he is a veteran and skilful campaigner. Though the reciprocity agreement is not likely to benefit his business, Mr. Tolmie is nevertheless a firm supporter of the proposition, believing that it will be of unspeakable advantage to his constituents of all classes and pursuits.

The Conservatives have frankly admitted the personal strength of Mr. Tolmie as a candidate by selecting as his opponent Mr. Clark, the present representative of Centre Bruce in the Ontario Assembly. The factitious advantage to Mr. Clark from his previous campaigns is not very great, as the only part of the county common to North Bruce and Centre Bruce is Kincardine, including the town of which they are both residents. The Liberals of the North are not likely to underestimate Mr. Clark's strength, which is due partly to his personality, partly to his journalistic calling, and partly to his fairly acquired reputation as a Parliamentarian.—Globe.

LIVE STOCK MARKETS TORONTO.

The railways report 132 carloads of live stock, comprising 1883 cattle, 1827 hogs, 1591 sheep and lambs, 368 calves and two horses.

There were many good cattle, as well as a large supply of medium to good.

Trade was active, with prices equally as strong as at the Union Yards on Monday.

Fat Cattle.—Geo. Rowntree bought two-thirds, or over of the fat cattle on sale, that is, 1200 in number, for the Harris Abattoir Company. Cattle of export weights at $5 80 to $6 30; butchers, $5 40 to $6 15; bulls, $3 to $5; good cows $4 60 to $5; fair cows, $4 to $4 40 common cows, $3 to $3 60; canners, $1 50 to $2 50.

Stockers and Feeders.—One load of feeders, 850 lbs. each, sold at $4 75 per cwt., one load of stock steers, 500 lbs. each, sold at $4 25 and one load of mixed steers and heifers, 550 lbs., sold $4 per cwt.

Milkers and Springers.—Upwards of 100 milkers and springers sold $35 to $70 and one extra choice Holstein cow, weighing 1590 lbs., sold at $90.

Veal calves.—Veal calves, of which there were 369 reported on sale, sold at $3 to $7 25, and in one or two instances $7 50 per cwt., was paid.

Sheep and lambs.—Lambs decline about 3c per lb., selling at $5 75 to $6 65 per cwt., light ewes sold at $3 50 to $4; heavy $2 50 to $3 25; rams, $3 to $3 25.

Hogs.—About 1900 hogs were reported from all sources at this market. Mr. Harris quoted selects, fed and watered, at $8 to $8 10 cwt., at the market.

Mr. Harris reports too many light, thin hogs coming, and will certainly cut the price for them 50c. per cwt.

Ralph Mercer, of Owen Sound, has had several ribs removed, in an attempt to cure tuberculosis of the lungs.
