THE COURIER

WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 24, 1891.

We perceive by an article in the Toronto Globe that a requisition has been presented to Colonel Prince...

We are glad to learn that Professor Wilson, of the University of Edinburgh, the famous Christopher North of Blackwood...

Having yesterday published the Masticating elements of this science, we now propose an elucidation of the Bivariate.

The organs of Bivariate Phenology are, as we have said, nine; and if we give them as long names as we can...

This organ exhibits much the same appearance as that of Gormandisibility, but, in addition, the nose and lips are preternaturally swollen...

There is a kind of drink of which rum or brandy and eggs are the fundamental ingredients, bearing the abbreviated name of egg-pow or egg-nog.

Persons who indulge habitually and excessively in wine, are subject to frequent fits of irritability. The distinctive organ is situated on the top of the nose...

their lives in chemistry, and his highest death being the only vengeance who does not forget them.

BRANDY-FORMIDITY

Those who are addicted to the use of the above-mentioned drinks, or drinks of similar character, acquire an organ of a very peculiar appearance. They may be known by their heavy faces and wrinkling eyes...

Young reader, beware! the picture we have painted is sombre in its coloring, but it is correctly drawn and truthful in its details and accessories.

The President of the Board of Trade having been deputed to proceed to Toronto to urge upon Government the views of that body, concerning steam navigation between Great Britain and the River St. Lawrence...

Mr. Hicks, who gave me to understand that he was favorably inclined to the proposition of an early re-organization of the Legislature...

A former from Bytown of the name of Edward Gray, who is going on board the Lady Simpson at Quebec, at the meeting of the 12th, and his bid for gold was $100,000...

During the transference on Sunday morning last, of the remains of the late Lord Laurier, one of the great, thoughtful and, essentially, full men of the West was drowned.

Among the arrivals by the last Steamer from England, we are happy to see that of L. B. Brown, Esq., of Banstead, who has arrived in this city.

Another large audience assembled at Saint Andrew's Hall last evening to see the great Pantomime of "A Voyage to Etopia."

An exhibition this afternoon at 3 o'clock, and at night at the usual hour.

As a Quarterly Meeting of the Council of the Municipality of the several divisions of the County of Bonaventure, held at the village of Huntington, on the 8th September, 1891.

RAILROAD JOURNAL CONCERNED

Passed by the committee, the late day Railroad Journal was brought to a triumphant conclusion last evening. The successful completion of this organ, which has been a matter of great concern to the committee...

A few minutes had elapsed from the commencement of the report, when Mr. Egerton rose and said:—On reviewing the proceedings of the committee, it is a pleasure to me to see that the Journal has been a success...

The above resolution was received with three times their former cheer; after which it was carried on as follows:—Mr. Egerton, Mr. F. Williams, Mr. H. M. Brown, Mr. J. H. Brown, Mr. J. H. Brown, Mr. J. H. Brown, Mr. J. H. Brown...

Mr. Hicks, who gave me to understand that he was favorably inclined to the proposition of an early re-organization of the Legislature, stated that, in the prospect of an early re-organization of the Legislature...
