BACHELOR HABITS.

Wives Should Encourage Husbands to Spend an Occasional Evening Out. There are not a few women in the world who have a rooted idea that their anshands should be as much a home fixture as the domestic cat, and this little mistake on their part is an active agent in the propagation of matrimonial woes.

Man is essentially a creature of change, and monotony is the death blow of many a one time fierce, burning passion. Consequently the wise woman, knowing this, will encourage her husband to spend an occasional evening out, recognizing that her company and that of his home will be better appreciated if sandwiched in between a night with his old chums or one spent at the much maligned but nnocent club meeting. Early in married life a woman should recognize this fact and act ac-cordingly. Instead of adopting an aggressive attitude when her husband suggests going out, she should smile sweetly, help him to get out and say: "I'm glad you're going out, dear. Don't hurry home." And when he does come it should be to find a smiling wife and a good supper.

This is the sort of marriage which is a wife is always in love with her and has a habit of mentally contrasting her with the other wives of his acquaintance, much to her advantage. There are many worse fellows the one who seeks an occasional night out with his particular chums. Encourage him, little bride, and don't weep your bonnie eyes out when he takes you at your word. Never mind the example of your neighbor who has a husband of the first class henpecked order. You do not want monotony to put the first touch of blight on your still warm, glowing affection, and this assuredly will happen if you do not restrain your passion for an unlimited dose of your husband's company.

Of course she is. Could there be any question among right thinking folk?

Mr. Bourassa's Philipple.

Mr. Bourassa started after the Minister of Justice without gloves. The Minister had referred to him as a false friend to Wilfrid Laurier, and as being untrue to the Liberal party. The election of Mr. Robitaille in the County of Quebec had been described as "digging the grave of British institutions in Canada." Why was this done? Was he disloyal for opposing the South African war when it was opposed generally by the Liberal party in Canada, and by the liberal party in England? Had he deserted Sir Wilfrid on the autonomy bill, or was it Sitton or Fielding who played false? He denounced the North Atlantic Trading Co. and the Saskatchewan Valley Land Co., and accused the Government of playing on the prejudices of Protestants in Ontario and of Catholics in Quebec.

They give a marvelous rosy tint to the cheeks, brighten the eyes and establish health that defies age and disease. Sold everywhere in 25c. boxes. Bounty In Oil. Mr. Clements (West Kent) referred to the great discoveries of oil in West Kent, and said he believed that they should receive the bounty of 53c a bar-rel, at least upon their percentage of the oil produced.

Cockshutt (Brantford) hoped that the Government would revise the tariff upon the lines of a mutual tariff between Canada and other parts of the empire. He denounced electoral corruption.

Mr. Osler (West Toronto) replied to Sir Wilfrid Laurier's statement, that in London the Grits had to fight with the devil's fire. He submitted that they were not new at corrupt practices, and referred to the Carling-Walker election in 1874. HEART TROUBLE CURED

In the rush, hurry and worry of modern times, we overwork the heart. Is it any wonder then that there comes a breakdown wonder then that there comes a breakdown of this wonderful little engine, when such a continued strain is placed upon it day after day. There are many forms of heart trouble and the slightest derangement of this important organ is extremely dangerous. To strengthen the weak heart it is necessary to use a remedy that will act upon the heart issue, restore and revitalize it and at the same time tone up and invigorate the nervous system, we have such a combination in MILBURN'S HEART AND NERVE
