seen an active and forcible friend to his party's candidates in these contests. His influence has kept intact the Conservative Acadian vote, and enervated the whole-ale bolt so frequently predicted as likely to occur. Neither Senators Prowse, Macdonald nor the late Governor Carvell were ever candidates for the House of Commons, and yet it did not prove a bar to their being called to the upper chamber. Those silly enough to advance such an argument must be ignorant of current history.

There are, no doubt, others available who possess all the personal requisites necessary for the position of Senator; but none of them have such strong reasons for receiving the appointment as has Mr. Arsenault. Even were the position open to the whole Province we would just as warmly support him. But as the preferent must go to Prince County his relations are considerably and man active and forces. But no doubt is friend to the party is not altogether irreparable, it is doubtful if his successor, or the same influence over their following efficient the same influence over their following efficient the was essentially active the same influence over their following efficient the was did the grand old man. His great personal magnetism greatly tended to keep the Liberal party, composed as it is of so many factions, intact. He was essentially a man of the popole—the greatest commoner of the age. But the inroads of time have rendered it imperative that he relinquish the cares and responsibilities of office.
