

The Land of Live Over Again

(Written for the Catholic Bulletin by Dr. James Henderson)

Oh, the land of live over again is a land, A land that is fair to our dreams. A land that we all long for, that we have a song for And sometimes a sigh too, it seems. 'Tis a land where we'll know each day how to do, To leave no heartburning regrets, To give no one pain, to bear not a hurt, To pay all of honor's own debts. Our love will be known at last to our own. Our lives will be happy and calm To run as a brook thro' the meadow of dreams. Yes, all of a prayer and a song; Our days will be fair, we'll never cast doubts. To cloud or to darken the sky In that land, Oh, that land we glimpse now afar. Somewhere in the sweet by and by. We'll lay down our heads when day's work is done, Sweetly on pillows of down, In the thought that the day was well spent And, with never a doubt or a frown. Our years will run into glad summers of ease, Nor will we dread winter's cold, nor its pain. In that land, Oh, that land that shall quiet our regrets, The land of live over again.

Tom The Newsboy

(Concluded.)

A startled cry caused him to turn, and then he saw something that made his heart jump. In the path of an un-coming trolley stood a little girl of about two years. In a flash Tom let fall his papers, and dashed from the sidewalk. Rushing to the spot where the child stood as though riveted, he seized the little one in his arms. But the cat was almost upon them, and then, in a dazed way, he knew he was throwing her to one side. Then it seemed as though something heavy pressed down upon him. Everything became dark and he knew no more. When Tom opened his eyes he was bewildered for a few minutes. The strange room and the strange faces at the bedside made him wonder what had happened. A man with a strangely familiar face bent over and patted his head which somehow felt tightly bound. Tom attempted to lift his right hand, but found he was powerless to move it. Then in a flash came the recollection of what had happened. He made an attempt to sit, but the man gently forced him back. 'Must be quiet for awhile, sonny.'

'The little kid—is it all right?' he asked weakly. 'Good as new,' smiled the man, 'and you're a real brick—a hero, and don't you forget it.' Tom began to wonder in a dazed way where he had seen that man before. Something about his face and manner seemed to impart a sense of security and comfort. Just then to his astonishment who should suddenly appear at the foot of the bed but Lizzie. Her face bore traces of tears but a joyous smile parted her lips as she hurried forward on her errand. A kind-faced woman had come in with her, and she and the smiling man looked on with moist eyes as brother and sister greeted each other affectionately. After the effusive greetings were over and Tom had been assured that the doctor said he wasn't badly hurt and would soon be well, Lizzie whispered: 'Tom, don't you know who the man is?' And the man overbearing, said kindly, 'I don't believe Tom knows an old friend. Take another look.'

'Why, Lizzie, if it isn't the nice fellow that giv' me all that money—that that your little kid I yanked off the track?' Mrs. Lane had quietly left the room, and now she came in carrying a sweet, blue-eyed little girl in her arms. 'Baby wants to kiss Tom and thank him for saving her life.'

All Stuffed Up

That's the condition of many sufferers from catarrh, especially in the morning. Great difficulty is experienced in clearing the head and throat.

No wonder catarrh causes headache, impairs the taste, small and bearing, pollutes the breath, deranges the stomach and affects the appetite. To cure catarrh, treatment must be constitutional—alterative and tonic.

she said. She bent over and Margaret gave her rescuer a resounding kiss on the cheek. 'Tom—nice boy—I like Tom, mama' she announced. Then Mrs. Lane tenderly embraced the boy and said many kind, beautiful things to Tom and Lizzie, too. And that night Lizzie slept in a pretty little room in the Lane home, and it all seemed like fairyland, or, it would have seemed that way had it not been that Tom was injured. Still, she knew that Mrs. Lane was sitting up with him that night and taking the best care possible of the good, brave boy. And several times she stole in softly to see if Lizzie was comfortable, and tucked the blankets around her, and Lizzie, as she went off to sleep almost imagined that her own dear, kind mother was back again.

Well, Tom and Lizzie kept on staying at the Lane's and finally it was all arranged that they would make their home with these new friends. Mr. and Mrs. Lane were happy to befriend them and brighten their existence especially since they learned that they were Catholics like themselves.

So now Tom goes to college instead of selling evening papers and Elizabeth is rapidly regaining health and strength under the care of a skillful surgeon. And the Lane household is one of the happiest on earth.

Hildebrand And The Green Chicken

A well-known French author Theophile Gautier, had a splendid cat, all yellow-and-black velvet, named Hildebrand. Hildebrand was the handsomest of cats and a very imperious one, allowing no liberties to be taken with him, and strongly resenting anyone else's pets being introduced to his master. Ordinary cats took care to keep out of his way, for he really resembled a small tiger more than a creature like themselves. His master thought Hildebrand the finest thing going, and Hildebrand thought well of his master, but more of Hildebrand. One day a friend of Gautier's asked him to look after his parrot for the day, as he was obliged to leave town.

'Certainly,' said the author, 'bring him along. I'll be company for Hildebrand while I write.' Polly and her perch were brought in; Polly's master departed; and Gautier settled down comfortably to his writing. Hildebrand at his side on the soft cushion on which he loved to doze. But there was no doze today. He fixed an eye of cold shining emerald on the newcomer blinking a bit now and then, as if considering the situation. Poor Polly saw that unfriendly eyes, and feeling instinctively what was coming, gazed just as fixedly; but there was no fright in that gaze, which Hildebrand was not long in finding out. His owner, wrapped up in his work, saw nothing of what was going on silently at his side. He didn't know what thoughts were gathering in the brain of Hildebrand, nor what fears were shivering along the spine of Polly.

'What can the thing be?' said Hildebrand to himself. 'It's not a cat—it's not a dog. I don't know what it is. It's nothing I've ever seen before. I wonder if I could tell any better if I got closer.' 'What can the thing be?' said Polly to herself. 'It's not—I don't think it's a cat—it's not a dog. It's something I don't like the looks of. I hope it won't get any closer. Oh, if that man would only look around! If I could only get off this perch! Oh—! It's coming!'

THAT PERSISTENT HACKING, RACKING, COUGH

Can Be Quickly Relieved By Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup.

The terrible, hacking, lung-racking cough that sticks to you in spite of everything you have done to get rid of it, is a great danger to your health, and the longer it sticks, the more serious the menace becomes.

The constant coughing keeps the lungs and bronchial tubes in such an irritated and inflamed condition they get no chance to heal.

You will find in Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup a remedy that loosens the phlegm and heals and soothes the lungs, thereby fortifying them against serious pulmonary disease.

Mr. J. W. F. Whiteley, Vermilion, Alberta, writes: "I was suffering from a very severe hacking cough, and all the remedies I tried failed to relieve me. At last I secured a bottle of "Dr. Wood's" and after taking it I secured great relief. Needless to say it is now my intention to always keep a supply on hand."

"Dr. Wood's" is 35c. and 60c. a bottle as all dealers. The genuine is put up in a yellow wrapper, three points of the mark manufactured only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

I've ever seen before. I wonder if I could tell any better if I got closer. 'What can the thing be?' said Polly to herself. 'It's not—I don't think it's a cat—it's not a dog. It's something I don't like the looks of. I hope it won't get any closer. Oh, if that man would only look around! If I could only get off this perch! Oh—! It's coming!'

Hildebrand's yellow-and-black was up in ruffles. His eyes were opening and shutting and sending out sparks like Catherine-wheels. His tongue was licking swiftly, though softly, across his lips.

'It's a green chicken!' he said. 'It's got no business here, out of the chicken-yard. I'll put it in its place and keep it safe.'

A bound—he was on the perch. Then—a mew that was a scream, a rush for life! From out the green chicken's throat came a deep rough voice, such as no green chicken ever before spoke with—

'Had your breakfast, Jack?' Polly spent the rest of the day very pleasantly and went home with her master in the evening in high spirits. Hildebrand spent the rest of the day under the sofa, whence no coaxing or persuasions could dislodge him. The 'chicken' was not so 'green' as he thought!

Magistrate: "Did I understand you to say that the parties used high words?" Police Witness: "Their voices were pitched rather high, sir, but the words used were extremely low."

One of the best known guides in Nova Scotia gives this testimonial of MINARD'S LINIMENT—

Have used MINARD'S LINIMENT in my home, hunting and lumber camps for years and consider it the best white liniment on the market. I find that it gives quick relief to minor ailments, such as Sprains, Bruises and all kinds of wounds. Also it is a great remedy for coughs, colds, etc., which one is liable to catch when log driving and cruising during the winter and spring months. I would not be without MINARD'S LINIMENT and cannot recommend it too highly.

HEART AND NERVES BOTHERED HER. Housework Played Her Out.

Mrs. Earl Parr, Ogema, Sask., writes: "Three years ago my heart and nerves began to bother me. I could not do my housework without being almost completely played out. After sweeping a small room I would have to sit down and rest, and would feel as if I could not get through it. Every few nights I would have horrid dreams, such as the well saving in which I was pumping a pail of water, or the children, or my husband falling in, and I could get no rest at all. I would be awake some time after. I went to my doctor, and he told me it was my nerves, that they had been shaken by a nervous illness. He gave me some medicine, but as soon as it was gone I was as bad as ever. I got a box of Minard's Heart and Nerve Pills, and they helped me so much. I got more, and can truly say I have no lack of health now, and don't feel so tired after a good day's work, as I did before after sweeping one small room; also have had none of those horrid dreams for months and months. Price 50c. a box at all dealers."

FOR OUR January Carnival of Economy

The old year took away, forever, we hope, the old burden of war prices. For months conditions have been working toward the great climax that brought the remarkable merchandise that is here assembled for this our greatest January Carnival of Economy.

The results came in two ways: 1st. The drastic lowering of prices on our own stocks, down to the new low basis, and often far below it—to double your interest in January buying in our store.

2nd. We have combed the markets—taking utmost advantage of the opportunities created by far sighted manufacturers who were ready to co-operate with us in presenting to you now the lowest prices that will be possible, for the next six months, at least.

We can just see the delight of our Customers when they see the splendid assortment of goods, in every department of our store, and then realize that prices are away down to the bottom, where it is a pleasure to buy things.

Many Manufacturers have ACCEPTED LARGE LOSSES. We shall forgo a large part of our profits on the new goods and accept large losses on our own mark-downs—to inaugurate this first New Year under the New Management and

THE MOST STIRRING JANUARY PRICE-UPSET THAT THIS COMMUNITY HAS EVER KNOWN.

No matter what you need or desire, now is the best time for months to come to buy it. Some of the reasons are told on this page; but scores of others are here that can get no mention today, even in this broad space.
