Women Are in Their Glory Now

It is natural for a woman to blossom out in the Spring the same as any other flower. It is natural for her to array herself in colors suitable to her charm, and to surround herself with that aroma of mystery which is at once the essence of all creative life.

As a man goes down the streets these days he sees a riot of color and a procession of charm that fairly dazzles him. And the woman that has not something new to wear, some color to flaunt, some attractiveness to display, is sadly out of it. And nobody knows this better than the woman herself.

This charm is not a matter of beauty alone. It depends a great deal upon the clothes. A man can talk all he pleases about the grace of simple beauty in a calico dress, but let a woman go by in a pretty afternoon suit with dainty low shoes and an aviation hat, and if that man doesn't break his neck in following her with his eyes it will be because his feet were quick enough to save him.

No, Madam. Listen to all this simple beauty talk as much as you please. Listen quietly while your husband, or your brother, or your lover tells you about beauty unadorned, (one of the best things a clever woman ever does is to listen quietly while a man is making a fool of himself.) And after they have finished all their tirade against the extravagance of dress and the folly of it, you go out and be as extravagant and as foolish as you can, and you'll twist some man's head on his shoulders never fear.

Let them talk, (a woman can always listen well while she's thinking of something else) and while they are talking, you turn quietly through this paper, to the advertising of new spring clothes and shoes and hats and stockings and waists and lingerie. Don't say anything, but read every advertisement carefully, and just plan out your shopping trip as fast as you can.

This advertising will tell you just where to go and what to buy. It will help you in your decisions and your judgments, and it will bring you back looking better than you've ever looked before; making you feel that you are part of this great colorful throng of women that comes each year with the Spring. Buy everything you can. Life is short, and the time to enjoy it is now.

And in parting remember this: a man will probably forgive you in a new hat, but he'll certainly forget you in an old one.

Goes to Cathedral.

Rt. Rev. Monsignor Roche, of the R. C. Cathedral, will leave here by the Mongolian and will go to Europe for a health trip. Rev. J. McDermott, of St. Patrick's will be transferred to the Cathedral in the absence of Monsignor Roche, and Rev. J. Coady has been assigned to St. Patrick's. We learn that in the near future some three young priests recently ordained at Rome will come here and will be assigned to duty at the Cathedral.

Stricken Suddenly and Fatally.

While Mr. Solomon Snow, an aged shipwright, was at work on the dock premises Saturday afternoon he became suddenly ill and was borne to his residence, Rossiter's Lane, where he had lived alone for the past couple of years. Drs. Paterson and Pritchard were present, and Rev. Fr. Kelly, of St. Patrick's, administered the last Sacraments. Though the man protested against it he had to be sent to Hospital in the ambulance as to leave him in the house which he tenanted alone would be heartless, the surroundings being anything but pleasant especially for a sick person. Mr. Snow died at the Hospital yesterday. The deceased though so far advanced in years (he was 87) was a remarkably hardy man and was energetic and industrious and worked until overtaken by his last illness. He was a man of more than ordinary hardihood, pluck and daring and those who knew him in the prime of manhood say that he was a splendid type of the Newfoundland fisherman and seaman.

LONDON, To-day.
Suffragettes had plenty of evidence yesterday that the public are tired of militancy and only the protection afforded by a large body of police saved the women from the hands of an angry mob. At Brighton, the suffragettes were chased off the esplanade and took refuge in a neighboring house. This was surrounded by howling thousands who bombarded the place with stones and smashed every window. In defiance of the ban on meetings in Hyde Park, the Women's Social and Political Union attempted to carry on a propaganda there. Londoners had anticipated that an attempt would be made and 20,000 assembled at the customary meeting place. No sooner had the suffragettes mounted the box and unfurled the militants flag, than the police interfered.

"I commit my soul into the hands of my Saviour in full confidence that having redeemed it and washed it in His most precious blood, He will present it faultless before the throne of my Heavenly Father, and I entrust my children to maintain and defend at all hazards, and at any cost of personal sacrifice the blessed doctrine of complete atonement for sin through the Blood of Jesus Christ, once offered, through that alone." This is the striking utterance which begins the last will and testament of J. P. Morgan, who died at Rome, March 31st last. The amount bequeathed in trusts named by specific sums is under twenty million dollars, but the entire residue of estate is left to J. P. Morgan, Jr., who is designated by his father, becomes chief heir not only to his fortune, but to his many charitable and artistic activities. Public charity bequests are comparatively small in the direction of those objects in which Mr. Morgan's benefactions are already known. The disposition of the estate follows: The first provisions are those of his own family. To his wife Frances Louis A. Tracey Morgan, an income for life from the trust fund of one million dollars with power to dispose of the capital by will. Mrs. Morgan is already entitled to an income from the trust fund created by Junius Spencer Morgan (Morgan's father) by deed dated July 1st, 1867. The will provides that she is now to receive for life an income from additional trust of such an amount that her total income from these two trusts shall (aside from income of one million dollars fund) amount to $100,000 a year. Mrs. Morgan also receives during her life Cragton, Morgan's country house at Highland Falls, N. Y., also the Morgan home at No. 219 Madison Avenue, New York city together with furniture, paintings, etc. (except family portraits) in both houses. His son John Pierpont Morgan, Jr. receives an outright legacy of $3,000,000; three daughters receive each an income for life from a trust fund of $3,000,000. Morgan's two sons-in-law receive each an outright legacy of a million. To each of the employees at time of death, in the firm of J. P. Morgan & Company, of the city of New York, except Charles W. King, above named, an amount equal to one year's salary, and to each person who survive him who was at the time of the dissolution of the firm of J. S. Morgan & Company, London, as employee thereof, an amount equal to one year's salary. Morgan's valet, Edward Phillips, receives a legacy of $15,000. Various annuities are provided to other servants in recognition of faithful service. A charitable bequest that $100,000 for a House of Rest for consumptives be designated as Amelia Sturge's Morgan Memorial Fund, in memory of Morgan's first wife. Mr. Morgan having thus provided for immediate relatives, various friend employees, servants, charity, etc., declares that the residue of his property shall be bequeathed to his son John Pierpont Morgan, Jr., his heirs, for his and their own use forever.

Obituary.
MRS. E. HART.
The death of Mrs. Elizabeth Hart, aged 88, an esteemed lady of Freshwater Road, and widow of the late William Hart, of Trinity, occurred last night. Deceased had been ailing for over three years. Three sons and a number of grandchildren survive. The Telegram extends sympathy.
LEO O'NEIL.
The death occurred early yesterday morning at his residence, Cabot St., of Master Leo O'Neil, only son of Mr. P. J. O'Neil, of the Customs Department. The deceased who had been ill for sometime past was an intelligent young chap and liked by all who knew him. He was especially gifted as a musician and could perform on several instruments with remarkable proficiency. To his parents and other relatives the Telegram extends its sympathy.
MRS. HARTIGAN.
There passed peacefully away in East Boston, on Thursday, 17th inst., Margaret, beloved wife of Leo Hartigan. The deceased lady had been in indifferent health for some time before the final call came. She received the most expert medical treatment during her illness, but this proved futile to arrest the onward march of the dread reaper—Death, that respecteth neither the high nor the lowly, the young nor the old. The loving ministrations of a devoted and fond husband and an affectionate sister were hers when her falling strength and weakening spirit needed the milk of human kindness. Before the inevitable dissolution she received all the religious consolation that the Holy Catholic Church bestows upon her dying children, thus making easy the transition of the soul from this vale of tears to a better world beyond the grave. Fortified with the Holy Sacraments of the Church and with an entire submission to the Eternal decree, her spirit departed from its tenement of clay. Her end was peace. Mrs. Leo Hartigan was the eldest daughter of the late Michael Colford who died some fourteen years ago. She was twenty-eight years of age at the time of her death; nine years ago she went to Boston where she readily found employment congenial to her taste. Her sociality won her many and true friends to the great American city. Three years ago she united her fortunes with Mr. Leo Hartigan who now mourns the early demise of an affectionate helpmate. A child, the issue of their marriage, predeceased her in September last, aged nine months. She leaves to mourn her beside her husband a mother—Mrs. William Hogan, a step-father—Mr. William Hogan, two sisters, Nellie and Mary Alice, to whom the heartfelt sympathy of the community goes forth in this sad hour of their affliction. Maggie, as she was familiarly known, was possessed of a most amiable disposition; to know her was to love her. Her obsequies took place in the land of her adoption on Saturday, 19th inst. May her soul rest in peace.—Com.
