The Experimental Farm.

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir,—I always read with great pleasure the numerous letters of your correspondents, especially when their subject is pertaining to the interest of this country and when they are able to expose fraud and extravagance and likewise able to back their assertions by facts and figures. In your issue of Tuesday evening I was very much interested in a letter signed "Ogdenham," where he exposes the utter failure of the agricultural policy of the present Government. I with other fair-minded men heartily endorse every word he wrote, but I trust he will excuse me for adding a few remarks pertaining to the Experimental Farm. It has been my privilege to watch the growth of that institution from its humble beginning, when the stables were situated on Hamilton Street, until it reached a state of perfection not to be equalled by any other town of the size of this city. It has also been my pleasure to inspect the system in its various stages at all seasons, from the preparing of the soil to the gathering of the harvest, and although not an agriculturalist or stock breeder, I am able to say with emphasis that no expert could have beaten the then energetic superintendent, Mr. Thomas Ryan, and his able two or three assistants. I spent many happy hours watching them at their varied and arduous work, and heard nothing but the profoundest expressions of wonder and praise from other visitors. And yet the present Government has seen fit to utterly neglect this most important institution and is now where the present Government will be very soon "Out of existence." Farmers of St. John's—East and West—during Sir Robert Bond's administration you had a boon in this institution. Govern yourselves accordingly.

Thanking you, etc., I remain,
Yours, E. K.

This morning a brief letter appeared in the Daily News signed "Military Road," and which elicited comments from the editor as follows: "Try Mayor Ellis or Councillor Ryan. Possibly they may find time amid their electoral activities to attend to the matter."

Would it interest the editor of the News to know that the West End Inspector is doing little else these days but canvassing with horse and carriage the District of St. John's West for Morris?

Swinburn's Hatred of Tobacco.

Tennyson was the smoking poet of the Victorian era, says the London Chronicle. His two great contemporaries—Browning and Swinburn—hated tobacco, especially Swinburn. He expressed himself with characteristic vehemence. He has wandered into the Arts Club, where he sought and in vain, a room that was free from the fumes of tobacco smoke. At length his fury overcome him. "James I," he exclaimed, "was a knave, a tyrant, a fool, a liar, a coward, but I love him, I worship him, because he slit the throat of that filthy blackguard, Raleigh, who invented this filthy smoking!"

AN EAST END GRIEVANCE.—For years the residents of the eastern suburbs have been promised a light near Mount Carmel Cemetery. Every one recognizes the necessity as it has been promised repeatedly. This is the main artery of the town in the East End and is used by thousands of taxpayers from the city and all down the shore. The people of the West End have lights nearly out to Waterford Bridge, but it appears as if the people in the East End from some mysterious cause or another cannot get one.

Saving Simplified!

It has always been said that for the average man or woman the first $100 is the hardest to save. Now through our partial payment plan everybody can easily save this amount and in addition become the owner of an income-producing bond or share of stock.

$100 may seem like a small amount to save—but if you can save it often enough you can accumulate as large a fund as you wish.

Or if you have the money to pay the 20 p. c. initial deposit on five or ten times this amount, and the 10 p.c. monthly payments, you may conveniently obtain as many securities on this plan as your means will permit.

POLICE COURT. — Three drunks were discharged, one fined $1 or 3 days, and one fined $4 or 14 days. A drunk and disorderly in charge of a horse was fined $10. Felix Bransfield, a 42-year-old pedlar, charged with cutting and wounding Hubert Tizzard, with a razor, with intent to do grievous bodily harm, was remanded.

Slashed With Razor.

Hubert Tizzard Receives Two Scars 10 inches and 5 inches long.

Last night a sensation was created on Job's wharf caused by a man being seriously stabbed. The victim is Hubert Tizzard, belonging to Old Perlican, who now lies at the General Hospital badly wounded, and the perpetrator of the deed is one Felix Bransfield, a pedlar, who is at present in the Penitentiary.

About seven o'clock Bransfield went down on Job's wharf where a number of crafts are berthed with fish cargoes. The pedlar had in his possession thirty-two rings, a dozen razors and twenty watch chains, which he was trying to sell to the fishermen. At 7.30 he visited the schooner Rambler and endeavouring to dispose of a razor to Hubert Tizzard, who began to examine the article before purchasing it. A few minutes after both men were seen by men from the other crafts walking off the wharf together. Coming through the archway leading to Job's Cove, the pedlar brandished a sharp razor and plunged it into the fisherman's back and then cutting him in a part of his back. As soon as the deed was committed Bransfield fled leaving his victim on the wharf, bleeding profusely. The police were immediately acquainted and in the meantime Tizzard was brought to his craft where he was examined by Dr. Cowperthwaite who found a scarfully ten inches long and an inch deep in the man's back, taking thirty stitches to close it; also finding a bad wound, extending from the back of the head to the left shoulder, ten inches long and an inch deep necessitating 15 stitches to close it. After doing all possible Dr. Cowperthwaite ordered the injured man to Hospital where he was taken in the ambulance. A half an hour later Constable Symonds who had a description of the pedlar, arrested him on Water Street. What led to the stabbing no one is prepared to say and the police got no theory to offer. To-day the accused appeared before Judge Knight charged with cutting and wounding with the intent of doing grievous bodily harm. He was not asked to plead and was remanded for eight days.
