He belongs, too, to the same tribe as the two have been fortunate in securing the contract men now dead who received bullets from the revolvers of Jailer Allen and Sergeant Levin, and when Constable Gilchrist approached him he determined to avenge himself on one member of the force at least, for his tribe's misadventures. The inquest into the death of the little boy killed by the locomotive of the E. & N. passenger train Friday at McKenzie's gravel pit, resulted yesterday in a verdict of accidental death. The driver, John Hughes, stated that the train was going at 18 miles an hour when he caught sight of the child on the brakes immediately and the fireman rang the bell. The child then walked off the track and stood beside the tool house, but almost immediately walked on to the track again within about 50 feet of the engine. The engine which was then going very slowly was reversed at once but the child was so close that it was impossible to avert the accident. The fireman, conductor, and other witnesses corroborated Hughes' evidence. Herbert Phipps, the father of the dead child, stated that his little son was only a year and ten months old. Its Terrible Effects.

A Shattered Nervous System Built Up and Strengthened By Paine's Celery Compound.

It is in the combined perfection of sensation, motion, intelligence and speech that man excels all created animals. The brain, that grand centre of sensation and perception, and the whole nervous system, are wonderfully made, and man's happiness and very life depend upon their condition of health.

The human brain and the nervous system become impaired, shattered and broken down in various ways. Careless living, loose habits and over-indulgences, when persisted in, and continued for a length of time, tend to wreck and destroy the whole nervous organism.

There is no form of disease that can more rapidly shatter the system, or more rendered his brother officers many valuable services which helped to make the course pass smoothly and pleasantly and they took this form of showing their appreciation.
